U. S., Soviets sign nuclear test treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev today signed a precedent-setting treaty that will open some Russian nuclear test sites to American inspectors for the first time.

The simultaneous ceremonies here and in Moscow followed 18 months of complex negotiations and may, according to U.S. officials, spur negotiations in Geneva to reach a long-delayed agreement limiting strategic nuclear weapons.

Terms of the five-year treaty permit American inspectors to visit sites when the Russians conduct certain underground blasts that have potential use for changing the levels of rivers or excavating for minerals.

Years ago, American scientists abandoned the idea of experimenting with underground nuclear explosions for those purposes.

But the Soviets remain interested in such projects, and the treaty limits the megaton level of any single blast for such a purpose to 150 kilotons — the equivalent of 150,000 tons of TNT.

Until now, the Soviet Union has refused to permit any foreign inspectors on Russian soil.

Although weapons sites remained off-limits, U.S. officials said the breakthrough could eventually remove a principal obstacle to a treaty prohibiting all nuclear testing.

Since smaller explosions could escape other means of detection, the U.S. has been reluctant to press ahead for a broader treaty until the Russians permitted on-site inspection.

Although the treaty signed by Ford and Brezhnev bans peaceful underground explosions with a force of more than 150 kilotons, it allows a series of blasts that could total up to 1,500 kilotons, provided the explosions are spaced no more than five seconds apart. American inspectors would be allowed to check any series exceeding 150 kilotons.

The agreement, and an earlier accord prohibiting underground weapons tests of more than 150 kilotons, will be submitted to the Senate for ratification "in a very modest period of time," U.S. officials said.

Some arms control analysts have expressed doubt about the value of the twin pacts, saying the ceiling is too high to be meaningful. Defenders within the administration stress the precedent of on-site inspection and the detailed arrangements worked out by the two countries to exchange geological and testing data.

American inspectors monitoring Soviet facilities will be permitted to take depth soundings and to examine the hole left by the explosion, but not the nuclear device itself. They will use a cable with an oscillator at the end which indicates the force of the blast.

The treaty limiting weapons tests was signed in Moscow in 1974 by then-President Richard M. Nixon and Brezhnev. Ratification has been held up for completion of the second agreement, which U.S. officials said will make it easier to distinguish between weapons and peaceful tests.

Terms were completed in early April by negotiators in Moscow. The treaty was initialed May 12 but the signings were delayed.

TIME OUT — The action on the soccer field ceases as fullback Doug Haines, 4, son of Mrs. Becki Stewart, of Washington C.H., stops to tie that blasted shoestring of his that persists on coming loose each time the game reaches a crucial point. Doug, and his teammate, Tommy Osborne, 4, confided that they both are convinced that one of their Kiddie Care Day Care Center soccer opponents, ranging in age from three to five, have some how managed to jinx Doug's shoestrings. Tommy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold (Crystal) Osborne, of Hillsboro.

B'burg wins $41,000 water supply grant

BLOOMINGBURG—The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency has announced that a $41,000 public water supply grant will be awarded to the village of Bloomingburg as soon as all necessary paperwork is completed.

The grant will be used to help fund the improvement of the village's water supply treatment facilities and will help to assure a safe, clean water supply to local residents, the Ohio EPA said.

The water system improvement is part of a $1 million sewer and water project already under construction in Bloomingburg.

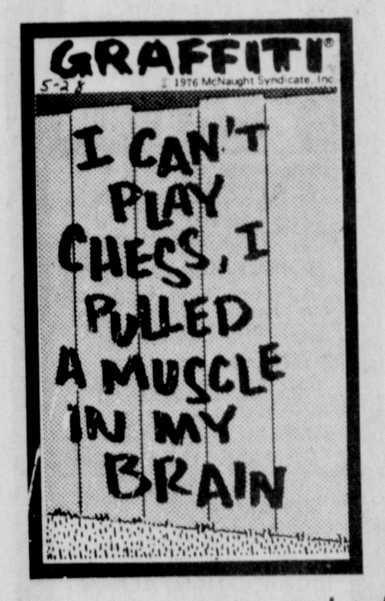
Bloomingburg's grant is part of a $832,630 EPA package that will go to Medina County and 10 small Ohio communities including Jamestown. The funds are part of a reappropriation, by the Ohio General Assembly, of unobligated public water supply grant funds.

In 1973, the Ohio General Assembly authorized the Ohio EPA to spend $2.5 million in general revenue sharing funds for the improvement of public water supplies across the state.

Two of the communties receiving grants will use the funds to build covers for their uncovered finished water reservoirs.

Bloomingburg's project calls for the installation of water meters, additions to the water filtering system and the drilling of another well.

Communities designated to receive grants are chosen through a criteria system. This method measures the adequacy of existing water treatment plants to meet bacteria and chemical measurements standards, the adequacy of supply sources and the possibility of abandoning unsatisfactory water supplies.



Red Cross issues appeal for blood

A special appeal has been issued by the Fayette County chapter of the American Red Cross for blood donors Tuesday.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Grace United Methodist Church, corner of N. North and E. Market streets, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Tuesday.

"Due to the number of open heart surgeries scheduled for this area, the demand on the blood bank has been greater than usual," said Miss Helen L. Slavens, 426 S. Fayette St., executive secretary of the Fayette County chapter of the American Red Cross.

"We really need to have a good turnout this time to keep our allotments. We can't let down," Miss Slavens said.

Tuesday's Bloodmobile visit is being sponsored by the Alpha Theta sorority in Washington C.H.

A quota of at least 160 pints of blood has been established.

Appointments for donations may be completed by calling Miss Slavens (335-3101) at the local Red Cross office.

Members of the local Welcome Wagon will provide babysitting services in the nursery of the church and members of the Washington C.H. Business and Professional Women's Club will furnish transportation.

Corporations to bail out state cash woes?

Ohio solons eye tax flow problems

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats on the House Finance Committee have revived a once-vetoed proposal requiring corporate taxpayers to bail the state out of its cash flow problems.

They inserted it into a supplemental appropriations bill Thursday while challenging GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes on still another front—his order for a 2 per cent spending cut that affected state agencies across the board.

With the legislature in recess until June 9, Chairman Myrl Shoemaker's committee is considering a supplemental spending measure that totaled $150.8 million after Thursday's deliberations.

Among more than $12 million worth of additions to the bill, which totaled $138.5 million when introduced, was $10.2 million to restore the 2 per cent cut for the financially troubled welfare department.

Rhodes, who has remained adamant in his refusal of Democratic requests to restore the cuts for all agencies, is virtually certain to veto the proposal if it remains intact following House and Senate floor action.

Rep. George D. Tablack, D-52 Campbell, offered the amendment that would require industry and others paying the corporate franchise tax to make quarterly payments in advance, instead of annually in January, so the state would have cash to pay its bills during months of low revenues. It was approved 10-3 with all three Republicans present voting no.

Rhodes vetoed similar language out of the regular, two-year budget bill he signed into law last June after some small and medium size industries said it could drive their already marginal operations out of business, costing the state jobs. The veto represented a reversal in position for Rhodes, who earlier had espoused the idea as a means of solving ready cash problems, and Democrats haven't let him forget it.

Tablack's amendment doesn't mean a tax increase for industry, only that they would be called upon in August to begin advance quarterly payments. Twenty-five per cent, or $87.8 million, would be due then, another 25 per cent in November, and the remaining 50 per cent next March 31. Ordinarily, they would pay up on Jan. 31.

The amendment provides that those businesses with tax liabilities of less than $1,000 would pay annually in March as they do now. The Mahoning County lawmaker said the exemption protects 77 per cent of Ohio's corporate taxpayers, or 53,884 out of 69,778.

In other action, the committee earmarked $47 million of $128.5 million in unappropriated welfare funds to meet current obligations to Medicaid providers. They agreed, however, that the move doesn't solve a Medicaid liability which is expected to soar to about $120 million more than earlier estimates in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Bridal edition appears today

"Happy Wedding Day '76," a special 20-page supplement devoted to prospective brides and grooms, is contained in today's edition of the Record-Herald.

Featured in the section are Mr. and Mrs. Garry Garrison, Prairie Road. The new bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Van Dyke, of New Martinsburg, and the new groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Garrison, of Greenfield. The couple was married May 15 in the New Martinsburg United Methodist Church.

Neil Arthur and Bill Metais, members of the Record-Herald advertising department staff, accompanied the couple as they visited stores and businesses in the Washington C.H. area to plan for their wedding.

The result of the work done by Arthur and Metais is a photo story on wedding planning which appears throughout the special edition.

Also featured in the section are advertisements by Fayette County merchants concerning wedding planning, setting up housekeeping, plus a variety of shower and wedding gift suggestions.

Stories in the special bridal edition, compiled and edited by members of the Record-Herald news staff, cover many phases of wedding preparations.

June, the traditional month for weddings, is but four days away. If you are planning a wedding, check the special edition for many ideas for that very special day.

Truck driven by escapees found

Area residents along the Bloomingburg-New Holland Road who might have seen a dump truck driving their way were wrong if they believed a new county garbage collecting system was being established.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that the white dump truck, seen heading northbound on the Bloomingburg-New Holland Road, was driven by two escapees from the Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

At 2:32 p.m. Wednesday, Fayette County jailer-dispatcher Terry Summers received a report that James Barnes, 54, of Cincinnati, and Heinz Kruse, 39, of Loveland, had escaped from the Chillicothe Correctional Institute in a white dump truck, and were believed to be in the New Holland area. The two merit status inmates had been working on prison grounds outside the institute when they escaped around

Bridge replacement project scheduled

COLUMBUS—Bids for a two-part Fayette County bridge replacement project on Good Hope-New Holland Road in Marion and Wayne townships will be opened in Columbus on June 15 by the Ohio Department of Transportation.

Programmed estimated cost for the two improvement projects is $205,000.

Existing, narrow posted bridges over Compton Creek in Wayne Township and the north fork of Paint Creek in Marion Township will be replaced with new, prestressed concrete, non composite, box beam bridges with reinforced concrete substructures.

According to the Ohio Department of Transportation, the bridge decks will be 28 feet wide between guaradrails and paved with a two and one-half inch asphalt concrete wearing surface.

Through traffic will be routed the replacement project sites over White Road and U.S. 22-E; however, local access will be maintained with both the bridges not closed to traffic at the same time.

Estimated completion date is May 31, 1977.

Carter lashes out at political foes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jimmy Carter wiped a smile off his face Thursday to issue a blistering attack at those he said wanted to derail his front-running campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination and "continue politics as usual."

Carter, who could come close to clinching a first-ballot nomination with a big victory in Ohio June 8, headed today for a rally with a United Rubber Workers Union local in Akron, and stop-offs in Youngstown and Steubenville.

In a speech before the Ohio AFL-CIO convention in Cincinnati, the former Georgia governor charged that his critics intended to preserve "at all cost their entrenched, unresponsive, bankrupt and irresponsible political power."

"I haven't skipped a state, I haven't avoided an opponent, I haven't evaded an issue," Carter told nearly 1,500 AFL-CIO delegates. "But I'm facing opposition from those who want to continue politics as usual."

"We've seen this campaign come full circle from Jimmy Who, 16 months ago, to stop Carter," he added before carrying his campaign across the state for rallies and fund raisers at Elyria, Lorain, Cleveland and East Cleveland.

Carter saved his individual barbs for President Ford and Ronald Reagan who he branded "tweedle dee and tweedle dum. There's no difference between them" In Cleveland, Carter told newsmen he did not mean to single out Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, or California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. as elements in any stop Carter movement.

"I don't think any of them are trying to stop me," he said. "They're legitimately running for president." He did not mention Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., but it was unclear whether that was an oversight or intentional.

His press secretary, Jody Powell, issued a clarification of Carter's remarks in Lorain.

"He does not think it would be proper for him to call by name or single out other Democrats," the spokesman said. But Powell conceded the "implication was clear" that the convention remarks were aimed at "the Fords and the Reagans and the unnamed Democrats."

Carter closed out his speech to representatives of 10 million member labor union on a high note and then avoided any sharp rhetoric about his opposition at succeeding stops.

"I'm running for president because I have a vision of a new America, a different America, a better America," he said. "I have a vision of an America that in Bob Dylan's phrase, is busy being born and not dying." Carter paraphrased from the folk-stylist's song, "It's All Right Ma, I'm Only Bleeding."

Silver Bridge claims rejected by court

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The state Court of Claims today denied $6.4 million in claims from the 1967 collapse of the Silver Bridge.

The 58 claims for wrongful death, personal injury and property damage were filed against the state Highway Department, which owned the bridge over the Ohio River when it collapsed on Dec. 15, 1967, killing 46 persons.

The claims had alleged that the Highway Department (formerly the state Roads Commission) was negligent in not inspecting and maintaining the twin eyebar suspension bridge.

"We are of the firm opinion that the collapse of the Silver Bridge on the evening of Dec. 15, 1967, could not have been anticipated or foreseen by the respondent (the Highway Department) in the exercise of reasonable care," said the 39-page opinion by the three-member court.

"The ultimate collapse was caused by a fracture of Eyebar 330 resulting from a phenomenon unknown to bridge engineers when the Silver Bridge was constructed in 1926 and unknown to bridge engineers on the date of its collapse.

"The statute which created this court authorized us to make awards in claims that the state of West Virginia and in equity and good conscience should discharge and pay. If that was our only guideline, this court, possessing the normal attributes of sympathy and compassion, would not hesitate to make awards.

"However, we have always interpreted this grant of jurisdiction to include the necessity of finding legal liability upon the state, before the test of equity and good conscience can be applied.

"We believe that in deciding claims, we must be bound by sound legal principles, and being of opinion that sound legal principles do not authorize recoveries, we hereby deny the claims arising out of the collapse of the Silver Bridge," the opinion said.

Tragic bus crash knits group

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — None were friends until they met in the hospital waiting room, each the parent of a child critically injured in California's worst school bus tragedy.

"Now, we have a special kind of closeness," said one.

By Thursday, the four girls still patients at Mt. Diablo Hospital had improved enough to be listed in good condition.

The four were members of the Yuba City High School choir. They were traveling to another school for a concert a week ago today when their chartered bus sailed off a highway exit ramp. It landed upside down 25 feet below.

Twenty-eight students and a music teacher were killed. Memorial services were planned today at Yuba City High School and two nearby high schools.

The heart of one of the dead — 15-year-old Donald Wright — was transplanted to a 33-year-old man at Stanford Medical Center.

The Alameda County coroner's office confirmed that the body of Wright, whose father is a physician, was taken to Stanford soon after his death. His vital organs were kept functioning with mechanical aids.

Deputy Coroner Kenneth Pollard said young Wright's kidneys and the corneas of his eyes also were used in transplant operations.

The heart recipient was described as a New York resident who had spent some time in Israel before returning to the United States.

JoAnn Watt, whose 16-year-old daughter, Reene, is at Mt. Diablo Hospital, said that before the accident she did not know any of the parents who have become close friends during the hospital vigil. "All the children we knew the parents of were killed," she said.

At least one parent of each of the hospitalized girls has been spending the week in Concord, about 85 miles from home in Yuba City. When they're not in the rooms with their children, they're talking with each other in a conference room set aside for their use.

Their biggest worry now is how their children are taking the news that many of their friends were killed.

"We know now they're going to be physically okay. It's mentally we're worried about," said Mary Kearns, mother of 16-year-old Colleen.

Reene Watt is taking it especially hard — so hard that doctors delayed her removal from intensive care for a day in fear she would hear television reports about the magnitude of the crash.

"I've had knots in my stomach dreading the day I'd have to tell her," Mrs. Watt said.

She said Reene, like the others, could not talk for days because of a tube in her throat that helped her breathe.

"She wrote lots of notes," Mrs. Watt said. "Then she withdrew. Finally, we got it out of her last night, that she wanted to know how bad it was. She still doesn't know who, but we told her that more than half the kids were killed. She hasn't asked any more questions."

Evacuation follows train derailment

RUSHVILLE, Ohio (AP) — "I thought it was a bomb," said Barbara Braglin. "I thought what am I going to do?"

Mrs. Braglin, her husband and their four children were among the 1,500 residents of three tiny Fairfield County communities evacuated Thursday night when 36 cars of a ConRail train derailed, spilling toxic chemicals into the Rush Creek. No injuries were reported from the fumes.

The families began returning to their homes "at their own risk" early today after the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency determined the toxicity level of the chemicals had dissipated.

Fairfield County Sheriff's Deputy Sgt. Jerry Lehman said the EPA advised residents who returned to their homes that they may suffer eye or respiratory irritation from the lingering ammonia oxides but gases were no longer toxic.

Several cars derailed into the creek, including the two tank cars carrying ammonia oxide and monoethylene. Sheriff's deputies said the gases spilled into the water and also formed a cloud which followed the creek south through the valley, routing families in Rushville, West Rushville and Bremen.

"We don't have a phone in our house," Mrs. Braglin said during an interview at Fairfield Union High School near Rushville where about 100 evacuees were temporarily housed."My sister came over and told us we had to evacuate."

Volunteer firemen, deputies and state highway patrolmen from Licking and Fairfield counties went door-to-door in the neighborhoods bringing the residents to several schools in Fairfield and Perry counties.

Accommodations at the high school were hastily arranged to meet the emergency. School officials tried to provide areas for babies and younger children as well as adults.

Country music played over a radio in the cafeteria and youngsters cavorted in the halls while their parents waited for word that the danger had passed.

Some families brought their own food, but enough cookies, doughnuts and beverages to feed everyone appeared as word of the incident spread.

As soon as the EPA determined the danger had passed, cleanup crews began clearing the wreckage from the tracks.

Corruption charged in Teamsters Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — A small group of union dissidents is charging widespread corruption among Teamster union officials, saying they make six-figure salaries, use a fleet of private jets and dine on French cuisine prepared by chefs on the union payroll.

The Professional Drivers Council, known as PROD, charged that the Teamsters is run by "money-hungry and power-hungry" executives lavishly lining their pockets at the expense of the rank-andfile. The council pledged to mount a campaign to force government action if the union refuses to "clean its own house."

The 2,000-member group, representing a handful of the union's 2.3 million members, documented its charges in a 177-page book showing that Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons and numerous other union leaders collect six-figure salaries, have unlimted expense accounts, receive expensive gifts and arrange for their own lucrative pensions.

Arthur Fox, an attorney who serves as PROD's staff director, told a news conference Thursday his organization found wholesale violations of federal labor laws during a 10-month investigation of union financial records filed with the Labor Department.

Teamsters officials declined comment.

While many of the charges in its report were not new, the group presented for the first time in a single document a broad picture of Teamsters officials allegedly abusing their power.

The report noted that on the union headquarters' payrolls are a barber, a physical fitness expert, two French chefs and at least one chauffeur. It added that by way of contrast, the union's entire safety department consists of only two men who are paid about what the two cooks receive.

In addition to high salaries from multiple union jobs — at least 17 officials earn more than $100,000 a year — PROD said at least six officials have unlimited expense accounts covering everything from "a bag of groceries to greens fees at La Costa," the union-financed country club in California.

PROD said several union executives financed new homes with union funds or received "magnificent gifts ranging from new Cadillacs to condominiums."

In addition, the group said, the officials have access to the union's $13-million fleet of executive jet aircraft, second in size only to that of General Motors; they give high-paying jobs to their relatives and punish or harass union members who fight them.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., announced that he has asked the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee to investigate pension abuses alleged in the PROD report.

Stocks edge up slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged upward today amid hopes for a letup in upward pressure on interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose a fraction in the early going, and gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Several major banks this morning announced increases in their prime lending rates from 6¾ to 7 per cent.

But such a development had been widely anticipated all week on Wall Street.

And analysts said there were hopes that a decline in the money supply reported by the Federal Reserve late Thursday would mean less pressure on the Fed to tighten credit.

Recent moves by the Fed that pushed open market money rates higher set the stage for today's prime rate increases.

Early prices among Big Board stocks included Sony, unchanged at 9½; American Broadcasting, down ⅛ at 31¼; McDonald's, up ⅛ at 55⅛, and American Telephone & Telegraph, ahead ⅛ at 54¼.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average lost 3.06 to close a three-month low of 965.57.

Escapees

1:40 p.m. Wednesday.

Fayette County Sheriff's deputies were dispatched to the Bloomingburg-New Holland Road, but no sign of the men or truck was found at that time. However, by Friday morning, the dump truck had been located in the northeastern part of Fayette County, along the Rockwell Road, near Madison Mills.

The truck was found at 2 p.m. Thursday in a wooded area on the farm of Cecil Recob, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling. Recob had been plowing an adjacent field when he spotted the vehicle concealed behind trees.

Though two Ohio Highway Patrol airplanes have been used to assist both Fayette and Ross County law enforcement authorities, the two escapees have not been located. According to Joe Ashley, a spokesman for the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction, the pair are not believed to be armed.

Ashley said the two men, who are permitted to work on prison grounds outside the institute, were working with a group of inmates resurfacing a baseball diamond near the prison's honor dormitory just east of the prison facility.

Barnes was sentenced to three to 15 years from Butler and Hamilton counties for a receiving and concealing stolen property conviction. Kruse was sentenced to a five to 25 year term for rape from Clinton County. Both men have been in prison since 1974.

Versailles man wins lottery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Robert McEldowney of Versailles hit the jackpot in the Ohio lottery, winning $1,000 for life Thursday night.

The big prize in the Buckeye 1,000 game guarantees McEldowney, 54, who is single, a minimum of $400,000.

The second prize of $7,500 went to Pauline Napolitan of Hubbard. Other winners included Stanley E. Bruce of Elyria $5,000; Roger L.Williams, Columbus, $4,000; Gene Bader, North Lima, $3,000; Edward Gorsuch, Middletown, $2,000, and Michael Petruzello, Mayfield Heights, $1,000. The following numbers were picked in the weekly drawing

Spirit of '76: 811150, 86984, 7351.

NEW YORK (AP) — Those of you who aren't roaring off for the Memorial Day weekend should take a look tonight at a timely, excellent CBS News special with the straight forward title of "Busing."

It's a calm, valuable examination of the continuing and at times violent protest over the court-ordered busing of children to achieve desegregation in a number of public schools in America.

Narrated and reported by Charles Collingwood, this one hour special basically is a tale of two cities — Boston and Charlotte, N.C.

In the former, he notes, "busing is still a fighting word" after two years of trial, but in Charlotte, where busing was ordered in 1970, the practice "has achieved grudging acceptance."

The show, which examines how parents, kids and officials of the two cities are reacting to court-ordered busing, also goes into two deeper issues of national consequence.

They are whether busing has helped or harmed the quality of education for the kids involved and what effect the Justice Department's possible Supreme Court test of busing will have — before the court reaches any decision — in areas where busing exists and is being fought.

(CBS says the program will be updated before air time in the event Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi decides if the Justice Department will use a school desegregation case as a test of busing.

The seven deadly sins are avarice, sloth, envy, lust, gluttony, pride and anger.

"Fred? It's me again. I finally figured out how we can keep our visits to 10 minutes each."

If you keep your calls to ten minutes each, you can talk to your faraway friends more often. And by dialing direct, without operator assistance, after 5 P.M., a 10-minute call to any state outside Ohio, except Alaska or Hawaii, costs just $2.57 or less, plus tax. Prices are even lower after 11 P.M. and on weekends. It takes a long time to make a good friend. For $2.57 or less, take 10 minutes to keep a good friend. Visit often, by phone.

Dial-direct rates apply on all interstate calls (excluding Alaska) completed from a residence or business phone without operator assistance. They also apply on calls placed with an operator from a residence or business phone where dial-direct facilities are not available. For dial-direct rates to Hawaii, check your operator. Dial-direct rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel-guest, credit card or collect calls, or to calls charged to another number, because an operator must assist on such calls.

Opinion And Comment

Laxity on grade crossings

After many decades of heavy automotive traffic, railway grade crossings continue to be death traps. Many thousands of motorists are injured at such intersections each year, and the annual death toll is around 1,200.

This is naturally a matter of deep concern among safety officials. Since late in 1973 the Federal Highway Administration has paid out 402 million dollars to the states for improvement of grade crossing safety. The joker in the deck is that the states have been very slow to spend this money.

With a few exceptions, they have sat on most of it for more than two years. The federal agency figures that only about 10 million dollars' worth of safety work has been finished. Even the sums actually committed to specific projects though not yet spent amount to only one-fourth of the total received.

The reasons for this sluggish response are not entirely clear, but some are noted by safety experts and federal officials. They cite bureaucratic inertia as one factor, and also observe that highway engineers often tend to prefer other kinds of undertakings to the not very glamorous task of making grade crossings safer. Then there is a special kind of manpower problem: only members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen may install warning devices, but membership has dropped markedly in recent years.

Finally, it seems that in some states there is still a feeling that the railroads have the obligation to make grade crossings safe. This ignores the judgment of Congress and the courts that crossings are a public responsibility. To the extent that states delay grade crossing work for which funds are available, they neglect this responsibility.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

The Communist 'compromise'

The possibility that the Italian Communist Party (PCI) could obtain a plurality in the June 20 general election has touched off a great deal of debate, acrimony and speculation. In the past I have noted that the PCI has a history of standoffishness, if not resistance, to Moscow. A party with its own Lenin (Antonio Gramsci) and a highly sophisticated leadership (Palmireo Togliatti and, after his death, Enrico Berlinguer), the Italians — if only for cultural reasons — considered the Russians arrogant boors. True, Togliatti survived the Moscow purges by behaving himself, but later he had the decency to confess he simply didn't want to be shot. Recently the PCI has called for a "historic compromise" with the Christian Democrats (later adding other groups such as the Socialists), has eliminated the "dictatorship of the proletariat" from its program, and expressed disagreement with Moscow.

The French, British and Spanish (underground) parties have taken a similar line, most notably at the 25th Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (Feb. 24 — March 5), where Berlinguer informed the Russians that his party was for "an open and frank confrontation (with Moscow) of various experiences and positions." The French delegate, Gaston Plissonnier, told a press conference that the recent abandonment of the "dictatorship of the proletariat" by the French Communist Party (PCF) was "not negotiable."

This is strong language, bordering on outright heresy, and has been interpreted by some conservative commentators as a charade deliberately staged by Moscow to get the Western European democratic parties to relax. This is a bit too clever; indeed, two weeks after the Communist Congress adjourned a high Soviet official, Venjamin Midteev fired a salvo at the wandering sheep. It took the form of a 56-page pamphlet entitled "Revisionism in the Service of Anticommunism" (apparently written last Nov.), which denounced criticism fo "proletearian internationalism" (read as "utter subservience to Moscow") and called the "dictatorship of the proletariat the supreme form of democracy."

Those Bolshies are inscrutable, but it stretches the mind to think they are simulatneously running two charades: one to help the PCI and PCF, and the other to cut their ideological throats. No, that dog won't hunt. What then are we to make ot the disarray? Are the PCI and PCF about to lie down with the democratic lambs? Will they prove dedicated to NATO and unwilling to provide military secrets to their onetime masters?

To answer this, you have to realize that separatism in a national communist party in no way coincides with democratization. Four examples come to mind: China, Yugoslavia, Albania and Rumania. The first three have cut the umbilical cord of "proletarian internationalism" and remain national communist dictatorships. The Rumanians, as fine a group of domestic Stalinists one could ask for, are constantly pressing their claim for national autonomy from Moscow. (They have been busy quoting Karl Marx to the effect that the Moldavian S.S.R., which Moscow seized from Rumania after the war, was the Rumanian province of Bessarabia. Radio Peking has also picked up the theme in its Rumanian broadcasts!)

In short, the demand for autonomy, for taking the "national road to communisn," does not in itself indicate any conversion to the principle of one person, one vote and the majority picks up the marbles. With this in the computer, what about the future roles of the PCI and the PCF? Would they, in power, simply set up Italian or French Communist dictatorships and work out a Yugoslav-type relationship with Moscow? As far as the PCF is concerned, I think this would undoubtedly be the case: The whole history of the French Party indicates its utterly undemocratic matrix.

The Italian situation is a bit more optimistic, but from the viewpoint of a democrat not much. The PCI, I think, would revert to a non-Leninist power model similar to that of Gramsci, or of the German Marxist Rosa Luxemburg; namely a dictatorship of "progressive forces" over "reactionary bourgeois elements" with democracy within the "progressive forces." This is an improvement over Lenin, but the central question remains: . . Who defines the "progressive forces"?

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, MAY 29

ARIES
(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

Fairly favorable influences encourage your interests, but do not go overboard in making program changes. Neither reach for the obviously unattainable.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 to May 21)

Stress moderation. As with Aries, do not strive for the unreasonable and do not permit your active mind to carry your physical self beyond sensible bounds.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

This day's accent is on career achievement, improved relations with those in positions of authority. A great day for making room for yourself at the top.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Be wary of overdoing or overplaying your hand. Evaluate true needs, determine essentials — and tackle in order of importance.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Look deeply for answers to problems in which you may have become involved. Don't shut your eyes to them. A bright outlook is your for the seeing.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Curb a tendency to be overly critical. Don't look for weaknesses in others and don't look for flaws in every proposed idea. If one is obvious, point it out, of course.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Take only the short cuts which common sense dictates. In general, you will have to put in extra effort to make this day's activities shape up better, faster.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Don't listen to what "they" say when you have reason to believe the source is questionable. Stress your good judgement and foresight.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

An average day, if you are content to leave it at that. But, if you are ready to accept challenges, it holds the nucleus of fine achievement and new opportunities to reach higher objectives.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Get the other fellow's point of view before making final decisions. You may be pleasantly surprised at the new perspectives you gain.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Be flexible, but not easily turned by every wind that blows; eager to take new steps forward, but not at the cost of future losses.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

A fine day! You may be the recipient of special favors, tokens of good will or other unexpected benefits.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a brilliant intellect and a great love of learning. Your tastes run toward the literary and you have an unusual flair for the dramatic — a tremendous asset should you choose the stage, politics or the law as a career. If you write, your best work would evidence itself in essays, criticism, novels and detective stories. But don't count out journalism and travel literature — "naturals" for the restless, curious Geminian. You have a great gift for oratory and, if starting out in politics or the legal field, this advantage could quickly propel you to a spot in statesmanship or in the diplomatic field. Other areas suited to your talents: exploration, archeology, music and sculpture.

"HELLO, BUG — THIS IS BUGEE."

Ohio Perspective

Wallace having difficult time

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The fiery governor of Alabama is back on the campaign trail in his fourth bid for the presidency. But, Gov. George C. Wallace's campaign has fallen on hard times.

Wallace, who ran as a third party candidate in 1964 and 1968 and as a Democrat in 1972 and this year, has done little active campaigning for the Democratic nomination.

In an appearance in Columbus in April, Wallace told his state supporters he probably would not be making many Ohio appearances because of the press of state business in Alabama.

However, he has held occasional airport appearances in other primary states. An airport appearance at the Greater Cincinnati Airport in Covington, Ky., doubled for both the Kentucky and Ohio primaries.

Wallace's campaign appearances also have been hampered by the paralysis of his legs, the result of a bullet fired by a would-be assassin in the 1972 campaign.

The paralysis also has been an issue in his campaign as some have questioned his ability to physically function as president. Wallace, 56, insists he is in good physical health.

"I'm as healthy as I ever was except that I can't walk," he says. His personal physician, Dr. H.H. Hutchinson, concurred, saying Wallace is "fully capable of serving as president." Hutchinson said Wallace has had "typical problems in day-to-day living of the paraplegic," but said he believes most of the serious problems are "in the past."

However, Wallace refused to submit medical records for review to the Medical World News, which obtained the records of 12 other major candidates.

In economic affairs, Wallace has advocated curtailment of interest rates and government spending, but does not say where he would curtail progams except for the general area of welfare, which he calls "ripoffs." He says "billions of dollars" could be saved by eliminating "ripoffs," but has not been specific on the proposals.

Wallace advocates reforming the tax structure to "make it more equitable and give a break to the middle class." He says revamping of the tax structure would enable business and inndustry to increase productivity "and then the private sector would help to bring about a relief of the unemployment situation."

In January, he proposed a public works program which would emphasize building highways, transit system, sewers, water projects and environmental control projects. He did not specifiy its cost, but said it would be financed by funds diverted from a closely-monitored welfare system and from foreign aid now going to countries which call the United States "imperialist warmongers."

He has called for increasing the personal exemption in income tax from $750 to $1,200, a proposal the Treasury Department says would cost $16 billion to $18 billion in lost tax revenues.

In energy policy, Wallace says the nation must have a strong voluntary conservation program. He says the nation must complete construction of the Alaskan pipeline and build a second pipeline if the oil reserves will support it.

He also has recommended stepped up offshore drilling. But, he says the "big answer" is coal, which could be used to make the United States energy independent.

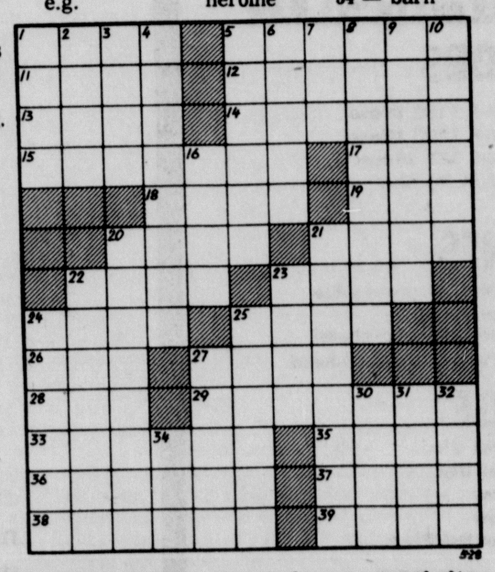
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: ONE OF THE FIRST PRINCIPLES OF PERSEVERANCE IS TO KNOW WHEN TO STOP PERSEVERING. — CAROLYN WELLS

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Neglected wife has daytime liaisons

DEAR ABBY: I am not trying to justify my getting involved with another man, but maybe if you knew what my husband was like, you wouldn't blame me.

I have been married less than five years, and my husband stopped paying attention to me about two years ago. His whole life is sports and running with his unmarried pals. We have one preschool child.

I became so lonely and frustrated that I took up with a man I met while he was demonstrating something in a nearby shopping center (don't say where.) Anyway, this new man in my life has been coming to my home during the daytime while my husband is at work, and I've never been happier!

He's single and wants me to leave my husband for him. Abby, I'm only 25 and have my whole life before me. What should I do?

CONSIDERING A CHANGE

DEAR CONSIDERING: First try to improve your marriage through professional counseling. The new man in your life may provide some temporary excitement, but all you really know about him is that he spends his afternoons with married women while their husbands work. Is THAT the kind of man you want for a husband? Think it over.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for the city of Duluth, Minn.!

Persons caught shoplifting used to be sentenced to clean the cages of the Duluth zoo. Last winter they started something new: Instead of cleaning cages, shoplifters were sentenced to 40 hours of shoveling snow outside the residences of elderly citizens and the infirm.

Now the city gets free labor by putting the law violators to work doing something useful.

DIZZY IZZY IN DULUTH

DEAR DIZZY: Great idea! And in the summer, let 'em rake leaves. (Personally I'd prefer shoveling and raking to cleaning cages in a zoo.)

DEAR ABBY: I work in a two-girl office with a woman who is very pleasant, but she talks too much. Every morning she regales me with stories about what her daughter's boyfriend said or the details concerning her husband's stop-smoking clinic. She talks endlessly about her relatives and neighbors I've never met, and it's all very boring.

I've tried to act interested, but I am bored stiff and resent being kept from my work. I work with figures, and it's not easy to concentrate when I'm interrupted by something she just thought of and has to tell me.

So, how do I get the idea across to her that she shouldn't talk so much? I'm not very good at telling people off.

NO TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR NO TOWN: You don't have to tell her OFF; just tell her that you feel guilty "chatting" when you're being paid to work, so to please save the conversation for before or after office hours. She'll get the message. And if she doesn't, keep repeating it until she does.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, May 28, the 149th day of 1976. There are 217 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, in World War II, British and French troops began an enormous evacuation from Dunkerque, France.

On this date:

In 1863, the first Black regiment from the North in the Civil War left Boston for the front under Colonel Robert Shaw.

In 1864, Archduke Ferdinand Maximilian of Austria-Hungary landed in Vera Cruz, Mexico to become Emperor.

In 1937, British Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin resigned and was succeeded by Neville Chamberlain.

In 1940, King Leopold III of Belgium surrendered his army to German invaders in World War II.

In 1959, two monkeys named Able and Baker survived a 300-mile trip into space after being launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., in the nose of a rocket.

Ten years ago: The military government of South Vietnam attempted to win over Buddhist opposition with gestures of reconciliation after attempting military force.

Five years ago: In Yuba City, Calif., a sheriff confirmed the discovery of five more bodies buried in fruit orchards, bringing the number of killings to 20.

One year ago: President Ford arrived in Brussels, Belgium on his first trip to Europe as President.

Today's birthdays: Retired President Warren Giles of the National Baseball League is 80. Biologist Barry Commoner is 59.

Thought for today: Goodness is the only investment that never fails — Henry David Thoreau, American writer, 1817-1862.

Bicentennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, the London Post published parts of the American revolutionary pamphlet by Thomas Paine, "Common Sense." There was speculation that the author had been Benjamin Franklin, but friends familiar with Franklin's literary style denied it.

Fayette Bible Church features music

An inspirational program of sacred music will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, in Fayette Bible Church.

The program, which features the Bob Jones University Brass Quartet, will include sacred brass selections, all of which have been arranged especially for this ensemble. The musical team also will present vocal selections. In keeping with America's bicentennial, a patriotic section will be included. A brief Gospel message will also be delivered.

Closing program slated by school

The Fayette Christian School will hold its closing program on Friday at 7:30 p.m. Included in the program is a cap and gown graduation of the kindergarten class.

The kindergarten and pre-school classes will be demonstrating the skills that they have learned during the school year. There will be a demonstration in reading, numbers and spelling.

Also included in the program will be patriotic songs, poetry, Bible verses and other music. The public is invited to attend.

The program will be held in the auditorium of the Fayette Bible Church, 1315 Dayton Ave.

GROUP FEATURED—The Good Hope United Methodist Church will present the singing group, "Reflection" at 8 p.m. Monday in the church, following a 6 p.m. potluck supper. The concert is open to the public at no admission charge. However, a free will offering may be made to see the group, comprised of students from Orai Roberts University, Tulsa, Okla.

4-H gathering held by church

The New Holland United Methodist Church observed Rural Life Sunday by having all the 4-H Clubs in the New Holland Area conduct the worship service.

The service was opened by a patriotic piano prelude by Miss Laura Writsel. The presentations of the American Flag, Christian Flag and the 4-H Flag were made by Tom Bishop, Doug Johnson and Jay Johnson. The pledges to the three flags were led by Tracey Webb, Linda Miller and Cindy Dennis.

The "Call to Worship," was led by Karen Miller, while Leora Burdge gave the opening prayer. The "Small World Choir," under the direction of Mrs. Don Conrad and accompanied by Miss Writsel, sang for their last appearance until fall.

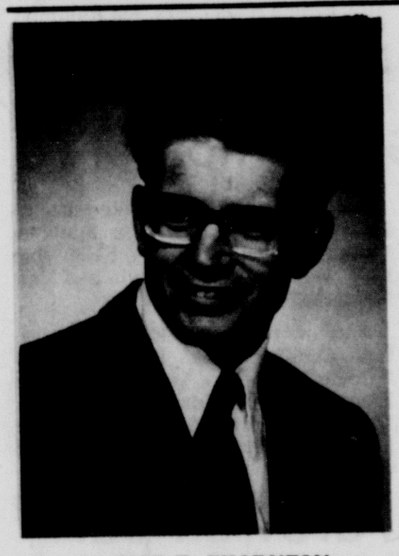
The responsive reading was given by Miss Jane Kearney. Kathy Kirkpatrick presented "The Modern Affirmation."

The "History of 4-H" was given by Doug Miller. A poem "4-H Members" was read by Tami Deskins. The offertory prayer was spoken by Terry Helsel. Ushers were Mike Coil, Pat Coil, Tarkio Chester and Doug Miller.

A talk on "Leadership," was given by Cindy Baird. Alan Thompson spoke about "Citizenship." Christine Taylor talked about "Community Service." Gale Horney told about her experiences as a camp counselor. 4-H Club Congress was explained by Twila Dennis and Don Davis.

Rev. Richard McDowell thanked the 4-H clubs for the worship service and for the work they are doing in the community.

SPECIAL CEREMONY — The Gregg Street Church of Christ recently held a mortgage burning service,. The church, which owns property and buildings located at 424 Gregg Street and near the intersection of U.S. 35 and Jamison Road, is now clear of all debts, church officials report.



CLOYCE E. THORNTON

GRADUATES — Cloyce E. Thornton, a 1962 graduate of Jeffersonville High School, will receive a B.A. in social sciences from Kansas City Bible School College on Friday. Thornton is a pastor in the Wesleyan Tabernacle, Tuscon, Ariz.

Madison Mills honors seniors

The Madison Mills United Methodist Church will serve a special breakfast this Sunday to the high school seniors of the church and their families.

The graduates will be honored during the 9:30 a.m. worship service after the 7:30 a.m. breakfast.

MISS NIKKI S SOUTHWORTH

Wedding date set June 12

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Southworth of 920 Rawlings St. have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nikki Sue, to Don H. Estep, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Estep, 330 Grove Ave.

The couple will be married June 12 in McNair Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Wilbur Bullock officiating.

Miss Southworth is employed by F. & R Lazarus, Columbus, and her fiance by Bliss College.

Esther Circle has two guests

The Esther Circle of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church met with Mrs. I. L. Booco, with Mrs. Marvin Stockwell, the assisting hostess.

Mrs. Stockwell read "My First Impressions of the U.S.A." by Albert Einstein, and "America is An Attitude" by John Wayne.

Reports were made by Miss Margaret Binegar, secretary, Mrs. Ralph Davidson, treasurer, Mrs. Booco, flowers, and Mrs. Marvin DeMent, least coin offering.

Mrs. Russell Garringer presenteed the program topic taken from "Heritage and the Challenge" concerning the black women from the northern part of the country and her contribution to the Methodist Church.

A salad course was served to 10 members and two guests, Mrs. Jess Garringer and Mrs. Harold Cline.

Cannon twins feted at shower

Mrs. Jane Cannon and twins, Amy Marie and Jamie Lorie, were guests of honor at a layette shower given in the home of Mrs. Darla Miteff. Assiting Mrs. Miteff was Mrs. Jerri Anderson.

The theme of "Babyland" prevailed with predominant colors of yellow and pink favors adorning the gift and buffet tables. Babies playing beside a stuffed giraffe centerpiece completed the scene.

Game winners besides the proud grandmothers, Mrs. Ann Cannon, and Mrs. Elva Horney (great-grandmother) were Mrs. Martha Campbell, Miss Toni Anderson, Mrs. Alberta Mathews, and Mrs. Elaine Cockerill. All prizes were presented to the guests of honor.

Mrs. Cannon, assisted by her nieces, Shelli and Toni Anderson, opened many lovely gifts from those present and some from invited guests unable to attend.

Refreshments consisted of cake, ice cream, nuts, mints and punch. Also present was the other grandmother of the twins, Mrs. Lorie Horney, Miss Karen Melvin, Mrs. Francis Allen and Mrs. Anna Lee Smith.

"Linsey-woolsey" was a combination of wool and flax utilized by Ohio pioneer women in producing wearing apparel for the men of the family.

MRS. GARRY GARRISON

New Martinsburg Church setting for VanDyke-Garrison vows

Marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Cathy VanDyke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles VanDyke of New Martinsburg, and Garry Garrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Garrison of Greenfield. The Rev. Earl Russell performed the double-ring ceremony May 15, in the New Martinsburg United Methodist Church. Arrangements of yellow and green carnations and candelabra entwined with greenery and matching bows graced the altar.

Danny VanDyke presented the theme from Love Story and We've Only Just Begun, at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length white gown of polyster with velvet bow at the empire waistline, lace bodice and long sleeves which ended in ruffled cuffs. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and rosebuds.

Matron of honor Mrs. Frances Arledge of Chillicothe, aunt of the bride, wore a yellow gown of dotted Swiss with lace-trimmed collar, long sleeves, empire waist, and a wide ruffle at the hemline. She wore a matching floppy hat. Miss Beverly VanDyke, sister of the bride and bridesmaid, wore a dress like the honor attendant, except in green. She, too, wore a matching floppy hat. Each carried a bouquet of yellow and green carnations. Little Tammi VanDyke, the flower girl, wore a dress like the honor attendant, and Joe VanDyke was the ringbearer.

Jeff VanDyke, cousin of the bride, served as best man, and seating the wedding guests was the bride's brother, John.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a green print polyester street-length dress with short sleeves and white belt. The groom's mother chose a peach sleeveless dress with pleated skirt.

Hostesses for the reception which followed at the church were Mrs. Marriett Garringer, Mrs. Judy Barnhart and Mrs. Kay Angus. Bud vases filled with carnations centered the bride's table.

Following a trip to Mammoth Cave, Ky., the couple is now residing at Prairie Knolls, Trailer Park. The new Mrs. Garrison, a 1974 Miami Trace High School graduate, is employed at Connie's Coiffures. Her husband, a 1971 McClain High School graduate, is employed by Mac Tools.

Presbyterian women 'guests'

It was time for 55 ladies to take a rest, as they were seated at tables in Persinger Hall attractively decorated in red, white and blue, to enjoy a delicious dinner prepared by Mrs. Walter Coil and served by Presbyterian men: Harvey Heironimus, Luke Musser, Bill Still, Perse Harlow, Edwin Thompson, Gerald Wheat, Sam Self and Harold Vail.

Mrs. Harold Vail, president of the Women's Association, gave the Invocation preceding the dinner and presided at the short business meeting following the dinner. Reports were given by Mrs. Orville Jenkins, secretary and Mrs. Edwin Thompson, treasurer. Mrs. Rollo Marchant announced that the next sewing day will be June 16. Mrs. Emma Kelley reported on the need for financial support for Church Women United to meet the expenses of rent, heat, light, and yard care at the Clothing Center.

Mrs. Richard Maddux, Local Action Coordinator, introduced Mrs. Leroy Davis, coordinator of the local Help Anonymous program, which was featured on the front page of the Record-Herald on Wednesday, May 26,. Mrs. Davis presented a U.S. Public Health Service film "Tell Me Where to Turn", showing some of the many problems which are handled by Information and Referral Service, the organization which is funded Through the Ohio Commission on Aging and which has a center in every county in Ohio.

Following the showing of the film, Mrs. Davis gave some insight into what kinds of problems she and Miss Julie Harris, supporting services staff person for Fayette County, have been handling in their office since it was opened July 14, 1975.

Circle 3 ladies who were hostesses for the meeting decorated the tables.

The meeting was closed by the group joining hands in a circle around the room and repeating the Mizpah Benediction.

Progressive School staff guests at picnic

Students and teachers of the Fayette Progressive School were guests of Delta Child Convservation League for a noon picnic on Wednesday at Deer Creek State Park picnic area.

Arrangements for the event were made by Mrs. Robert Browning. Food for the noon meal was provided by all Delta League members and served by Mrs. Tom Mossbarger, Mrs. Dwight Duff, Mrs. Alvin Arminstrout, Mrs. Malcolm Bloomer, Mrs. John Cook, Mrs. Charles Cunningham, Mrs. Gene Ferro, Mrs. Jack Frost, Mrs. Ferol Lewis and Mrs. Art Schaefer.

Pueblo Indian drums were made from hollowed out cottonwood logs.

Auto demolished

Bloomingburg driver injured in accident

A Bloomingburg man was injured and his car was demolished during an accident on Ohio 38, Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported.

A car driven by Andrew S. Hoppes, 17, of Bloomingburg, was southbound on Ohio 38, when it reportedly went off the right side of the roadway, traveled back across the road to the left side, struck five rods of fence, and flipped over in a wheat field at 11 p.m. Thursday. The accident occurred just south of the Bloomingburg village limits.

Hoppes was treated at Fayette County Memorial Hospital for a possible fractured clavicle, and was released. He was charged with failing to drive on the right half of the roadway.

Another similar accident occurred at 8:25 a.m. Thursday when a car driven by Vera E. Kier, 20, of 1004 John St., swerved to the right on the Stuckey Road to avoid an oncoming vehicle, she said.

The car went off the right berm, came back across the road, and landed in a deep ditch on the left side. The car had been northbound on the Stuckey Road, about a mile north of U.S. 22-E. The car was slightly damaged, and though Ms. Kier was injured, she was not treated at the time.

A car driven by Frank E. Myers Jr., 21, of Greenfield, was southbound on Ohio 753, following a car driven by Frank Jackson, 48, of Good Hope. Sheriff's deputies said that the Jackson vehicle slowed, and was struck in the rear by Myers' car. The 11:30 p.m. Thursday accident occurred just south of the Huckill Road, and moderate damage was sustained by both cars.

Washington C.H. police officers checked three minor traffic accidents Thursday.

A car driven by Deborah D. Smith, 21, of 417 Rose Ave., was northbound on Delaware Street, while a car driven by Jennifer L. Bailey, 20, of 615 Harrison St., was eastbound on Paint Street. After stopping, both cars entered the intersection, and a collision resulted. There was slight damage to both cars as a result of the 10:20 a.m. Thursday accident.

Backing from a space in the Fayette County Memorial Hospital parking lot, a car driven by Mary E. Beard, 56, of Bowersville, struck and slightly damaged a parked car belonging to Erma A. Ausman, Lyndon. The mishap occurred at 3:34 p.m. Thursday.

A car driven by Charles V. Long, 68, of 5107 Ohio 41, was in the process of backing from a space in the Helfrich Market parking lot, when it struck and slightly damaged a parked car belonging to Theodore E. Irvin, 71, of 629 Willibar Drive. The accident occurred at 1:48 p.m. Thursday.

Union Twp. South candidates

Doris Riegel, a veteran politician, and James V. McClure, will be running unopposed for committeemen in Union Township, South Precinct, at the June 8 primary election.

An active member of the Democrat party, Mrs. Riegel resides at 740 Highland Ave., and has served as committeewoman in the Union South Precinct for four years. Prior to this, she worked at the polls and as a clerk and precinct official. Her first experience in politics came when she worked as a typist at the Democratic State Headquarters in Columbus, under Gov. George White.

McClure has never been a committeeman but decided to run this time because the Repulican party needed a candidate in his precinct. McClure resides at 243 Flakes Ford Road, and is employed at Garner's Truck Service. He also is engaged in farming.

Middle School holds vocal concert

Approximately 300 persons attended the annual Washington C.H. Middle School vocal concert held Thursday night.

Sixth, seventh and eighth graders participated in the concert, entitled a "Bicentennial Salute." The program was directed by Mrs. Gene Hughes.

The program opened with the sixth, seventh and eighth grade choirs singing "Let Us Entertain You," An ensemble of Robin Hendren, Betsy Owen, Loretta Jette, Gwen Lee and Latonda Bailey sang one number.

Miss Bailey later combined with eighth graders Eric Croker, Ben Echard and George Robinson in a quartet and performed in a music and dance routine with Robin Hendren and Gale Eakins to the music of "Singin' in the Rain." Miss Bailey also sang two religious numbers later in the program.

The sixth grade grade choir sang nine patriotic songs followed by a trumpet selection by Debbie Coppock, Rita Berwanger and Mike McDonald.

"The New Editions," a 12-member Middle School vocal group, performed two numbers in the concert and the seventh grade choir sang three patriotic numbers. Ben Echard and Rita Berwanger sang in a duet and Jeff Lewis sang "Annie's Song" and accompanied himself on the guitar.

Shelley Copeland was a soloist in the program which was ended with the seventh and eighth grade choirs combining in the singing of "I Believe."

Scott Lanum was the drummer for the program and Paul Lockman played bass guitar. Stage crew members were Hugh Patton, Mike Hughes, Tim O'Flynn, Brad Penwell, Jimmy Knisley, Andy Huysman, Dennis Breitigan, and Troy Pfeifer.

Mrs. Ralph Yerian was the accompanist, assisted by Missy Krieger.

Jumblatt's sister slain

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Thirty-five persons were kidnaped, and unconfirmed reports said 11 Moslems were executed in Beirut today following the assassination of leftist Moslem leader Kamal Jumblatt's sister.

Heavy fighting was reported in northern Lebanon near the Syrian border, around the Christian hill town of Andket, between Christian and Moslem armored troops of the disintegrated Lebanese army. There was sporadic shelling into Christian and Moslem quarters of Beirut, and a police spokesman said at least 48 persons were reported killed and 96 wounded on all fronts during the night.

Right-wing leaders charged that the murder of Jumblatt's sister, Linda al-Atrash, was part of a plan to undermine President-elect Elias Sarkis' efforts to launch peace talks between Lebanon's warring Christians and Moslems.

A band of gunmen burst into the 55-year-old woman's apartment Thursday, killed her and wounded her two daughters.

The daughters, Noha, 27, and Samar, 18, were reported in critical condition. A report Thursday from Jumblatt's office said Noha was dead, but the hospital said she was alive.

Mrs. al-Atrash's apartment was in an area controlled by the right-wing Christian Phalange party, but Phalangist leaders denied that the killers were from their militia.

Two days earlier a moderate Christian political leader, Raymond Edde, was wounded in an assassination attempt in another Phalangist area. The independent newspaper An Nahar commented today: "There seems to be a group within Lebanon which is determined to blow up any peaceful settlement whenever it appears within reach."

The killing postponed for the second time a meeting between Jumblatt and Sarkis to discuss the Christian president-elect's effort to arrange an armistice and a roundtable political conference of the leaders of all the warring factions.

A spokesman said Jumblatt would be unable to meet Sarkis for several days because he would be busy with his sister's funeral at the family home in Mokhtara, in the central Lebanese mountains.

The Indians in the early frontier days of Ohio were never as numerous as many supposed, perhaps as many as 15,000 of which only 3,000 might have been fighting braves. But their guerilla type of warfare kept the frontier in a turmoil for many decades.

Household items stolen

Numerous household items of undetermined value were reported stolen from a barn on the Prairie Road, Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported.

Robert Dolphin, Mount Sterling, told sheriff's deputies that items such as a television, radio, dinette set, and air conditioner were stolen from his barn located at 5106 Prairie Road. The barn had not been locked, and had served as a storage place for the articles. The incident is believed to have occurred sometime between May 9 and Thursday.

Suzanne C. Matson, 2788 Bulldog Court, told Washington C.H. police officers that her $160 citizens band radio was taken from her locked car sometime after 11 p.m. Wednesday as it was parked in front of Calmar Industries, in the Washington C.H. Industrial Park.

Gary Payton, 17, of 719 Forest St., told police officers that as he was riding his bicycle along Rose Avenue at 8 p.m. Thursday, a male subject caused him to fall from his bicycle and then struck him in the stomach.

A reported vandalism took place in front of the Dixon Clothing Shop, Good Hope, when a soft drink vending machine had a piece broken off of the plastic change holder. Sheriff's deputies said the vandalism happened sometime Wednesday night.

Vora Brown elected Post 25 commander

Vora Brown Jr., 404 Fifth St., has been elected to the position of commander of Paul H. Hughey American Legion Post 25 in Washington C.H. for the 1976-1977 year.

Brown will succeed Russell H. Liston, 989 Ohio 41-S, who has served as the Legion post commander during the past year.

Other officers elected were George Countrymen, first vice preisdent; Charles Carson, second vice president; Fred Allen Sr., adjutant, and Donald Dunn, finance officer.

The new Post 25 officers will begin their terms effective June 14.

Legion members elected to the executive committee were Donald Cockerill, William Jaeckels, H.B. Dixon, R.B. (Bud) Tharp, Tom Myers, Malcom Jette and Liston.

Appointed to positions were Ed Warning, service officer; John Higerd, sergeant-at-arms; Virgil Morgan, Americanism program chairman; Myers, youth program chairman, and Jette, chaplain.

Officers complete courses

Two Fayette County jailer-dispatchers recently completed a three-day radio operation course at the Ohio Peace Officers Training Academy in London.

Jailer-dispatchers Kenneth Hahn and William McKenzie attended the course which dealt with radio procedure, telephone emergency, communication systems capabilities, and the use of teletype and computers.

Approximately 30 officers from police and sheriff's departments throughout the state attended the program.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson, Chief Deputy Robert McArthur, and jailer-dispatchers John Hyer and Dale Butler completed a course in jail management held in Canton.

The course concerned security measures, and the treatment and legal rights of inmates. Classes were conducted by Capital University law professor John Palmer and officials of the federal prison system.

The schools are part of a continuing education system financed by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, and directed by the Buckeye State Sheriff's Association.

Betty Ford visits state

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford campaigns for the election of her husband today in four Ohio cities.

Making her second Ohio visit this month, Mrs. Ford will attend Republican gatherings in Akron, Canton, Dayton and Findlay before returning to Washington tonight.

She arrived in Akron late Thursday after campaigning in New Jersey. She was greeted by Akron Mayor John Ballard and Canton Mayor Stanley A. Cmish.

The first lady's initial speaking engagement was to be this morning at a reception sponsored by the Akron President Ford Committee.

She was then to fly to Dayton to attend a performance of the Dayton Civic Ballet outside the Dayton courthouse, across the street from the local Ford campaign headquarters.

Feds seek consumer comments

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Now is the time to get your two cents' worth in on proposed government rules and regulations affecting everything from airport safety to antacid side effects.

Federal agencies are seeking comments from consumers. If you have an idea, a complaint or some information to add, you can let the government know by following a few simple steps.

Here are some proposed regulations and directions on how to make your views heard:

ANTACIDS

The Federal Trade Commission has proposed that advertisements for over-the-counter or nonprescription antacids carry the same types of warnings now required on the labels of the products. The warnings generally deal with possible side-effects or suggest asking a doctor's advice about use.

The FTC says many consumers don't read the labels and instead rely on advertising for information about antacids. Among the questions the commission is asking are: Would warnings in advertisements affect the ability of manufacturers to communicate the therapeutic effects of the product? What sort of warnings would be appropriate?

June 11 is the deadline for comments which should be sent to: Special Assistant Director for Rulemaking, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C., 20580. Identify the comment this way: "Proposal Identifying Issues of Fact — Antacid Rulemaking."

AIRPORTS

The Federal Aviation Administration has proposed requiring major airports to have a detailed medical plan for coping with accidents and other emergencies. The plan would have to spell out facilities and personnel needed to accommodate the maximum number of people who might be on board the largest aircraft authorized to serve the airport.

Among items that would have to be included are: name, location and emergency capability of participating hospitals and other medical facilities; designated areas for sheltering passengers and crew members; the number of surface vehicles and aircraft to be provided by cooperating agencies.

Present rules require airports to provide medical services in emergency plans, but do not describe specifics.

June 1 is the deadline for comments which should be sent to Federal Aviation Administration, Office of General Counsel, Rules Docket, AGC-24, 800 Independence Ave. S.W., Washington, D.C., 20591.

FOOD ADS

The Federal Trade Commission is holding hearings around the country on the first phase of proposals to set standards for nutritional claims in foods ads. (Nutritional claims on food labels already are regulated by the Food and Drug Administration; the FTC plan deals with advertising only.)

The hearings will deal with voluntary claims on natural and organic food; energy and calories; fat, fatty acid and cholesterol content; and health or related claims.

Saturday to be full of tradition

Post 25 set for opener

By PHIL LEWIS

Tradition will highlight Saturday's Paul H. Hughey Post 25 American Legion baseball opener at Washington Senior High School.

The Post 25 team will sport new Bicentennial red, white and blue uniforms and manager Ron Helmick and pitching coach Pat Dawson will be following in their fathers footsteps. Both Helmick's and Dawson's fathers managed the Post 25 team at one time.

There will be 17 players in the dark blue uniforms Saturday when post 25 takes the field against London. Twelve of those 17 are newcomers to Helmick and Legion baseball.

"We will rely on speed, defense and pitching," Helmick said adding that he has plenty of each.

Two of the the top returning players for Helmick are Allan Conner and Mark Fisher. Both held down sports in the outfield last season and composed the fat of the Post 25 batting order.

Conner, a two-time all-South Central Ohio League outfielder and the Post 25 team captain, will be moved to the infield this season. Helmick is looking for a third baseman and Conner is his choice. "He's the most versatile player we got," Helmick said.

Helmick feels the move will strengthen the team defensively. Although Conner is an expert with the glove Helmick has plenty of outfielders, who can flag down a long line drive.

Fisher, who spends his high school season's at second base for the Blue Lions and switches to the outfield for Helmick, has one of the three spots in the grass tied down.

The other two spots will probably go to Jeff Estep and Neil Spears, or Jeff Elliott when he is not on the mound. Estep and Spears started for Washington C.H. and Miami Trace respectively this past season. Bob Wilson, from Washington Senior is also tabbed for outfield duties.

Joining Conner in the infield will be Tim Cleavor of Clinton Massie, Rex Coe of Miami Trace and Scott Johnson of Washington C.H. Coe is tabbed for second base, but can also play shortstop when Cleaver is pitching. Johnson should get the starting call at first. He is one of three all-league players on the Post 25 roster.

Helmick has two experienced players to put behind the plate this season. One, Jeff DeWeese started for Post 25 last season and is coming off an excellent season with the Blue Lions. The second, John Bakenhester started for Miami Trace this past season. Helmick plans to platoon the two catchers. Post 25 plays a rugged schedule with as many as five games in a three day period and he won't be afraid to rest one in favor of the other during the many slated doubleheaders.

Helmick has plenty of pitching depth this season with Cleaver and Elliott heading the list. Cleaver was 6-4 for Clinton Massie and he tossed a no-hitter this season. Elliott posted a one-hitter and was named to the all-SCOL squad.

Two Miami Trace hurlers, Jack James and Stu Foster, are expected to see plenty of action this season. Both were honorable mention all-league choices.

Rounding out the pitching corps will be John Ackley, Zack Adams, and David Van Dyke. Ackley and Adams are returning from last season.

Besides Dawson, Helmick will be aided in the coaching duties by David Grim and John Sanderson, his top assistants last season.

Mets top Phils

Tug loses duel with Garrett

By The Associated Press

Wayne Garrett vs. Tug McGraw.

"I'm saying to myself, 'don't try and pull him. Just try to go the other way,'" said Met pinch-hitter Garrett.

Two outs and the bases loaded. Ninth inning. Phils ahead 2-1.

"I remember playing with him and he's a good hitter," said ex-Met McGraw, working in relief.

The count is 2-2.

"With the bases loaded and two out, I don't look for the fastball," said Garrett.

"I tried to keep the ball away from him," said McGraw.

"There is no earthly way he'll give me a fastball," said Garrett.

"I tried to sneak the fastball by," admitted McGraw.

In comes the fastball. CRUNCH. Out goes the fastball. Three runs score and Garrett winds up on third with a triple. Mets win 5-2.

"My eyes really lit up when I saw that fastball," said Garrett.

"Sometimes they pop 'em up, sometimes they hit a line drive, sometimes they miss it," said McGraw. "It's a round ball and a round bat ... and anything can happen."

There were only two other games played Thursday in the National League. Chicago beat St. Louis 2-1 and San Diego topped San Francisco 3-1.

The Phils built their 2-1 lead against Jerry Koosman on the strength of Bob Boone's RBI single in the fourth and Ollie Brown's homer in the sixth. Dave Kingman's 17th home run of the season, tops in the majors, accounted for the New York offense until the ninth.

A pinch-hit single by John Milner and an error by Phils starter Jim Kaat started the Mets' rally, and a force play and a brilliant throw by centerfielder Garry Maddox to cut down Bud Harrelson at home on Ed Kranepool's single almost ended it.

Reliever Gene Garber walked Kingman intentionally to load the bases before McGraw came on to face Garrett and the lefthanded batter drilled his threebagger. Roy Staiger got Garrett home with a double for the final run.

In the American League games, the Oakland A's beat the Minnesota Twins 5-3; the Cleveland Indians stopped the New York Yankees 5-3; the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Detroit Tigers 4-3; the California Angels trimmed the Chicago White Sox 3-1 and the Texas Rangers beat the Kansas City Royals twice, winning the completion of a suspended game 5-4 in 10 innings before taking the regularly scheduled contest, 6-4.

Celtics rip Suns, 105-90

BOSTON (AP) — Boston's pro basketball fans are used to watching the Celtics destroy opposing teams with one explosive period. But rarely have they witnessed anything like what they saw in the second game of the 1976 National Basketball Association championship series.

With a capacity crowd of 15,320 screaming loudly Thursday night, the Celtics combined near-perfect offense and defense for the first five minutes of the third period, outscoring the jittery Phoenix Suns 20-2. After that, the Celtics had to put down only one belated Phoenix rally before registering a 105-90 victory and assuming a 2-0 lead in the nationally televised best-of-seven series.

"The crowd really got psyched," Phoenix' rookie center Alvan Adams said afterwards.

What really set the crowd afire was a deliberate foul called against former Celtics' backcourt man Paul Westphal with Boston leading 51-41 early in the third quarter.

Westphal was called for the rare infraction when he grabbed Boston's Jo Jo White from behind as the Celtics' guard headed for what appeared to be an easy layup

Dodgers-Reds tilts draw crowds

CINCINNATI (AP) — It's still only May, but the Reds-Dodgers four game weekend series opening tonight is filling Cincinnati with electricity and a multitude of fans.

"It's the best rivalry in baseball," said Reds third baseman Pete Rose.

Area hotels and motels are booked solid for the weekend. However, there is a large Knights of Columbus convention helping to swell the hostelries.

Sunday's double header has been sold out for months and the Reds report only a few tickets available for tonight's game and the game Saturday afternoon.

The world champion Reds will be looking to unseat the Western Division leading Dodgers who are on top by two games.

Rookie Pat Zachry, 3-0, pits his unblemished record against Don Sutton, 4-4, in the opener.

Zachry outdueled Sutton last week in Los Angeles as the Reds and Dodgers split a two game series.

Cincinnati will have second baseman Joe Morgan back in the lineup for the series. Morgan, National League's Most Valuable Player last season, has been out of the lineup for five days with a sore back.

Both Rose and Morgan commented about the similarity of the two clubs who, in recent years, are perennial contenders for the division title.

Both rely on speed, base stealing and the long ball. Both teams lean to their bullpens, although the Reds more so.

The Reds scheduled Jack Billingham to face Rick Rhoden Saturday, Rhoden shut the Reds out in Los Angeles.

Sunday's doubleheader will see Gary Nolan and Santo Alcala pitching for the Reds against Dodgers Tommy John and Burt Hooton.

Junior softball

Mac Tool defeated Warners Sport, 16-6, Thursday in Junior Girls Softball League action at Eyman Park.

S. Lloyd and P. Milstead homered for the winners.

Since corn silage is normally deficient in both protein and minerals, this can limit your gains and feeding efficiency. However, only 25 lbs. of LANDMARK Silage Plus per ton can increase crude protein content of most silages from the usual 8% to about 12% on a dry basis. Silage Plus is formulated to bring silage protein and mineral levels to those suggested by the O.A.R.D.C. at Wooster, as the result of their research. It's formulated to increase levels of protein 50%, Calcium 100% and Phosphorus 75% approximately.
SILAGE PLUS S-B is for the beef or sheep man who wants the equivalent of 15 lbs. urea, with calcium, phosphorus, sulfur and magnesium, in one package—plus added trace minerals. To be added to silage at rate of 25 lbs. per ton.

Wood bleaching came into its own some years ago when so-called blond finishes became the rage in modern furniture. Actually, bleaching is a very old process that may have been in use thousands of years ago when man discovered that he could change the color of wood with various natural agents.

Today, bleaching is still used as a preliminary to the application of blond finishing materials. It has several other uses, chief among them being to change the wood into a uniform light color from which to begin the entire finishing process, even when the ultimate aim is to apply a stain to make the surface darker again. The idea is that if you begin with a light, even tone, the new stain will take without the danger of a multicolored effect.

Another use for bleach is to remove the coloring from wood that sometimes remains after the old finish has been taken off. If this is done, it is essential that the bleach be applied to the entire surface and not merely to the areas where color remains. This insures the same degree of whiteness over the full surface.

While there are some products on the market to make wood lighter without bleaching, the true bleaches should not be applied to anything but new wood or wood from which the old finish has been removed.

Commercial wood bleaches usually come in different bottles and must be applied separately according to the directions on the containers. It is always important to follow the instructions of the manufacturers of finishing materials, but especially so in the case of bleaches, since they are chemicals and must be handled carefully and in a specific manner. You will need rubber gloves and old clothes that cover as much of your arms and body as possible. Never pour the bleach into anything made of metal. While there are some specially treated metal cans on the market that will withstand the chemicals, the metal containers you have around the house will not do. If any pouring must be done, use glass or earthenware.

For many years, bleaching was done with home-made solutions. One of these called for 3 ounces of oxalic acid crystals in one quart of water, 3 ounces of sodium hyposulphate in one quart of water and one ounce of borax in one quart of water. The oxalic acid solution was applied first with a stiff brush. The hypo solution was applied when the first mixture was partly dry. And the borax solution was put on when the bleach was thoroughly dry, its purpose being to destroy any traces of acid still in the wood. This process worked fairly well, and still does, but the commercial bleaches are scientifically prepared and work better.

Since a bleach of any kind often raises the grain of the wood, sanding is necessary before proceeding with the finishing material. If stain is applied over the bleach, wait a day and then put on a coat of diluted shellac or some other sealer. But again — the key to getting a good result with bleach is to follow the manufacturer's instructions to the letter.

(The techniques of using varnish, shellac, lacquer, stain, bleach and other finishing materials are outlined in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 30 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N. Y. 11743.)

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — The brick stairway at the rear of our house needs some repairs. About a dozen bricks will have to be replaced. The stairway is very old and these particular bricks are split and otherwise damaged. I know pretty much how to remove the old bricks and put in the new ones, since I did the same thing a couple of years ago with three bricks in the same stairway. However, when I did that job, the new mortar between the bricks was very much lighter than the old and the repairs stood out very much. It took about a year before the mortar weathered enough so you couldn't see where the patchwork had been done. How can this be avoided.

A. — Not very easily. While you can buy a coloring additive to put in the mortar mixture, it is black (that was the only kind I could get a couple of years ago) and requires a lot of experimenting to match the old mortar. Too little and there is no result. Too much and the mortar gets too dark. What I finally did was to use the ready-mix mortar as it comes from the bag, adding only water, and then a week later rubbing dirt all over the repaired joints. This made the new mortar less noticeable. One of the most important processes in this type of job is to "cure" the patches by wetting them down every day for several days after the original application of the mixture. This prevents the mortar from drying out too quickly. It is assumed you know that soaking the new bricks for a few hours before setting them in place is also a good idea and for the same reason.

Q. — We are considering having sliding doors put into a large closet of an extra room. The only reason we are hesitating is because of the disadvantage that the doors have to be manipulated to get into one side or the other of the closet, as is the case in a closet we now have in a bedroom. Is there any way we can install sliding doors so that the contents of the entire closet are accessible at the same time?

A. — In some original installations, this disadvantage is eliminated by a construction procedure which permits the doors to open into the walls on either side of the closet. You don't say whether this closet is going into a room already built or whether the room and closet are to be built together. If the latter, the carpenter should have no trouble. If the former, then he will have to judge whether this kind of installation is possible.

Two Armco employes promoted

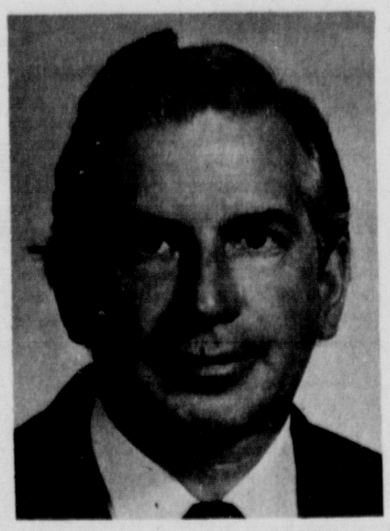
Two employes of the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Products Division plant in Washington C.H. have been promoted.

Edward C. Vollette, plant manager, said Wiley V. Witherspoon, 606 Charlotte Court, has been promoted to the position of superintendent in the connector and roll forming division of the plant, and William C. Autrey Jr., 2654 Old Springfield Road, has been promoted the position of personnel supervisor.

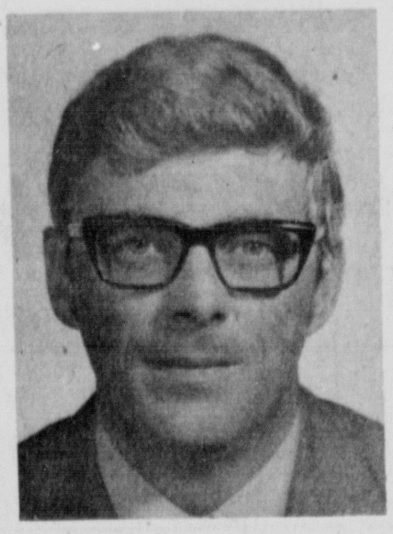
A 24-year veteran employe of the Armco Steel Corp., Witherspoon replaces Wendell Barr, 302 Clearview Road, in the position of connector and roll forming division superintendent. Barr is taking an early retirement this year.

Witherspoon started his career with the Armco Steel Corp. in 1952 as a laborer in the Middletown East Works plant. In 1956 he transferred to the steel buildings plant in Middletown as a scheduler. Five years later he transferred to the Washington C.H. plant as a quality controller and in 1965 was promoted to foreman. He became acting superintendent earlier this year.

A 10-year employe with the Armco Steel Corp., Autrey replaces Leo B. Edwards, 902 Lincoln Drive, in the position of personnel supervisior. Edwards has assumed the position of assistant to the manager and is on special assignment.



WILEY WITHERSPOON



WILLIAM AUTREY

Autrey started his Armco Steel Corp. career as a payroll clerk in 1966 in Middletown. He worked in various capacities with the company until 1969 when he transferred to the metal products division as a personnel correspondent. In 1970 he became benefits advisor and in 1974 he transferred to the Washington C.H. plant as personnel assistant.

Find JFK group studied Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shortly before the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, U.S. officials secretly studied the possibility that Fidel Castro might retaliate against American leaders for their attacks on Cuba, according to informed sources.

Existence of the study was kept secret from the Warren Commission, which investigated the possibility of a Cuban connection in the Kennedy slaying, and, until recently, from the Senate intelligence committee.

Committee investigators came across documents relating to the study in the course of their probe into the performance of the CIA and the FBI before and after the Kennedy assassination, the sources said Thursday.

The panel's findings are expected to be made public within two weeks.

In an article to be published today, the New Republic says the team which performed the study was created by then-Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. But the two sources told The Associated Press that although the attorney general was in over-all command of U.S. operations in Cuba, there is no evidence that he played a role in the workings of the group known as the "Cuban Coordinating Committee."

One source identified a member of the group as Desmond Fitzgerald, a CIA officer involved in a plot to kill Castro that was in progress on the same day President Kennedy was killed.

A second source said other members of the "Cuban Coordinating Committee" included John H. Crimmins, then a State Department Caribbean specialist who now is the U.S. ambassador to Brazil, and representatives of the FBI and Defense Department.

All members of the group were aware of the U.S.-supported commando raids against Cuba, but apparently only Fitzgerald knew about the assassination plot against Castro, sources said.

Existence of the group was first revealed last November in the intelligence committee's report on U.S. attempts to assassinate Castro.

The report described the group as an inter-agency panel established after the 1962 Cuban missile crisis "with responsibility for developing covert action proposals." The report didn't say anything about the group studying the possibility that Castro would strike back.

Two sources said it was not clear what had triggered the study of possible Cuban retaliation, but one source said the timing was consistent with the appearance in September 1963 of an AP dispatch which quoted Castro as saying, "U.S. leaders should think that if they are aiding terrorist plans to eliminate Cuban leaders, they themselves will not be safe."

The AP article has been prominently mentioned in speculation surrounding Lee Harvey Oswald's motive in killing Kennedy. The article appeared in the New Orleans Times-Picayune at a time when Oswald, known to be an avid newspaper reader, was living there.

The Warren Commission concluded that there was no evidence that Oswald was part of a foreign conspiracy.

Hays back home to prepare defense

BELMONT, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Wayne L. Hays, back home in the settling quietness of his Ohio farm, has been consulting attorneys to prepare a defense against Justice Department and House Ethics Committee investigations of allegations that he put bosomy Elizabeth Ray on the congressional payroll as his mistress.

The 65-year-old Democratic chairman of the House Administration Committee said he stands by a statement issued earlier by his press secretary, Carol Clawson, that he has no intention of resigning and "will stand and face the facts that will vindicate him."

Hays and his bride of six weeks, Pat, arrived in these picturesque eastern Ohio farmlands late Thursday after a sixhour drive from Washington.

He declined to talk to waiting newsmen and went immediately inside the big red brick home.

His 21-year-old daughter, Geeta, and her husband Paul Steiner, were awaiting him.

Hays scheduled a campaign appearance today near Steubenville, the largest city in his eight-county congressional district, and the home town of two of his election opponents.

As Hays was preparing to leave Washington Thursday, Rep. Romano L. Mazzoli, D-Ky., told the House that Hays should resign to help restore its prestige.

Hays was not in the chamber at the time.

Mrs. Clawson said Hays "has been meeting attorneys, putting together all relevant information concerning allegations in the Washington Post. The information will be presented to the proper forum at the proper time."

Mrs. Clawson did not elaborate but Justice Department sources in Washington say a federal grand jury has begun hearing testimony about the 33-year-old Miss Ray's position with the Hays' committee.

Sources said the grand jury was asked to consider whether Hays' relationship with Miss Ray might have involved violations of federal laws covering conspiracies to defraud the government or to convert tax funds to personal use.

It was also learned that the House Ethics Committee will meet next week to schedule hearings into the allegations.

Mrs. Clawson said Hays declined to talk to newsmen at his farm home on advice of his legal counsel. She said "he has never been one to shirk talking to the press."

Mrs. Clawson accompanied Hays here.

"Mr. Hays is in good spirits," she said. "His family is standing by him. Based on my knowledge, it's my opinion he has no intention to resign."

Attack housing inspection plan

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — A Purdue University housing specialist says a proposed annual inspection for apartment houses would be a deterrent to more housing.

City officials contend about 10 per cent of West Lafayette's 3,400 housing units are substandard. The regular inspections are expected to ensure that Purdue students can find adequate places to live.

The specialist, Tom Hawkins, said, "I think some landlords are taking advantage of the housing situation, but the majority are doing a good job of supplying safe and sanitary housing."

Property owners would pay $10 annually for inspection and $5 annually for each rental unit.

The American wedding day

Bicentennial love story...

Every year is a special one for brides, but this year has a significance all its own — it's America's Bicentennial. A look back into our history to see what brides and weddings were like in Revolutionary times provides some fascinating information.

The American colonists brought most of their social customs with them fron England, of course, and generally what was fashionable in England was here too.

The Puritan tradition (beginning with Cromwell in the mid-1600's) had frowned on big wedding celebrations, and on merriment of any kind — as a result, a small, quiet marriage at home was the rule.

In fact, in America, home weddings remained the fashion until 1850 or so. However, they were not necessarily small and quiet. In any but the strictest homes there was dancing after a wedding, sometimes far into the night, just as there is today. In rural areas, a wedding was an occasion for several days' worth of partying.

The typical wedding ceremony was fairly simple, in the Protestant tradition (most Americans being Protestant) — there were prayers, a short sermon, the marriage vows, and some hymns. The guests would then drink the "posset", a kind of hot punch — as a signal that the wedding was over and the party could begin.

In early New England the couple's attendants would scramble not for the bride's bouquet, but for her garter — the winner, like the modern bridesmaid who catches the bouquet, was supposed to be the next to marry.

Sometimes the wedding guests would put the bride and groom to bed on their wedding night, drinking toasts and offering prayers in the bridal chamber. Then the new couple would be left alone — if they were lucky!

City brides and grooms kept open house the day after the wedding, receiving visits from friends. Rural couples made visits to neighboring towns or plantations. But the honeymoon as we know it didn't develop until well into the 19th century.

A particularly colorful custom in Revolutionary times was known as "Coming Out Bride" — when bride, groom, and guests would put on all their bridal finery and parade into church on the Sunday, or sometimes for four Sundays, after the wedding.

Early churches were segregated, with men seated on one side and women on the other — but wedding groups would all sit together, "like a pride of peacocks," as one historian put it. At a certain point in the services the newlyweds would rise and turn slowly around, displaying their fine clothes!

And of course, men's fashions in the 1700's were as splendid as women's—men, too, wore silks, satins, damasks and velvets.

Wedding veils were unheard of in the 1700's. Instead, hats, trimmings or flowers were used. It's said that Maria Monroe (the daughter of President James Monroe) along with her sister and mother wore ostrich plumes in their hair! Of course, stylish women in those days wore wigs or very elaborate hair-dos which would make a veil inconvenient at best.

Though times have changed since America was born, the wedding day remains the same in spirit — a very special celebration, shared in by bride and groom and those who love them. So whether your wedding will be old-fashioned or newfangled, you're part of a long and wonderful tradition.

Few changes in bridal gowns over years

Styles in women's fashion have changed drastically over the years, often reflecting the social and economic atmosphere of the times.

Bridal gowns, however, have changed less in their fundamentals than any other type of costuming. The satin, the lace veil, the bridal bouquet, the prayer book, rosary, fan or muff have been constant features.

APPROPRIATE ATTIRE — Cathy admires a wedding gown worn by Mrs. Tim Walters. The gown is a full length quiana knit dress with long chapel train and is trimmed with luxurious venetian lace. The veil is also trimmed with Venetian lace with a pearl trim crown. The dress is from the Martha Washington Shop.

Through the eighteenth century the wedding ceremony was held in the bride's home, but by the end of the Civil War the church had become the approved setting for the fashionable wedding.

In the 1770s panniers (frameworks used to puff out a skirt at the hips) were becoming more exagerated and had become the court dress in France and England — a custom which lasted in England for 75 years.

During the 1770s the pannier was so large the sacque (over dress) closed only at the waist. Consequently, the petticoat became a functional part of the dress. Hair was powdered and decorated with flowers.

During the next 80 years fashion became influenced by a Greek revival, then to a new version of the hoop. Skirts began to swell and at first were held out by numerous petticoats.

Because of the weight of wearing many petticoats, these were soon replaced by a series of whalebone hoops attached by straps over which a petticoat and then a dress were worn.

It was only in the nineteenth century that white bridal gowns became a tradition which continues up to today.

In the next 16 years the hoop diminished with the fullness moving to the back. When the hoop was finally ousted it was not by a rational silhouette but by the irrational bustle — one of the strangest shapes ever adopted.

1876 was also the year America was celebrating its centennial. Many fashions were designed in honor of the anniversary. The military influence was very strong and the dress had a definite tailored look.

It was traditional at this time for the bride to wear her gown to the first dinner party after the wedding. The train of the skirt was laid in large organpipe pleats which gave the necessary fullness for the bustle.

By 1905 brides in general were imposing with their high pompadours, hourglass figures and forward-slanted posture of the Grecian bend. During this period, there was great emphasis on elegant undergarments.

Twenty years later the history of fashion took a revolutionary turn. For the first time in the history of fashion, the dress reached the knees.

WEDDING BANDS—David Roe of David R. Roe Jewelers shows the soon-to-be-wed couple an assortment of wedding bands and rings.

Baubles, bangles wedding bands

Before you and your fiancee set out to buy your wedding rings there are some timely tips that will save you lots of leg work, and help you to make a wise choice.

It is important to go to a jeweler you can trust, who will show you a selection of name brand wedding rings in white and yellow gold.

Fine quality and expert craftsmanship will last a lifetime, the precious gleam mellowing with time and loving wear. There is no significant difference in your choice of color of gold. . .it is a matter of tast. Both offer strength, hardness and resistance to wear, both are equally precious.

Wedding rings should be ordered four to six weeks before the happy event, insuring plenty of time for accurate sizing.

A narrow band will be about half a size smaller than a wide one, since it will slip over the knuckle with more ease.

The design should appear in a continuous flow, showing no break; finishes must be clean and smooth to your touch.

Liberated nuptial legends

The "old country" boasted many surprisingly liberated customs related to courtship, weddings and honeymoons.

Years ago in old Germany, when the hands of the bride and groom were solemnly joined by the priest, a struggle traditionally ensued for who "would have the uppper hand!" The hand that ended up on top would rule the roost.

In the 1800's a similar wedding ceremony tradition was the custom in France. As the groom attempted to put the ring on her finger, the bride struggled to keep the ring from going past her knuckle. If she succeeded, it meant that she would be boss.

From the north of France came the custom involving a 30 foot leap by the bride, from a cliff, into the arms of her waiting groom! Should the bride suffer the least injury on landing, the honeymoon was over.

These are traditions that were the roots of our emancipated brides of today . . . customs Grandma forgot to confide in us.

Elegant wedding gifts they'll really treasure

Don't just wish your favorite bride and groom "live happily ever after." Help them along with a wedding gift that brings beauty, elegance and graciousness to their first home, the Jewelry Industry Council suggests.

A gift of silver, china or crystal for the table is sure to be treasured by the latest generation of wedding marchers with their well-developed tastes for fine things of quality. And you'll be treasured for helping them get started on the kind of lifestyle they want to share in the years ahead.

Today's bride really values silver and the "something special" glow it brings to her table. A piece of flatware that helps complete a place setting makes an important silver gift. Serving pieces and extras, especially teaspoons, are always appreciated by a new bride.

Consider a gift of multi-purpose silver holloware that lets the new bride give her table, or her first home, an imaginative touch. Because today's bride won't reserve her silver just for guests. She'll put its beauty and practical usefulness to work every day.

There are luxury and elegance apparent in the richly decorated china and crystal finding favor with today's bride and groom. But young married demand practicality and modern convenience in china as well. This means oven, freezer and dishwasher properties, serving accessories with unlimited possibilities, even patterns with mix or match potential. All are helpful guidelines to remember when selecting a wedding gift of china for your favorite bride and groom.

A smart crystal gift the entertaining newlyweds will appreciate is special purpose stemware. . .liqueurs, brandy snifters, fluted champagnes.

Decorative china or crystal items to start the bride collecting for her first home should have color and practical uses to make the successful wedding gift list.

And don't forget to consult the Bridal Registry of the bride's jeweler, the Council further advises. It's a gold mine of gift ideas with its up-to-date record of the bride's pattern choices in silver, china and crystal, the bride's preferences, and the items she has already received.

You can't go wrong with a gift the bride herself has chosen!

COORDINATING PATTERNS—Connie Seymour helps the couple select their china, crystal and silver patterns at C. A. Gossard Co.

Sterling qualities of silver valued by today's bride

The 1976 bride isn't so different, it seems, from her predecessors — the ones who married before women's lib swept the country.

According to a recent survey, more than 60 per cent of today's brides-to-be register their tableware choices at the bridal gift registry — and still want the beautiful things that brides have always cherished.

However changed the concept of women's place in the home may be, the love of fine tableware seems as steadfast as ever. And one of the highlights of the pre-wedding period for any engaged girl is opening the lovely china, crystal and silver gifts which she receives.

There's a particularly happy reception awaiting any gift of sterling. For solid silver's not only a lovely possession to be enjoyed for its rich, lustrous gleam and fine craftsmanship, but a treasure to be valued.

Marriage-saving money tips

Marriage can be mighty expensive, especially in the beginning when you're trying to stretch a budget to cover both everyday living expenses and new home furnishings.

Don't let tight money mar the foundations of your new lifetime partnership. Instead, work out a reasonable budget, figure out mutual priorities where money should be spent, and take advantage of money-saving tips whenever possible.

Here are some ways you may be able to economize without feeling the "pinch":

— Whenever possible, cook from scratch. Convenience foods generally cost more than the basic ingredients needed to cook the same meal. And your personal culinary efforts are sure to produce a better tasting meal, as well.

— If you have a choice between washing or dry cleaning a garment, do wash it — it costs less. (Check the clothing manufacturer's sewn-in permanent care label to be sure.)

Dry cleaning bills can eat away at your budget, so skimp on this "luxury" whenever possible. You can easily do this on dry cleanable items too, if they are only spotted or slightly soiled. Apply K2r Spotlifter to the dirty spots; when the spot-lifter dries, just brush the remaining white powder and the spot away.

— Plan ahead when buying furniture. Unless your first apartment or house is the one you intend to live in for several years, it may be more practical not to purchase expensive furnishings right away. Keep future plans in mind, and try to choose furniture you know you'll be able to use later on.

Armstrong Solarian,™ the no-wax floor that keeps on shining long after the honeymoon is over.

You may not mind it at first, but scrubbing and waxing floors is work. That's why so many young couples choose Armstrong Solarian for their pad. Solarian actually does shine without waxing. The special Mirabond™ wear surface has a gleaming shine of its own. And it keeps its high gloss—without waxing—far longer than an ordinary vinyl floor. Poker party spills, dirt, even black heel marks come up easily, ending the drudgery of scrubbing and waxing, so you can live happily ever after.

Transform hair into halo with natural-looking color

Particularly when you want to look your best, disaster strikes — or so it always seems. Out of the clear blue, the blemish you never had suddenly appears on your chin; your scalp becomes dry and flaky; your hair loses its sparkle. Your wedding day is fast approaching and you're falling apart!

Now is not the time to despair. As quickly as a case of jitters can cause blemishes, dry scalp and lackluster hair, they can subside — provided you know the cure.

Take the time out to relax. In between the hub-bub of wedding plans, some pampering time is in order.

If you've been neglecting your favorite form of excercise, get back to it. The exercises will relax tense muscles and free your mind of the worries of wedding preparations for a few minutes each day. Try following up your exercise sessions with a warm bubble bath or a quick snooze — heaven for a furrowed brow!

And what time better than the present to indulge in those little luxuries you don't do often enough — like a really good facial, a manicure, an expert haircut.

When you know you're looking good, you've got that heady edge of self-confidence that comes in handy — especially when all eyes are upon you as you walk down the aisle.

Next to the bridal dress, the biggest concern a bride has, appearance-wise, is her hair. A simple, yet attractive, style that will look well under a veil and after you remove it is a must.

Now is not the time to try an avant garde cut — you do want the groom to recognize you. However, a headful of shining hair gleaming with rich, high lighted color would work wonders.

And there's simply no better way to achieve it than with Clairol Balsam Color. Choose a shade slightly lighter than your natural haircolor and just shampoo it in.

The effect you want is subtle — perhaps a bit lighter and brighter than what you have now. The special packette of conditioners that you add to the color guarantees a headful of hair that's been conditioned, colored and given body in one fell swoop.

What's in your head can affect your appearance as much as what's on it. So go ahead, add gleaming color, a romantic bridal veil and relax — of all the times in life, this is one to savor.

Orange blossom

The orange blossom has been a bridal flower since ancient times. The goddess Juno gave Jupiter a "golden apple" on their wedding day — some say the golden apple was an orange; thus its blossom became associated with happiness in marriage.

See professional photographer early

Some are grand and extraordinarily expensive. Others are simple and modestly priced.

Whatever type of wedding you are planning, it deserves to be preserved in professional photographs. A bride must decide to economize on some things, but not on photographic coverage of this all-important occasion. For it is the photographs that will keep the day's events alive in years to come.

Kodak experts advise prospective brides to book a professional photographer as soon as the date is set, especially if she is getting married on a weekend during one of the more popular bridal months — June, August, or December.

Several weeks before the occasion the bride and groom-to-be should sit down with the photographer and plan the type of photos they'll want. Most ask for a formal bridal couple portrait, one of the bride alone, one of the bridal party and immediate families, and several informal photographs of the wedding ceremony and reception.

Look at your photographer's portfolio of other wedding photos he's made and consider different styles you'd like. Wedding portraits can be formal, dramatic and romantic with special photographic effects and props; or they can be informal, casual, even candid, if you prefer.

If you are planning a budget wedding, check the photographer's package prices. It is always best to have him photograph from start to finish for you'll never be able to recreate the event at a later date.

For a more complete set of wedding photographs, perhaps your relatives may wish to give you additional prints as wedding gifts. Your photographer has gift certificates for this purpose. And, you might wish to order additional prints later for your six-month's anniversary.

Wedding photographs make ideal gifts from the newlywed couple to their close friends and relatives. You may wish to have the photographer frame large color prints of the bridal party for holiday gifting. And consider the photographer's collection of Kodak Special Moments cards — a portrait and card all in one for you to express thanks for the wedding gifts you received.

Economical or extravagant, your wedding should be recorded in professional photographs.

GIFT CERTIFICATE—Everett Lovhaug gives Garry and Cathy a $25 gift certificate to Hidy's Food in front of the store's pastry counter which makes one think of cake as in wedding.

Anyway you slice it

"The bride cuts the cake. . .the bride cuts the cake. . ." As the merry guests sing this happy refrain, the bride, her hand steadied by her new husband, cuts the first slice of the tiered white wedding cake.

Did you know this time honored tradition is meant to insure their happiness?

For almost as long as there have been weddings, there have been wedding cakes surrounded by all sorts of romantic traditions. In the time of the ancient Romans, the wedding cake was broken over the head of the bride, its crumbs collected by guests as tokens of good luck.

In merry medieval England, the bride and groom tried to kiss over a pile of tiny wedding cakes brought to the ceremony by their guests, and heaped together in the middle of the table. They were supposed to kiss without disturbing the pile of goodies!

In an attempt to make this tradition less of an obstacle, an itinerant French baker put all the cakes together and iced them as one, thereby giving birth to the much admired tiered wedding cake.

Bridal showers forecast

Looking for an unusual theme for a bridal shower? Think about a garden shower, whether or not the future bride will really have a garden out of doors. Clusters of potted plants in an apartment need lots of TLC and will bring many hours of delight.

Guests can bring seeds, flowering bulbs, unusual plants, handsome pots, plant stands, planting tools, books on growing greens and flower arranging.

Another unusual idea would be a wine shower with an assortment of wines, wine glasses, graceful carafes, pitchers and even cheese boards.

Formal dress relaxed, today's groom comes into his own

Gary prepares for a trim from George Geesling at the Fayette Street Barber & Style Shop

The bride has always been the fashion standout and the focal point of attention on her wedding day . . . and rightly so. The groom and his men traditionally dressed alike. But this spring the groom at last comes into his own.

After Six, Inc., a major influence in formal wear fashions for the man, reports a new fashion development as a direct response to brides who've been seeking to give their mates equal prominence and fashion awareness on their "together-at-last" day.

The formal wear company is introducing for the spring-summer season a distinctive new outfit for the groom, the Charleston. It's a dashing new fashion inspired by the courtly antebellum era.

The Charleston is inspired by the traditional tailcoat with squared-off tails and coat front trimmed in contrasting velvet. It's available in soft shades of candlelight, mist grey, cloud blue, and sparkling white. The company has striven for a total look of elegance and coordination with deeply ruffled shirts and a special groom's sash and butterfly tie to match the jacket trim. Trousers, of course, are perfectly matched.

The groom's men wear the same color, but the formal styling is different. The Newport II jacket features traditional one-button model styling enhanced by a deep U-shaped vest, trimmed with velvet braid. Their shirts and ties match the groom's exactly.

Robert C. Rudofker, President of After Six Formals, reports an overwhelming acceptance for this new look created by his company and available at formal wear rental specialists all over the country.

"Today's young couples," he stated, "want all the glamour and beauty they can pack into the most momentous day of their life. There is no longer any reason for underplaying the fashion role of the men in the wedding party."

This year, for sure, wedding bells will be striking new notes of fashion excitement and elegance.

Reflect your personality in choosing your music

You may not want 76 trombones played at your wedding and 110 cornets may overfill your hall. But why not consider three trombones and perhaps one cornet?

If you like the sound of brass, go ahead and include it in your wedding plans. Young couples today have a much greater latitude in planning not only where they'll have the wedding but all the elements which help make it "the perfect day."

And, if you have friends who play musical instruments, include them.

The American Music Conference says that many about-to-be-marrieds are making their weddings much more reflective of their own personalities than was true even five years ago.

While you'll still find Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" among the ceremonial selections, a great many brides and grooms are more likely to say their vows to the theme from "Elvira Madigan" or even a jazz version of "Yellow Submarine."

Tempting tables for gatherings

A super-looking table setting can camouflage even the simplest food or enhance a gourmet dinner. This is the advice given to brides-to-be by Charles Solt, design director of Lenox China and Crystal, whose patterns are selected by more brides across the country than any other.

Good taste in the basics — fine china, handblown crystal and sterling flatware — pays off in the kind of good looking tables that will carry you through years of successful entertaining, he said.

"Add to these great beginnings, zesty menus planned around a theme, and the unexpected in table decorations and you're almost guaranteed a super gathering, be it a casual dinner for two, a buffet for a dozen close friends, or a Saturday evening dinner party," Mr. Solt added.

Key a menu and table around German, Mexican or French fare, or try an Italian dinner with clusters of red and green peppers and bunches of pasta tied with ribbon as a centerpiece, he suggests. Use available fresh fruits and vegetables according to the season or cluster your favorite bric-a-brac at the table's center.

Great looking tables are easy to create with the variety of beautiful fine china and lead crystal patterns available to today's bride, Mr. Solt said. Lenox Designs dinnerware with traditional florals or geometrics, all rimmed in 24-karat gold or gleaming platinum, and their hand blown crystal stemware comes in shapes and colors to please everyone, ranging from the classically simple with delicately-etched patterns to heavy cut designs.

To ensure beautiful tables for all your entertaining needs, the designer offers the following suggestions when selecting fine china and lead crystal:

Seek the advice of a Wedding Gift Registry Consultant at your favorite store, and register all your tableware needs. Consultants can give you top-notch advice on coordinating china, crystal and flatware and tips on trends and color schemes. She'll make a list of your choices, show them to friends and relatives, and check off their purchases to avoid duplicates.

Select open stock fine china and lead crystal. This means you will be able to add or replace pieces as needed.

Who pays what, where and when

So many details go into your wedding — and each one is important. Deciding who pays for each of them can be confusing. The following list of expenses should help. In general; unless the groom's family offers to help with the reception costs, the whole wedding ceremony is the responsibility of the bride's family.

Optional expenses include:

Rehearsal dinner — either the groom's family or the bride's family and friends give it.

Attendants' dresses — usually bought by the attendants themselves, but the bride may buy them.

Bride's bouquet — usually a gift from the groom, but the bride's family may buy it.

Corsages for mothers and grandmothers — usually provided by the groom, but the bride may want to buy them herself.

Using hand-me-down decorating to create

Chances are newlyweds will not be purchasing all of their furniture before they settle in their first apartment. In fact, they'll probably be filling in with pieces borrowed from parents and relatives. If this situation applies to you, here are some handy do-it-yourself decorating hints.

With time and imagination, decorating with such "conversation pieces" can be fun and rewarding.

To begin, use common sense and tips from experts and be sure to take advantage of the excellent products currently on the market to help save time and work.

Large bureaus or dressers can take on new life by simply refinishing or repainting them. First, sand down and clean the surface. Then apply paint, antiquing base or stain, followed by appropriate sealer. Using a kit makes the job a cinch, and the results will amaze you.

Often, decorators will blend such a piece with the walls so it seems to disappear. This can be accomplished by painting walls with geometric lines or patterns, extending this pattern onto the dresser. Or paper the dresser with the same wallpaper you are using on the walls, then cover with varnish or a plastic sealer.

That rug you borrowed for your livingroom can be easily spruced up by using a convenient rug-cleaning product like Spray 'n Vac that lets you shampoo your carpet while you vacuum. Just spray the foam on the rug, wait until it dries and then vacuum away the dried foam and dirt.

Slipcovering can be accomplished by the home sewer without much difficulty. There are a number of excellent publications on the market that give step-by-step instructions. However, if you are not that handy, colorful pillows strewn on old furniture can do wonders.

Borrowed mirrors can be modernized by refinishing or by covering borders with fabric glued over a bit of padding and stretched over to the back.

And dinette sets can either be repainted or, if you prefer, covered by a pretty linen cloth that reaches the floor. (Then cover your chair cushions to match!)

Decorating with hand-me-downs is a challenge and really a convenience, too. It gives you time to determine your long-range wants and needs, and allows you to budget for those items you'll want to keep for years to come.

Dates for dates

If your rehearsal dinner is to be a big splashy cocktail and dinner affair, it is perfectly proper for your attendants to bring their dates. In that case make sure that invitations are sent out to all your guests, including their dates.

Packing tips on honeymoon trip

After the excitement of your wedding day, you'll be off for your honeymoon. Whether it's a big trip or a small one, you'll save a lot of bother if you plan your packing carefully. Here are some hints:

Pack shoes, hair dryers, clocks, and other heavy things at the hinge side of your suitcase — they'll be on the bottom when you carry it, so they won't crush your clothes.

Pack firmly. Loosely-packed clothes will shift around in transit and wrinkle more easily.

Pack in sections and not in layers - sportswear together, evening wear together, lingerie together. It's easier to get at things that way, and easier to re-pack firmly.

Distribute weight evenly on both sides of your suitcase (pack one heavy article at either end of the hinge), and it will be easier to carry.

Fasten all buttons and zippers, then fold everything in thirds lengthwise — a lengthwise fold will come out naturally as you wear the garment.

Pack all liquids (shampoo, cosmetics) and aerosols in a separate carry-on case.

Take clothes that don't wrinkle easily.

Because you'll be trying to save as much space as possible, take clothes and accessories that you can mix and match.

Initial romance

Inscribing your name or initials, and your wedding date on the inside of each band is traditional and romantic.

To ensure their lasting 'til your golden anniversary, plan to spend about one week's salary for each band. Since price varies with the style and amount of work involved, there is no practical buying guide to use, but the salary guide just mentioned can be a starting point.

Mideast custom

Why do we throw shoes after the bride? Probably it dates from the ancient Middle East, where men would exchange their sandals to symbolize the exchange of property. So shoes signify transfer of authority from the bride's father to her husband.

Survey shows preference for plastic containers

Plastic kitchen accessories offer the best dollar value to consumers when compared with similar items made of other materials, according to 53.8 per cent of the home economists responding to a recent survey. Just over 37 per cent thought metal accessories offered the best value, while glass and ceramic items trailed far behind.

Conducted anonymously by Borden's Lustro-Ware plastic housewares division, the survey also indicated that the majority of homemakers preferred to buy kitchen accessories (canisters, bread boxes, recipe card boxes and the like) in complete matched sets instead of individually.

Seventy per cent of the responding home economists preferred covered plastic storage containers to glass for refrigerator storage of prepared foods, with square and rectangular shapes preferred for easy stacking and space saving.

The multiple choice survey showed the most popular kitchen waste container design to be one with a bag-holding fitted rim and lift-up lid.

Plastic kitchen waste containers were preferred to metal ones by an overwhelming 86.8 per cent to 13.2 per cent. Rust resistance, ease of cleaning and light weight were prime reasons given for the preference, characteristics which also figured prominently in the best dollar value choice.

APPLIANCE HUNTING—Judy Sever shows Cathy and Garry French Hardware's line of small appliances for the household.

Family meeting initiated by groom's family

The first contact between the bride's and groom's families should be initiated by the groom's parents. This can be done by a simple telephone call or letter extending an invitation to dinner at home or in a restaurant.

The bride and groom may wish to attend, if only to perform the necessary introductions.

Should the groom's family not make the initial overture, it is perfectly proper for the bride's parents to do so.

In those cases where the parents live at too great a distance from each other for a convenient get-together, a congenial letter from the mother of the groom is acceptable.

OUT SHOPPING—Garry awaits to approve Cathy's selections at the cosmetic counter at Risch's Pharmacy. The selections can help keep a bridelooking her finest.

INSURANCE NEEDS—Dick Willis discusses the insurance needs of Cathy and Garry. A necessity that few newlyweds can do without.

St. Lucia honeymoon offers fun in Carib sun

If you and your spouse are in search of a honeymoon in paradise, then St. Lucia, a small island in the Caribbean will not disappoint either of you!

With the weather, scenery, accommodations, cuisine, sports and entertainment facilities, shopping and the hospitality of the natives just what it should be, the most discriminating visitors are assured of an out-of-this-world honeymoon.

Harmonizing with nature's breath-taking hills and beaches is the luxurious resort complex, La Toc, situated on a large, unspoiled white beach about two miles from Castries, capital of St. Lucia.

Considered t to be one of the finest facilities in the Caribbean, the Hotel La Toc and La Toc Village of 60 private cottages is as continental in taste as it is British in hospitality and Caribbean in ambience.

Each of the hotel's 150 air-conditioned bedrooms has a balcony with a tropical view and the ground floor rooms each have private patios for easy access to the beach.

Dining in any of the resort's restaurants is a gourmet's delight. The accent in the formal dining room is elegantly French and many French specialties fill the menu.

An alternative is the informal grill room and bar, a favorite night spot, where entertaining and dancing continue until the wee hours of the morning. The other restaurant, in the village, is an ideal place to cap the night.

To work off the calories, one will have to choose between the nine hole par 32 golf course, the championship Har-Tru surface tennis courts complete with floodlights or the sailing, swimming and fishing for which the Caribbean is noted.

La Toc Village is adjacent to the hotel but different in concept. Designed to provide accommodations for those who want the most informal living without sacrificing comfort, the seaside cottages, ready for instant occupancy, come in one and two bedroom styles and depending on size, with a built-in pool.

And when the two of you think you've had enough of paradise, you might want to take a side trip to Barbados, 40 minutes away . . . or head back home — although we guarantee it will be reluctantly!

Let them eat cake

Whether a wedding be large or small, traditional or in a country garden, the wedding cake adds beauty and excitement to the day.

An added modern day custom is to put the top layer of the cherished cake in the freezer, to be savoured on their first anniversary.

U. S., Soviets sign nuclear test treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev today signed a precedent-setting treaty that will open some Russian nuclear test sites to American inspectors for the first time.

The simultaneous ceremonies here and in Moscow followed 18 months of complex negotiations and may, according to U.S. officials, spur negotiations in Geneva to reach a long-delayed agreement limiting strategic nuclear weapons.

Terms of the five-year treaty permit American inspectors to visit sites when the Russians conduct certain underground blasts that have potential use for changing the levels of rivers or excavating for minerals.

Years ago, American scientists abandoned the idea of experimenting with underground nuclear explosions for those purposes.

But the Soviets remain interested in such projects, and the treaty limits the megaton level of any single blast for such a purpose to 150 kilotons — the equivalent of 150,000 tons of TNT.

Until now, the Soviet Union has refused to permit any foreign inspectors on Russian soil.

Although weapons sites remained off-limits, U.S. officials said the breakthrough could eventually remove a principal obstacle to a treaty prohibiting all nuclear testing.

Since smaller explosions could escape other means of detection, the U.S. has been reluctant to press ahead for a broader treaty until the Russians permitted on-site inspection.

Although the treaty signed by Ford and Brezhnev bans peaceful underground explosions with a force of more than 150 kilotons, it allows a series of blasts that could total up to 1,500 kilotons, provided the explosions are spaced no more than five seconds apart. American inspectors would be allowed to check any series exceeding 150 kilotons.

The agreement, and an earlier accord prohibiting underground weapons tests of more than 150 kilotons, will be submitted to the Senate for ratification "in a very modest period of time," U.S. officials said.

Some arms control analysts have expressed doubt about the value of the twin pacts, saying the ceiling is too high to be meaningful. Defenders within the administration stress the precedent of on-site inspection and the detailed arrangements worked out by the two countries to exchange geological and testing data.

American inspectors monitoring Soviet facilities will be permitted to take depth soundings and to examine the hole left by the explosion, but not the nuclear device itself. They will use a cable with an oscillator at the end which indicates the force of the blast.

The treaty limiting weapons tests was signed in Moscow in 1974 by then-President Richard M. Nixon and Brezhnev. Ratification has been held up for completion of the second agreement, which U.S. officials said will make it easier to distinguish between weapons and peaceful tests.

Terms were completed in early April by negotiators in Moscow. The treaty was initialed May 12 but the signings were delayed.

B'burg wins $41,000 water supply grant

BLOOMINGBURG—The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency has announced that a $41,000 public water supply grant will be awarded to the village of Bloomingburg as soon as all necessary paperwork is completed.

The grant will be used to help fund the improvement of the village's water supply treatment facilities and will help to assure a safe, clean water supply to local residents, the Ohio EPA said.

The water system improvement is part of a $1 million sewer and water project already under construction in Bloomingburg.

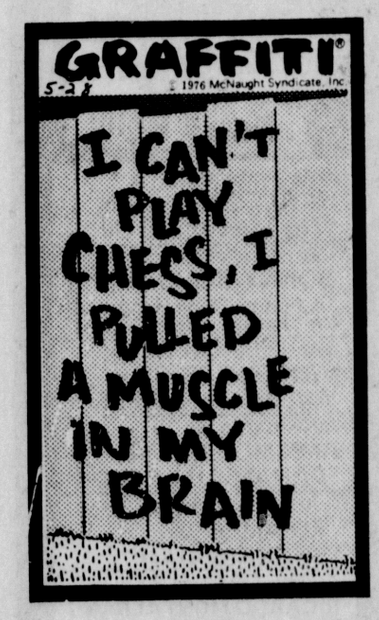
Bloomingburg's grant is part of a $832,630 EPA package that will go to Medina County and 10 small Ohio communities including Jamestown. The funds are part of a reappropriation, by the Ohio General Assembly, of unobligated public water supply grant funds.

In 1973, the Ohio General Assembly authorized the Ohio EPA to spend $2.5 million in general revenue sharing funds for the improvement of public water supplies across the state.

Two of the communties receiving grants will use the funds to build covers for their uncovered finished water reservoirs.

Bloomingburg's project calls for the installation of water meters, additions to the water filtering system and the drilling of another well.

Communities designated to receive grants are chosen through a criteria system. This method measures the adequacy of existing water treatment plants to meet bacteria and chemical measurements standards, the adequacy of supply sources and the possibility of abandoning unsatisfactory water supplies.



Red Cross issues appeal for blood

A special appeal has been issued by the Fayette County chapter of the American Red Cross for blood donors Tuesday.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Grace United Methodist Church, corner of N. North and E. Market streets, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Tuesday.

"Due to the number of open heart surgeries scheduled for this area, the demand on the blood bank has been greater than usual," said Miss Helen L. Slavens, 426 S. Fayette St., executive secretary of the Fayette County chapter of the American Red Cross.

"We really need to have a good turnout this time to keep our allotments. We can't let down," Miss Slavens said.

Tuesday's Bloodmobile visit is being sponsored by the Alpha Theta sorority in Washington C.H.

A quota of at least 160 pints of blood has been established.

Appointments for donations may be completed by calling Miss Slavens (335-3101) at the local Red Cross office.

Members of the local Welcome Wagon will provide babysitting services in the nursery of the church and members of the Washington C.H. Business and Professional Women's Club will furnish transportation.

Corporations to bail out state cash woes?

Ohio solons eye tax flow problems

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats on the House Finance Committee have revived a once-vetoed proposal requiring corporate taxpayers to bail the state out of its cash flow problems.

They inserted it into a supplemental appropriations bill Thursday while challenging GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes on still another front—his order for a 2 per cent spending cut that affected state agencies across the board.

With the legislature in recess until June 9, Chairman Myrl Shoemaker's committee is considering a supplemental spending measure that totaled $150.8 million after Thursday's deliberations.

Among more than $12 million worth of additions to the bill, which totaled $138.5 million when introduced, was $10.2 million to restore the 2 per cent cut for the financially troubled welfare department.

Rhodes, who has remained adamant in his refusal of Democratic requests to restore the cuts for all agencies, is virtually certain to veto the proposal if it remains intact following House and Senate floor action.

Rep. George D. Tablack, D-52 Campbell, offered the amendment that would require industry and others paying the corporate franchise tax to make quarterly payments in advance, instead of annually in January, so the state would have cash to pay its bills during months of low revenues. It was approved 10-3 with all three Republicans present voting no.

Rhodes vetoed similar language out of the regular, two-year budget bill he signed into law last June after some small and medium size industries said it could drive their already marginal operations out of business, costing the state jobs. The veto represented a reversal in position for Rhodes, who earlier had espoused the idea as a means of solving ready cash problems, and Democrats haven't let him forget it.

Tablack's amendment doesn't mean a tax increase for industry, only that they would be called upon in August to begin advance quarterly payments. Twenty-five per cent, or $87.8 million, would be due then, another 25 per cent in November, and the remaining 50 per cent next March 31. Ordinarily, they would pay up on Jan. 31.

The amendment provides that those businesses with tax liabilities of less than $1,000 would pay annually in March as they do now. The Mahoning County lawmaker said the exemption protects 77 per cent of Ohio's corporate taxpayers, or 53,884 out of 69,778.

In other action, the committee earmarked $47 million of $128.5 million in unappropriated welfare funds to meet current obligations to Medicaid providers. They agreed, however, that the move doesn't solve a Medicaid liability which is expected to soar to about $120 million more than earlier estimates in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Bridal edition appears today

"Happy Wedding Day '76," a special 20-page supplement devoted to prospective brides and grooms, is contained in today's edition of the Record-Herald.

Featured in the section are Mr. and Mrs. Garry Garrison, Prairie Road. The new bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Van Dyke, of New Martinsburg, and the new groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Garrison, of Greenfield. The couple was married May 15 in the New Martinsburg United Methodist Church.

Neil Arthur and Bill Metais, members of the Record-Herald advertising department staff, accompanied the couple as they visited stores and businesses in the Washington C.H. area to plan for their wedding.

The result of the work done by Arthur and Metais is a photo story on wedding planning which appears throughout the special edition.

Also featured in the section are advertisements by Fayette County merchants concerning wedding planning, setting up housekeeping, plus a variety of shower and wedding gift suggestions.

Stories in the special bridal edition, compiled and edited by members of the Record-Herald news staff, cover many phases of wedding preparations.

June, the traditional month for weddings, is but four days away. If you are planning a wedding, check the special edition for many ideas for that very special day.

Truck driven by escapees found

Area residents along the Bloomingburg-New Holland Road who might have seen a dump truck driving their way were wrong if they believed a new county garbage collecting system was being established.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that the white dump truck, seen heading northbound on the Bloomingburg-New Holland Road, was driven by two escapees from the Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

At 2:32 p.m. Wednesday, Fayette County jailer-dispatcher Terry Summers received a report that James Barnes, 54, of Cincinnati, and Heinz Kruse, 39, of Loveland, had escaped from the Chillicothe Correctional Institute in a white dump truck, and were believed to be in the New Holland area. The two merit status inmates had been working on prison grounds outside the institute when they escaped around

Bridge replacement project scheduled

COLUMBUS—Bids for a two-part Fayette County bridge replacement project on Good Hope-New Holland Road in Marion and Wayne townships will be opened in Columbus on June 15 by the Ohio Department of Transportation.

Programmed estimated cost for the two improvement projects is $205,000.

Existing, narrow posted bridges over Compton Creek in Wayne Township and the north fork of Paint Creek in Marion Township will be replaced with new, prestressed concrete, non composite, box beam bridges with reinforced concrete substructures.

According to the Ohio Department of Transportation, the bridge decks will be 28 feet wide between guaradrails and paved with a two and one-half inch asphalt concrete wearing surface.

Through traffic will be routed the replacement project sites over White Road and U.S. 22-E; however, local access will be maintained with both the bridges not closed to traffic at the same time.

Estimated completion date is May 31, 1977.

Carter lashes out at political foes

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jimmy Carter wiped a smile off his face Thursday to issue a blistering attack at those he said wanted to derail his front-running campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination and "continue politics as usual."

Carter, who could come close to clinching a first-ballot nomination with a big victory in Ohio June 8, headed today for a rally with a United Rubber Workers Union local in Akron, and stop-offs in Youngstown and Steubenville.

In a speech before the Ohio AFL-CIO convention in Cincinnati, the former Georgia governor charged that his critics intended to preserve "at all cost their entrenched, unresponsive, bankrupt and irresponsible political power."

"I haven't skipped a state, I haven't avoided an opponent, I haven't evaded an issue," Carter told nearly 1,500 AFL-CIO delegates. "But I'm facing opposition from those who want to continue politics as usual."

"We've seen this campaign come full circle from Jimmy Who, 16 months ago, to stop Carter," he added before carrying his campaign across the state for rallies and fund raisers at Elyria, Lorain, Cleveland and East Cleveland.

Carter saved his individual barbs for President Ford and Ronald Reagan who he branded "tweedle dee and tweedle dum. There's no difference between them" In Cleveland, Carter told newsmen he did not mean to single out Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, or California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. as elements in any stop Carter movement.

"I don't think any of them are trying to stop me," he said. "They're legitimately running for president." He did not mention Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., but it was unclear whether that was an oversight or intentional.

His press secretary, Jody Powell, issued a clarification of Carter's remarks in Lorain.

"He does not think it would be proper for him to call by name or single out other Democrats," the spokesman said. But Powell conceded the "implication was clear" that the convention remarks were aimed at "the Fords and the Reagans and the unnamed Democrats."

Carter closed out his speech to representatives of 10 million member labor union on a high note and then avoided any sharp rhetoric about his opposition at succeeding stops.

"I'm running for president because I have a vision of a new America, a different America, a better America," he said. "I have a vision of an America that in Bob Dylan's phrase, is busy being born and not dying." Carter paraphrased from the folk-stylist's song, "It's All Right Ma, I'm Only Bleeding."

Silver Bridge claims rejected by court

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The state Court of Claims today denied $6.4 million in claims from the 1967 collapse of the Silver Bridge.

The 58 claims for wrongful death, personal injury and property damage were filed against the state Highway Department, which owned the bridge over the Ohio River when it collapsed on Dec. 15, 1967, killing 46 persons.

The claims had alleged that the Highway Department (formerly the state Roads Commission) was negligent in not inspecting and maintaining the twin eyebar suspension bridge.

"We are of the firm opinion that the collapse of the Silver Bridge on the evening of Dec. 15, 1967, could not have been anticipated or foreseen by the respondent (the Highway Department) in the exercise of reasonable care," said the 39-page opinion by the three-member court.

"The ultimate collapse was caused by a fracture of Eyebar 330 resulting from a phenomenon unknown to bridge engineers when the Silver Bridge was constructed in 1926 and unknown to bridge engineers on the date of its collapse.

"The statute which created this court authorized us to make awards in claims that the state of West Virginia and in equity and good conscience should discharge and pay. If that was our only guideline, this court, possessing the normal attributes of sympathy and compassion, would not hesitate to make awards.

"However, we have always interpreted this grant of jurisdiction to include the necessity of finding legal liability upon the state, before the test of equity and good conscience can be applied.

"We believe that in deciding claims, we must be bound by sound legal principles, and being of opinion that sound legal principles do not authorize recoveries, we hereby deny the claims arising out of the collapse of the Silver Bridge," the opinion said.

Tragic bus crash knits group

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — None were friends until they met in the hospital waiting room, each the parent of a child critically injured in California's worst school bus tragedy.

"Now, we have a special kind of closeness," said one.

By Thursday, the four girls still patients at Mt. Diablo Hospital had improved enough to be listed in good condition.

The four were members of the Yuba City High School choir. They were traveling to another school for a concert a week ago today when their chartered bus sailed off a highway exit ramp. It landed upside down 25 feet below.

Twenty-eight students and a music teacher were killed. Memorial services were planned today at Yuba City High School and two nearby high schools.

The heart of one of the dead — 15-year-old Donald Wright — was transplanted to a 33-year-old man at Stanford Medical Center.

The Alameda County coroner's office confirmed that the body of Wright, whose father is a physician, was taken to Stanford soon after his death. His vital organs were kept functioning with mechanical aids.

Deputy Coroner Kenneth Pollard said young Wright's kidneys and the corneas of his eyes also were used in transplant operations.

The heart recipient was described as a New York resident who had spent some time in Israel before returning to the United States.

JoAnn Watt, whose 16-year-old daughter, Reene, is at Mt. Diablo Hospital, said that before the accident she did not know any of the parents who have become close friends during the hospital vigil. "All the children we knew the parents of were killed," she said.

At least one parent of each of the hospitalized girls has been spending the week in Concord, about 85 miles from home in Yuba City. When they're not in the rooms with their children, they're talking with each other in a conference room set aside for their use.

Their biggest worry now is how their children are taking the news that many of their friends were killed.

"We know now they're going to be physically okay. It's mentally we're worried about," said Mary Kearns, mother of 16-year-old Colleen.

Reene Watt is taking it especially hard — so hard that doctors delayed her removal from intensive care for a day in fear she would hear television reports about the magnitude of the crash.

"I've had knots in my stomach dreading the day I'd have to tell her," Mrs. Watt said.

She said Reene, like the others, could not talk for days because of a tube in her throat that helped her breathe.

"She wrote lots of notes," Mrs. Watt said. "Then she withdrew. Finally, we got it out of her last night, that she wanted to know how bad it was. She still doesn't know who, but we told her that more than half the kids were killed. She hasn't asked any more questions."

Evacuation follows train derailment

RUSHVILLE, Ohio (AP) — "I thought it was a bomb," said Barbara Braglin. "I thought what am I going to do?"

Mrs. Braglin, her husband and their four children were among the 1,500 residents of three tiny Fairfield County communities evacuated Thursday night when 36 cars of a ConRail train derailed, spilling toxic chemicals into the Rush Creek. No injuries were reported from the fumes.

The families began returning to their homes "at their own risk" early today after the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency determined the toxicity level of the chemicals had dissipated.

Fairfield County Sheriff's Deputy Sgt. Jerry Lehman said the EPA advised residents who returned to their homes that they may suffer eye or respiratory irritation from the lingering ammonia oxides but gases were no longer toxic.

Several cars derailed into the creek, including the two tank cars carrying ammonia oxide and monoethylene. Sheriff's deputies said the gases spilled into the water and also formed a cloud which followed the creek south through the valley, routing families in Rushville, West Rushville and Bremen.

"We don't have a phone in our house," Mrs. Braglin said during an interview at Fairfield Union High School near Rushville where about 100 evacuees were temporarily housed."My sister came over and told us we had to evacuate."

Volunteer firemen, deputies and state highway patrolmen from Licking and Fairfield counties went door-to-door in the neighborhoods bringing the residents to several schools in Fairfield and Perry counties.

Accommodations at the high school were hastily arranged to meet the emergency. School officials tried to provide areas for babies and younger children as well as adults.

Country music played over a radio in the cafeteria and youngsters cavorted in the halls while their parents waited for word that the danger had passed.

Some families brought their own food, but enough cookies, doughnuts and beverages to feed everyone appeared as word of the incident spread.

As soon as the EPA determined the danger had passed, cleanup crews began clearing the wreckage from the tracks.

Corruption charged in Teamsters Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — A small group of union dissidents is charging widespread corruption among Teamster union officials, saying they make six-figure salaries, use a fleet of private jets and dine on French cuisine prepared by chefs on the union payroll.

The Professional Drivers Council, known as PROD, charged that the Teamsters is run by "money-hungry and power-hungry" executives lavishly lining their pockets at the expense of the rank-andfile. The council pledged to mount a campaign to force government action if the union refuses to "clean its own house."

The 2,000-member group, representing a handful of the union's 2.3 million members, documented its charges in a 177-page book showing that Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons and numerous other union leaders collect six-figure salaries, have unlimted expense accounts, receive expensive gifts and arrange for their own lucrative pensions.

Arthur Fox, an attorney who serves as PROD's staff director, told a news conference Thursday his organization found wholesale violations of federal labor laws during a 10-month investigation of union financial records filed with the Labor Department.

Teamsters officials declined comment.

While many of the charges in its report were not new, the group presented for the first time in a single document a broad picture of Teamsters officials allegedly abusing their power.

The report noted that on the union headquarters' payrolls are a barber, a physical fitness expert, two French chefs and at least one chauffeur. It added that by way of contrast, the union's entire safety department consists of only two men who are paid about what the two cooks receive.

In addition to high salaries from multiple union jobs — at least 17 officials earn more than $100,000 a year — PROD said at least six officials have unlimited expense accounts covering everything from "a bag of groceries to greens fees at La Costa," the union-financed country club in California.

PROD said several union executives financed new homes with union funds or received "magnificent gifts ranging from new Cadillacs to condominiums."

In addition, the group said, the officials have access to the union's $13-million fleet of executive jet aircraft, second in size only to that of General Motors; they give high-paying jobs to their relatives and punish or harass union members who fight them.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., announced that he has asked the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee to investigate pension abuses alleged in the PROD report.

Stocks edge up slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged upward today amid hopes for a letup in upward pressure on interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose a fraction in the early going, and gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Several major banks this morning announced increases in their prime lending rates from 6¾ to 7 per cent.

But such a development had been widely anticipated all week on Wall Street.

And analysts said there were hopes that a decline in the money supply reported by the Federal Reserve late Thursday would mean less pressure on the Fed to tighten credit.

Recent moves by the Fed that pushed open market money rates higher set the stage for today's prime rate increases.

Early prices among Big Board stocks included Sony, unchanged at 9½; American Broadcasting, down ⅛ at 31¼; McDonald's, up ⅛ at 55⅛, and American Telephone & Telegraph, ahead ⅛ at 54¼.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average lost 3.06 to close a three-month low of 965.57.

Escapees

1:40 p.m. Wednesday.

Fayette County Sheriff's deputies were dispatched to the Bloomingburg-New Holland Road, but no sign of the men or truck was found at that time. However, by Friday morning, the dump truck had been located in the northeastern part of Fayette County, along the Rockwell Road, near Madison Mills.

The truck was found at 2 p.m. Thursday in a wooded area on the farm of Cecil Recob, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling. Recob had been plowing an adjacent field when he spotted the vehicle concealed behind trees.

Though two Ohio Highway Patrol airplanes have been used to assist both Fayette and Ross County law enforcement authorities, the two escapees have not been located. According to Joe Ashley, a spokesman for the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction, the pair are not believed to be armed.

Ashley said the two men, who are permitted to work on prison grounds outside the institute, were working with a group of inmates resurfacing a baseball diamond near the prison's honor dormitory just east of the prison facility.

Barnes was sentenced to three to 15 years from Butler and Hamilton counties for a receiving and concealing stolen property conviction. Kruse was sentenced to a five to 25 year term for rape from Clinton County. Both men have been in prison since 1974.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Those of you who aren't roaring off for the Memorial Day weekend should take a look tonight at a timely, excellent CBS News special with the straight forward title of "Busing."

It's a calm, valuable examination of the continuing and at times violent protest over the court-ordered busing of children to achieve desegregation in a number of public schools in America.

Narrated and reported by Charles Collingwood, this one hour special basically is a tale of two cities — Boston and Charlotte, N.C.

In the former, he notes, "busing is still a fighting word" after two years of trial, but in Charlotte, where busing was ordered in 1970, the practice "has achieved grudging acceptance."

The show, which examines how parents, kids and officials of the two cities are reacting to court-ordered busing, also goes into two deeper issues of national consequence.

They are whether busing has helped or harmed the quality of education for the kids involved and what effect the Justice Department's possible Supreme Court test of busing will have — before the court reaches any decision — in areas where busing exists and is being fought.

(CBS says the program will be updated before air time in the event Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi decides if the Justice Department will use a school desegregation case as a test of busing.

The seven deadly sins are avarice, sloth, envy, lust, gluttony, pride and anger.

"Fred? It's me again. I finally figured out how we can keep our visits to 10 minutes each."

If you keep your calls to ten minutes each, you can talk to your faraway friends more often. And by dialing direct, without operator assistance, after 5 P.M., a 10-minute call to any state outside Ohio, except Alaska or Hawaii, costs just $2.57 or less, plus tax. Prices are even lower after 11 P.M. and on weekends. It takes a long time to make a good friend. For $2.57 or less, take 10 minutes to keep a good friend. Visit often, by phone.

Dial-direct rates apply on all interstate calls (excluding Alaska) completed from a residence or business phone without operator assistance. They also apply on calls placed with an operator from a residence or business phone where dial-direct facilities are not available. For dial-direct rates to Hawaii, check your operator. Dial-direct rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel-guest, credit card or collect calls, or to calls charged to another number, because an operator must assist on such calls.

Opinion And Comment

Laxity on grade crossings

After many decades of heavy automotive traffic, railway grade crossings continue to be death traps. Many thousands of motorists are injured at such intersections each year, and the annual death toll is around 1,200.

This is naturally a matter of deep concern among safety officials. Since late in 1973 the Federal Highway Administration has paid out 402 million dollars to the states for improvement of grade crossing safety. The joker in the deck is that the states have been very slow to spend this money.

With a few exceptions, they have sat on most of it for more than two years. The federal agency figures that only about 10 million dollars' worth of safety work has been finished. Even the sums actually committed to specific projects though not yet spent amount to only one-fourth of the total received.

The reasons for this sluggish response are not entirely clear, but some are noted by safety experts and federal officials. They cite bureaucratic inertia as one factor, and also observe that highway engineers often tend to prefer other kinds of undertakings to the not very glamorous task of making grade crossings safer. Then there is a special kind of manpower problem: only members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen may install warning devices, but membership has dropped markedly in recent years.

Finally, it seems that in some states there is still a feeling that the railroads have the obligation to make grade crossings safe. This ignores the judgment of Congress and the courts that crossings are a public responsibility. To the extent that states delay grade crossing work for which funds are available, they neglect this responsibility.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

The Communist 'compromise'

The possibility that the Italian Communist Party (PCI) could obtain a plurality in the June 20 general election has touched off a great deal of debate, acrimony and speculation. In the past I have noted that the PCI has a history of standoffishness, if not resistance, to Moscow. A party with its own Lenin (Antonio Gramsci) and a highly sophisticated leadership (Palmireo Togliatti and, after his death, Enrico Berlinguer), the Italians — if only for cultural reasons — considered the Russians arrogant boors. True, Togliatti survived the Moscow purges by behaving himself, but later he had the decency to confess he simply didn't want to be shot. Recently the PCI has called for a "historic compromise" with the Christian Democrats (later adding other groups such as the Socialists), has eliminated the "dictatorship of the proletariat" from its program, and expressed disagreement with Moscow.

The French, British and Spanish (underground) parties have taken a similar line, most notably at the 25th Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (Feb. 24 — March 5), where Berlinguer informed the Russians that his party was for "an open and frank confrontation (with Moscow) of various experiences and positions." The French delegate, Gaston Plissonnier, told a press conference that the recent abandonment of the "dictatorship of the proletariat" by the French Communist Party (PCF) was "not negotiable."

This is strong language, bordering on outright heresy, and has been interpreted by some conservative commentators as a charade deliberately staged by Moscow to get the Western European democratic parties to relax. This is a bit too clever; indeed, two weeks after the Communist Congress adjourned a high Soviet official, Venjamin Midteev fired a salvo at the wandering sheep. It took the form of a 56-page pamphlet entitled "Revisionism in the Service of Anticommunism" (apparently written last Nov.), which denounced criticism fo "proletearian internationalism" (read as "utter subservience to Moscow") and called the "dictatorship of the proletariat the supreme form of democracy."

Those Bolshies are inscrutable, but it stretches the mind to think they are simulatneously running two charades: one to help the PCI and PCF, and the other to cut their ideological throats. No, that dog won't hunt. What then are we to make of the disarray? Are the PCI and PCF about to lie down with the democratic lambs? Will they prove dedicated to NATO and unwilling to provide military secrets to their onetime masters?

To answer this, you have to realize that separatism in a national communist party in no way coincides with democratization. Four examples come to mind: China, Yugoslavia, Albania and Rumania. The first three have cut the umbilical cord of "proletarian internationalism" and remain national communist dictatorships. The Rumanians, as fine a group of domestic Stalinists one could ask for, are constantly pressing their claim for national autonomy from Moscow. (They have been busy quoting Karl Marx to the effect that the Moldavian S.S.R., which Moscow seized from Rumania after the war, was the Rumanian province of Bessarabia. Radio Peking has also picked up the theme in its Rumanian broadcasts!)

In short, the demand for autonomy, for taking the "national road to communisn," does not in itself indicate any conversion to the principle of one person, one vote and the majority picks up the marbles. With this in the computer, what about the future roles of the PCI and the PCF? Would they, in power, simply set up Italian or French Communist dictatorships and work out a Yugoslav-type relationship with Moscow? As far as the PCF is concerned, I think this would undoubtedly be the case: The whole history of the French Party indicates its utterly undemocratic matrix.

The Italian situation is a bit more optimistic, but from the viewpoint of a democrat not much. The PCI, I think, would revert to a non-Leninist power model similar to that of Gramsci, or of the German Marxist Rosa Luxemburg; namely a dictatorship of "progressive forces" over "reactionary bourgeois elements" with democracy within the "progressive forces." This is an improvement over Lenin, but the central question remains:.. Who defines the "progressive forces"?

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, MAY 29

ARIES
(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)
Fairly favorable influences encourage your interests, but do not go overboard in making program changes. Neither reach for the obviously unattainable.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 to May 21)
Stress moderation. As with Aries, do not strive for the unreasonable and do not permit your active mind to carry your physical self beyond sensible bounds.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
This day's accent is on career achievement, improved relations with those in positions of authority. A great day for making room for yourself at the top.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
Be wary of overdoing or overplaying your hand. Evaluate true needs, determine essentials — and tackle in order of importance.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Look deeply for answers to problems in which you may have become involved. Don't shut your eyes to them. A bright outlook is your for the seeing.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Curb a tendency to be overly critical. Don't look for weaknesses in others and don't look for flaws in every proposed idea. If one is obvious, point it out, of course.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
Take only the short cuts which common sense dictates. In general, you will have to put in extra effort to make this day's activities shape up better, faster.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Don't listen to what "they" say when you have reason to believe the source is questionable. Stress your good judgement and foresight.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
An average day, if you are content to leave it at that. But, if you are ready to accept challenges, it holds the nucleus of fine achievement and new opportunities to reach higher objectives.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Get the other fellow's point of view before making final decisions. You may be pleasantly surprised at the new perspectives you gain.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Be flexible, but not easily turned by every wind that blows; eager to take new steps forward, but not at the cost of future losses.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)
A fine day! You may be the recipient of special favors, tokens of good will or other unexpected benefits.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a brilliant intellect and a great love of learning. Your tastes run toward the literary and you have an unusual flair for the dramatic — a tremendous asset should you choose the stage, politics or the law as a career. If you write, your best work would evidence itself in essays, criticism, novels and detective stories. But don't count out journalism and travel literature — "naturals" for the restless, curious Geminian. You have a great gift for oratory and, if starting out in politics or the legal field, this advantage could quickly propel you to a spot in statesmanship or in the diplomatic field. Other areas suited to your talents: exploration, archeology, music and sculpture.

"HELLO, BUG — THIS IS BUGEE."

Ohio Perspective

Wallace having difficult time

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The fiery governor of Alabama is back on the campaign trail in his fourth bid for the presidency. But, Gov. George C. Wallace's campaign has fallen on hard times.

Wallace, who ran as a third party candidate in 1964 and 1968 and as a Democrat in 1972 and this year, has done little active campaigning for the Democratic nomination.

In an appearance in Columbus in April, Wallace told his state supporters he probably would not be making many Ohio appearances because of the press of state business in Alabama.

However, he has held occasional airport appearances in other primary states. An airport appearance at the Greater Cincinnati Airport in Covington, Ky., doubled for both the Kentucky and Ohio primaries.

Wallace's campaign appearances also have been hampered by the paralysis of his legs, the result of a bullet fired by a would-be assassin in the 1972 campaign.

The paralysis also has been an issue in his campaign as some have questioned his ability to physically function as president. Wallace, 56, insists he is in good physical health.

"I'm as healthy as I ever was except that I can't walk," he says. His personal physician, Dr. H.H. Hutchinson, concurred, saying Wallace is "fully capable of serving as president." Hutchinson said Wallace has had "typical problems in day-to-day living of the paraplegic," but said he believes most of the serious problems are "in the past."

However, Wallace refused to submit medical records for review to the Medical World News, which obtained the records of 12 other major candidates.

In economic affairs, Wallace has advocated curtailment of interest rates and government spending, but does not say where he would curtail progams except for the general area of welfare, which he calls "ripoffs." He says "billions of dollars" could be saved by eliminating "ripoffs," but has not been specific on the proposals.

Wallace advocates reforming the tax structure to "make it more equitable and give a break to the middle class." He says revamping of the tax structure would enable business and inndustry to increase productivity "and then the private sector would help to bring about a relief of the unemployment situation."

In January, he proposed a public works program which would emphasize building highways, transit system, sewers, water projects and environmental control projects. He did not specifiy its cost, but said it would be financed by funds diverted from a closely-monitored welfare system and from foreign aid now going to countries which call the United States "imperialist warmongers."

He has called for increasing the personal exemption in income tax from $750 to $1,200, a proposal the Treasury Department says would cost $16 billion to $18 billion in lost tax revenues.

In energy policy, Wallace says the nation must have a strong voluntary conservation program. He says the nation must complete construction of the Alaskan pipeline and build a second pipeline if the oil reserves will support it.

He also has recommended stepped up offshore drilling. But, he says the "big answer" is coal, which could be used to make the United States energy independent.

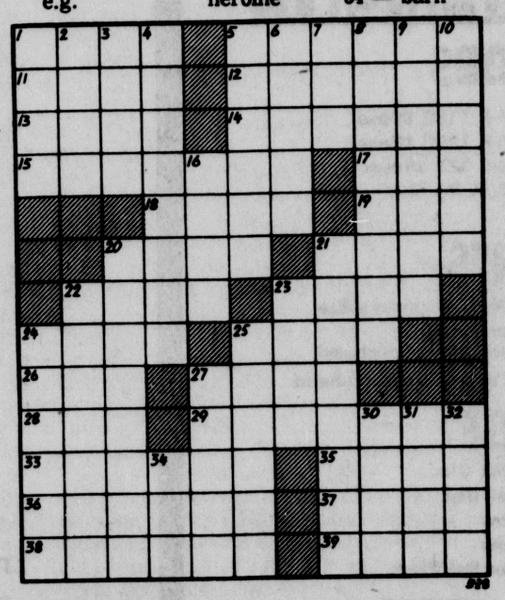
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: ONE OF THE FIRST PRINCIPLES OF PERSEVERANCE IS TO KNOW WHEN TO STOP PERSEVERING. — CAROLYN WELLS

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Neglected wife has daytime liaisons

DEAR ABBY: I am not trying to justify my getting involved with another man, but maybe if you knew what my husband was like, you wouldn't blame me.

I have been married less than five years, and my husband stopped paying attention to me about two years ago. His whole life is sports and running with his unmarried pals. We have one preschool child.

I became so lonely and frustrated that I took up with a man I met while he was demonstrating something in a nearby shopping center (don't say where.) Anyway, this new man in my life has been coming to my home during the daytime while my husband is at work, and I've never been happier!

He's single and wants me to leave my husband for him. Abby, I'm only 25 and have my whole life before me. What should I do?

CONSIDERING A CHANGE

DEAR CONSIDERING: First try to improve your marriage through professional counseling. The new man in your life may provide some temporary excitement, but all you really know about him is that he spends his afternoons with married women while their husbands work. Is THAT the kind of man you want for a husband? Think it over.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for the city of Duluth, Minn.!

Persons caught shoplifting used to be sentenced to clean the cages of the Duluth zoo. Last winter they started something new: Instead of cleaning cages, shoplifters were sentenced to 40 hours of shoveling snow outside the residences of elderly citizens and the infirm.

Now the city gets free labor by putting the law violators to work doing something useful.

DIZZY IZZY IN DULUTH

DEAR DIZZY: Great idea! And in the summer, let 'em rake leaves. (Personally I'd prefer shoveling and raking to cleaning cages in a zoo.)

DEAR ABBY: I work in a two-girl office with a woman who is very pleasant, but she talks too much. Every morning she regales me with stories about what her daughter's boyfriend said or the details concerning her husband's stop-smoking clinic. She talks endlessly about her relatives and neighbors I've never met, and it's all very boring.

I've tried to act interested, but I am bored stiff and resent being kept from my work. I work with figures, and it's not easy to concentrate when I'm interrupted by something she just thought of and has to tell me.

So, how do I get the idea across to her that she shouldn't talk so much? I'm not very good at telling people off.

NO TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR NO TOWN: You don't have to tell her OFF; just tell her that you feel guilty "chatting" when you're being paid to work, so to please save the conversation for before or after office hours. She'll get the message. And if she doesn't, keep repeating it until she does.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, May 28, the 149th day of 1976. There are 217 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, in World War II, British and French troops began an enormous evacuation from Dunkerque, France.

On this date:

In 1863, the first Black regiment from the North in the Civil War left Boston for the front under Colonel Robert Shaw.

In 1864, Archduke Ferdinand Maximilian of Austria-Hungary landed in Vera Cruz, Mexico to become Emperor.

In 1937, British Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin resigned and was succeeded by Neville Chamberlain.

In 1940, King Leopold III of Belgium surrendered his army to German invaders in World War II.

In 1959, two monkeys named Able and Baker survived a 300-mile trip into space after being launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., in the nose of a rocket.

Ten years ago: The military government of South Vietnam attempted to win over Buddhist opposition with gestures of reconciliation after attempting military force.

Five years ago: In Yuba City, Calif., a sheriff confirmed the discovery of five more bodies buried in fruit orchards, bringing the number of killings to 20.

One year ago: President Ford arrived in Brussels, Belgium on his first trip to Europe as President.

Today's birthdays: Retired President Warren Giles of the National Baseball League is 80. Biologist Barry Commoner is 59.

Thought for today: Goodness is the only investment that never fails — Henry David Thoreau, American writer, 1817-1862.

Bicentennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, the London Post published parts of the American revolutionary pamphlet by Thomas Paine, "Common Sense." There was speculation that the author had been Benjamin Franklin, but friends familiar with Franklin's literary style denied it.

Fayette Bible Church features music

An inspirational program of sacred music will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, in Fayette Bible Church.

The program, which features the Bob Jones University Brass Quartet, will include sacred brass selections, all of which have been arranged especially for this ensemble. The musical team also will present vocal selections. In keeping with America's bicentennial, a patriotic section will be included. A brief Gospel message will also be delivered.

Closing program slated by school

The Fayette Christian School will hold its closing program on Friday at 7:30 p.m. Included in the program is a cap and gown graduation of the kindergarten class.

The kindergarten and pre-school classes will be demonstrating the skills that they have learned during the school year. There will be a demonstration in reading, numbers and spelling.

Also included in the program will be patriotic songs, poetry, Bible verses and other music. The public is invited to attend.

The program will be held in the auditorium of the Fayette Bible Church, 1315 Dayton Ave.

GROUP FEATURED—The Good Hope United Methodist Church will present the singing group, "Reflection" at 8 p.m. Monday in the church, following a 6 p.m. potluck supper. The concert is open to the public at no admission charge. However, a free will offering may be made to see the group, comprised of students from Orai Roberts University, Tulsa, Okla.

4-H gathering held by church

The New Holland United Methodist Church observed Rural Life Sunday by having all the 4-H Clubs in the New Holland Area conduct the worship service.

The service was opened by a patriotic piano prelude by Miss Laura Writsel. The presentations of the American Flag, Christian Flag and the 4-H Flag were made by Tom Bishop, Doug Johnson and Jay Johnson. The pledges to the three flags were led by Tracey Webb, Linda Miller and Cindy Dennis.

The "Call to Worship," was led by Karen Miller, while Leora Burdge gave the opening prayer. The "Small World Choir," under the direction of Mrs. Don Conrad and accompanied by Miss Writsel, sang for their last appearance until fall.

The responsive reading was given by Miss Jane Kearney. Kathy Kirkpatrick presented "The Modern Affirmation."

The "History of 4-H" was given by Doug Miller. A poem "4-H Members" was read by Tami Deskins. The offertory prayer was spoken by Terry Helsel. Ushers were Mike Coil, Pat Coil, Tarkio Chester and Doug Miller.

A talk on "Leadership," was given by Cindy Baird. Alan Thompson spoke about "Citizenship." Christine Taylor talked about "Community Service." Gale Horney told about her experiences as a camp counselor. 4-H Club Congress was explained by Twila Dennis and Don Davis.

Rev. Richard McDowell thanked the 4-H clubs for the worship service and for the work they are doing in the community.

MISS NIKKI S. SOUTHWORTH

Wedding date set June 12

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Southworth of 920 Rawlings St. have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nikki Sue, to Don H. Estep, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Estep, 330 Grove Ave.

The couple will be married June 12 in McNair Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Wilbur Bullock officiating.

Miss Southworth is employed by F. & R Lazarus, Columbus, and her fiance by Bliss College.

Esther Circle has two guests

The Esther Circle of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church met with Mrs. I. L. Booco, with Mrs. Marvin Stockwell, the assisting hostess.

Mrs. Stockwell read "My First Impressions of the U.S.A." by Albert Einstein, and "America is An Attitude" by John Wayne.

Reports were made by Miss Margaret Binegar, secretary, Mrs. Ralph Davidson, treasurer, Mrs. Booco, flowers, and Mrs. Marvin DeMent, least coin offering.

Mrs. Russell Garringer presenteed the program topic taken from "Heritage and the Challenge" concerning the black women from the northern part of the country and her contribution to the Methodist Church.

A salad course was served to 10 members and two guests, Mrs. Jess Garringer and Mrs. Harold Cline.

Cannon twins feted at shower

Mrs. Jane Cannon and twins, Amy Marie and Jamie Lorie, were guests of honor at a layette shower given in the home of Mrs. Darla Miteff. Assiting Mrs. Miteff was Mrs. Jerri Anderson.

The theme of "Babyland" prevailed with predominant colors of yellow and pink favors adorning the gift and buffet tables. Babies playing beside a stuffed giraffe centerpiece completed the scene.

Game winners besides the proud grandmothers, Mrs. Ann Cannon, and Mrs. Elva Horney (great-grandmother) were Mrs. Martha Campbell, Miss Toni Anderson, Mrs. Alberta Mathews, and Mrs. Elaine Cockerill. All prizes were presented to the guests of honor.

Mrs. Cannon, assisted by her nieces, Shelli and Toni Anderson, opened many lovely gifts from those present and some from invited guests unable to attend.

Refreshments consisted of cake, ice cream, nuts, mints and punch. Also present was the other grandmother of the twins, Mrs. Lorie Horney, Miss Karen Melvin, Mrs. Francis Allen and Mrs. Anna Lee Smith.

"Linsey-woolsey" was a combination of wool and flax utilized by Ohio pioneer women in producing wearing apparel for the men of the family.

MRS. GARRY GARRISON

New Martinsburg Church setting for VanDyke-Garrison vows

Marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Cathy VanDyke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles VanDyke of New Martinsburg, and Garry Garrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Garrison of Greenfield. The Rev. Earl Russell performed the double-ring ceremony May 15, in the New Martinsburg United Methodist Church. Arrangements of yellow and green carnations and candelabra entwined with greenery and matching bows graced the altar.

Danny VanDyke presented the theme from Love Story and We've Only Just Begun, at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length white gown of polyster with velvet bow at the empire waistline, lace bodice and long sleeves which ended in ruffled cuffs. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and rosebuds.

Matron of honor Mrs. Frances Arledge of Chillicothe, aunt of the bride, wore a yellow gown of dotted Swiss with lace-trimmed collar, long sleeves, empire waist, and a wide ruffle at the hemline. She wore a matching floppy hat. Miss Beverly VanDyke, sister of the bride and bridesmaid, wore a dress like the honor attendant, except in green. She, too, wore a matching floppy hat. Each carried a bouquet of yellow and green carnations. Little Tammi VanDyke, the flower girl, wore a dress like the honor attendant, and Joe VanDyke was the ringbearer.

Jeff VanDyke, cousin of the bride, served as best man, and seating the wedding guests was the bride's brother, John.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a green print polyester street-length dress with short sleeves and white belt. The groom's mother chose a peach sleeveless dress with pleated skirt.

Hostesses for the reception which followed at the church were Mrs. Marriett Garringer, Mrs. Judy Barnhart and Mrs. Kay Angus. Bud vases filled with carnations centered the bride's table.

Following a trip to Mammoth Cave, Ky., the couple is now residing at Prairie Knolls, Trailer Park. The new Mrs. Garrison, a 1974 Miami Trace High School graduate, is employed at Connie's Coiffures. Her husband, a 1971 McClain High School graduate, is employed by Mac Tools.

Presbyterian women 'guests'

It was time for 55 ladies to take a rest, as they were seated at tables in Persinger Hall attractively decorated in red, white and blue, to enjoy a delicious dinner prepared by Mrs. Walter Coil and served by Presbyterian men: Harvey Heironimus, Luke Musser, Bill Still, Perse Harlow, Edwin Thompson, Gerald Wheat, Sam Self and Harold Vail.

Mrs. Harold Vail, president of the Women's Association, gave the Invocation preceding the dinner and presided at the short business meeting following the dinner. Reports were given by Mrs. Orville Jenkins, secretary and Mrs. Edwin Thompson, treasurer. Mrs. Rollo Marchant announced that the next sewing day will be June 16. Mrs. Emma Kelley reported on the need for financial support for Church Women United to meet the expenses of rent, heat, light, and yard care at the Clothing Center.

Mrs. Richard Maddux, Local Action Coordinator, introduced Mrs. Leroy Davis, coordinator of the local Help Anonymous program, which was featured on the front page of the Record-Herald on Wednesday, May 26,. Mrs. Davis presented a U.S. Public Health Service film "Tell Me Where to Turn", showing some of the many problems which are handled by Information and Referral Service, the organization which is funded Through the Ohio Commission on Aging and which has a center in every county in Ohio.

Following the showing of the film, Mrs. Davis gave some insight into what kinds of problems she and Miss Julie Harris, supporting services staff person for Fayette County, have been handling in their office since it was opened July 14, 1975.

Circle 3 ladies who were hostesses for the meeting decorated the tables.

The meeting was closed by the group joining hands in a circle around the room and repeating the Mizpah Benediction.

Progressive School staff guests at picnic

Students and teachers of the Fayette Progressive School were guests of Delta Child Convservation League for a noon picnic on Wednesday at Deer Creek State Park picnic area.

Arrangements for the event were made by Mrs. Robert Browning. Food for the noon meal was provided by all Delta League members and served by Mrs. Tom Mossbarger, Mrs. Dwight Duff, Mrs. Alvin Arminstrout, Mrs. Malcolm Bloomer, Mrs. John Cook, Mrs. Charles Cunningham, Mrs. Gene Ferro, Mrs. Jack Frost, Mrs. Ferol Lewis and Mrs. Art Schaefer.

Pueblo Indian drums were made from hollowed out cottonwood logs.

Auto demolished

Bloomingburg driver injured in accident

A Bloomingburg man was injured and his car was demolished during an accident on Ohio 38, Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported.

A car driven by Andrew S. Hoppes, 17, of Bloomingburg, was southbound on Ohio 38, when it reportedly went off the right side of the roadway, traveled back across the road to the left side, struck five rods of fence, and flipped over in a wheat field at 11 p.m. Thursday. The accident occurred just south of the Bloomingburg village limits.

Hoppes was treated at Fayette County Memorial Hospital for a possible fractured clavicle, and was released. He was charged with failing to drive on the right half of the roadway.

Another similar accident occurred at 8:25 a.m. Thursday when a car driven by Vera E. Kier, 20, of 1004 John St., swerved to the right on the Stuckey Road to avoid an oncoming vehicle, she said.

The car went off the right berm, came back across the road, and landed in a deep ditch on the left side. The car had been northbound on the Stuckey Road, about a mile north of U.S. 22-E. The car was slightly damaged, and though Ms. Kier was injured, she was not treated at the time.

A car driven by Frank E. Myers Jr., 21, of Greenfield, was southbound on Ohio 753, following a car driven by Frank Jackson, 48, of Good Hope. Sheriff's deputies said that the Jackson vehicle slowed, and was struck in the rear by Myers' car. The 11:30 p.m. Thursday accident occurred just south of the Huckill Road, and moderate damage was sustained by both cars.

Washington C.H. police officers checked three minor traffic accidents Thursday.

A car driven by Deborah D. Smith, 21, of 417 Rose Ave., was northbound on Delaware Street, while a car driven by Jennifer L. Bailey, 20, of 615 Harrison St., was eastbound on Paint Street. After stopping, both cars entered the intersection, and a collision resulted. There was slight damage to both cars as a result of the 10:20 a.m. Thursday accident.

Backing from a space in the Fayette County Memorial Hospital parking lot, a car driven by Mary E. Beard, 56, of Bowersville, struck and slightly damaged a parked car belonging to Erma A. Ausman, Lyndon. The mishap occurred at 3:34 p.m. Thursday.

A car driven by Charles V. Long, 68, of 5107 Ohio 41, was in the process of backing from a space in the Helfrich Market parking lot, when it struck and slightly damaged a parked car belonging to Theodore E. Irvin, 71, of 629 Willibar Drive. The accident occurred at 1:48 p.m. Thursday.

A low pressure area moving north from the lower Mississippi Valley was expected to bring rainshowers throughout Ohio tonight, a promise of things to come for the long Memorial Day weekend.

Lows tonight will drop to only 55 or 60.

New officers installed by Jeff Jaycee chapter

JEFFERSONVILLE — The Jeffersonville Jaycee chapter recently held its first annual awards banquet and installation of new officers for next year.

Award winners were Stanley Perry, Jaycee of the Year, presented in memory of the late Willis (Babe) Merriman; Richard Downing, project chairman of the year, and all Jaycee wives, community involvement award.

Spoke awards were presented to Butch McDaniel, John Bobbitt and Mrs. Debbie Merriman for her late husband.

Outgoing charter president Bob Steele installed the following new officers:

Jim Sears, president; Mike Young, internal vice president; Butch McDaniel, external vice president; Bob Swaim, secretary-treasurer; Larry Hunt, internal director; Bob Coe, external director, and Lamar Dement, public relations officer.

The Jeffersonville Jaycee wives have also elected new officers. They are Mrs. Bob Steele, president; Mrs. Paul McDaniel, vice president; Mrs. Bob Coe, parliamentarian; Mrs. John Bobbitt, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Larry Hunt, director.

Union Twp. South candidates

Doris Riegel, a veteran politician, and James V. McClure, will be running unopposed for committeemen in Union Township, South Precinct, at the June 8 primary election.

An active member of the Democrat party, Mrs. Riegel resides at 740 Highland Ave., and has served as committeewoman in the Union South Precinct for four years. Prior to this, she worked at the polls and as a clerk and precinct official. Her first experience in politics came when she worked as a typist at the Democratic State Headquarters in Columbus, under Gov. George White.

McClure has never been a committeeman but decided to run this time because the Repulican party needed a candidate in his precinct. McClure resides at 243 Flakes Ford Road, and is employed at Garner's Truck Service. He also is engaged in farming.

Middle School holds vocal concert

Approximately 300 persons attended the annual Washington C.H. Middle School vocal concert held Thursday night.

Sixth, seventh and eighth graders participated in the concert, entitled a "Bicentennial Salute." The program was directed by Mrs. Gene Hughes.

The program opened with the sixth, seventh and eighth grade choirs singing "Let Us Entertain You," An ensemble of Robin Hendren, Betsy Owen, Loretta Jette, Gwen Lee and Latonda Bailey sang one number.

Miss Bailey later combined with eighth graders Eric Croker, Ben Echard and George Robinson in a quartet and performed in a music and dance routine with Robin Hendren and Gale Eakins to the music of "Singin' in the Rain." Miss Bailey also sang two religious numbers later in the program.

The sixth grade grade choir sang nine patriotic songs followed by a trumpet selection by Debbie Coppock, Rita Berwanger and Mike McDonald.

"The New Editions," a 12-member Middle School vocal group, performed two numbers in the concert and the seventh grade choir sang three patriotic numbers. Ben Echard and Rita Berwanger sang in a duet and Jeff Lewis sang "Annie's Song" and accompanied himself on the guitar.

Shelley Copeland was a soloist in the program which was ended with the seventh and eighth grade choirs combining in the singing of "I Believe."

Scott Lanum was the drummer for the program and Paul Lockman played bass guitar. Stage crew members were Hugh Patton, Mike Hughes, Tim O'Flynn, Brad Penwell, Jimmy Knisley, Andy Huysman, Dennis Breitigan, and Troy Pfeifer.

Mrs. Ralph Yerian was the accompanist, assisted by Missy Krieger.

Jumblatt's sister slain

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Thirty-five persons were kidnaped, and unconfirmed reports said 11 Moslems were executed in Beirut today following the assassination of leftist Moslem leader Kamal Jumblatt's sister.

Heavy fighting was reported in northern Lebanon near the Syrian border, around the Christian hill town of Andket, between Christian and Moslem armored troops of the disintegrated Lebanese army. There was sporadic shelling into Christian and Moslem quarters of Beirut, and a police spokesman said at least 48 persons were reported killed and 96 wounded on all fronts during the night.

Right-wing leaders charged that the murder of Jumblatt's sister, Linda al-Atrash, was part of a plan to undermine President-elect Elias Sarkis' efforts to launch peace talks between Lebanon's warring Christians and Moslems.

A band of gunmen burst into the 55-year-old woman's apartment Thursday, killed her and wounded her two daughters.

The daughters, Noha, 27, and Samar, 18, were reported in critical condition. A report Thursday from Jumblatt's office said Noha was dead, but the hospital said she was alive.

Mrs. al-Atrash's apartment was in an area controlled by the right-wing Christian Phalange party, but Phalangist leaders denied that the killers were from their militia.

Two days earlier a moderate Christian political leader, Raymond Edde, was wounded in an assassination attempt in another Phalangist area. The independent newspaper An Nahar commented today: "There seems to be a group within Lebanon which is determined to blow up any peaceful settlement whenever it appears within reach."

The killing postponed for the second time a meeting between Jumblatt and Sarkis to discuss the Christian president-elect's effort to arrange an armistice and a roundtable political conference of the leaders of all the warring factions.

A spokesman said Jumblatt would be unable to meet Sarkis for several days because he would be busy with his sister's funeral at the family home in Mokhtara, in the central Lebanese mountains.

The Indians in the early frontier days of Ohio were never as numerous as many supposed, perhaps as many as 15,000 of which only 3,000 might have been fighting braves. But their guerilla type of warfare kept the frontier in a turmoil for many decades.

Household items stolen

Numerous household items of undetermined value were reported stolen from a barn on the Prairie Road, Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported.

Robert Dolphin, Mount Sterling, told sheriff's deputies that items such as a television, radio, dinette set, and air conditioner were stolen from his barn located at 5106 Prairie Road. The barn had not been locked, and had served as a storage place for the articles. The incident is believed to have occurred sometime between May 9 and Thursday.

Suzanne C. Matson, 2788 Bulldog Court, told Washington C.H. police officers that her $160 citizens band radio was taken from her locked car sometime after 11 p.m. Wednesday as it was parked in front of Calmar Industries, in the Washington C.H. Industrial Park.

Gary Payton, 17, of 719 Forest St., told police officers that as he was riding his bicycle along Rose Avenue at 8 p.m. Thursday, a male subject caused him to fall from his bicycle and then struck him in the stomach.

A reported vandalism took place in front of the Dixon Clothing Shop, Good Hope, when a soft drink vending machine had a piece broken off of the plastic change holder. Sheriff's deputies said the vandalism happened sometime Wednesday night.

Vora Brown elected Post 25 commander

Vora Brown Jr., 404 Fifth St., has been elected to the position of commander of Paul H. Hughey American Legion Post 25 in Washington C.H. for the 1976-1977 year.

Brown will succeed Russell H. Liston, 989 Ohio 41-S, who has served as the Legion post commander during the past year.

Other officers elected were George Countrymen, first vice preisdent; Charles Carson, second vice president; Fred Allen Sr., adjutant, and Donald Dunn, finance officer.

The new Post 25 officers will begin their terms effective June 14.

Legion members elected to the executive committee were Donald Cockerill, William Jaeckels, H.B. Dixon, R.B. (Bud) Tharp, Tom Myers, Malcom Jette and Liston.

Appointed to positions were Ed Warning, service officer; John Higerd, sergeant-at-arms; Virgil Morgan, Americanism program chairman; Myers, youth program chairman, and Jette, chaplain.

Officers complete courses

Two Fayette County jailer-dispatchers recently completed a three-day radio operation course at the Ohio Peace Officers Training Academy in London.

Jailer-dispatchers Kenneth Hahn and William McKenzie attended the course which dealt with radio procedure, telephone emergency, communication systems capabilities, and the use of teletype and computers.

Approximately 30 officers from police and sheriff's departments throughout the state attended the program.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson, Chief Deputy Robert McArthur, and jailer-dispatchers John Hyer and Dale Butler completed a course in jail management held in Canton.

The course concerned security measures, and the treatment and legal rights of inmates. Classes were conducted by Capital University law professor John Palmer and officials of the federal prison system.

The schools are part of a continuing education system financed by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, and directed by the Buckeye State Sheriff's Association.

Betty Ford visits state

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford campaigns for the election of her husband today in four Ohio cities.

Making her second Ohio visit this month, Mrs. Ford will attend Republican gatherings in Akron, Canton, Dayton and Findlay before returning to Washington tonight.

She arrived in Akron late Thursday after campaigning in New Jersey. She was greeted by Akron Mayor John Ballard and Canton Mayor Stanley A. Cmish.

The first lady's initial speaking engagement was to be this morning at a reception sponsored by the Akron President Ford Committee.

She was then to fly to Dayton to attend a performance of the Dayton Civic Ballet outside the Dayton courthouse, across the street from the local Ford campaign headquarters.

Feds seek consumer comments

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Now is the time to get your two cents' worth in on proposed government rules and regulations affecting everything from airport safety to antacid side effects.

Federal agencies are seeking comments from consumers. If you have an idea, a complaint or some information to add, you can let the government know by following a few simple steps.

Here are some proposed regulations and directions on how to make your views heard:

ANTACIDS

The Federal Trade Commission has proposed that advertisements for over-the-counter or nonprescription antacids carry the same types of warnings now required on the labels of the products. The warnings generally deal with possible side-effects or suggest asking a doctor's advice about use.

The FTC says many consumers don't read the labels and instead rely on advertising for information about antacids. Among the questions the commission is asking are: Would warnings in advertisements affect the ability of manufacturers to communicate the therapeutic effects of the product? What sort of warnings would be appropriate?

June 11 is the deadline for comments which should be sent to Special Assistant Director for Rulemaking, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C., 20580. Identify the comment this way: "Proposal Identifying Issues of Fact — Antacid Rulemaking."

AIRPORTS

The Federal Aviation Administration has proposed requiring major airports to have a detailed medical plan for coping with accidents and other emergencies. The plan would have to spell out facilities and personnel needed to accommodate the maximum number of people who might be on board the largest aircraft authorized to serve the airport.

Among items that would have to be included are: name, location and emergency capability of participating hospitals and other medical facilities; designated areas for sheltering passengers and crew members; the number of surface vehicles and aircraft to be provided by cooperating agencies.

Present rules require airports to provide medical services in emergency plans, but do not describe specifics.

June 1 is the deadline for comments which should be sent to Federal Aviation Administration, Office of General Counsel, Rules Docket, AGC-24, 800 Independence Ave. S.W., Washington, D.C., 20591.

FOOD ADS

The Federal Trade Commission is holding hearings around the country on the first phase of proposals to set standards for nutritional claims in foods ads. (Nutritional claims on food labels already are regulated by the Food and Drug Administration; the FTC plan deals with advertising only.)

The hearings will deal with voluntary claims on natural and organic food; energy and calories; fat, fatty acid and cholesterol content; and health or related claims.

Saturday to be full of tradition

Post 25 set for opener

By PHIL LEWIS

Tradition will highlight Saturday's Paul H. Hughey Post 25 American Legion baseball opener at Washington Senior High School.

The Post 25 team will sport new Bicentennial red, white and blue uniforms and manager Ron Helmick and pitching coach Pat Dawson will be following in their fathers footsteps. Both Helmick's and Dawson's fathers managed the Post 25 team at one time.

There will be 17 players in the dark blue uniforms Saturday when post 25 takes the field against London. Twelve of those 17 are newcomers to Helmick and Legion baseball.

"We will rely on speed, defense and pitching," Helmick said adding that he has plenty of each.

Two of the the top returning players for Helmick are Allan Conner and Mark Fisher. Both held down sports in the outfield last season and composed the fat of the Post 25 batting order.

Conner, a two-time all-South Central Ohio League outfielder and the Post 25 team captain, will be moved to the infield this season. Helmick is looking for a third baseman and Conner is his choice. "He's the most versatile player we got," Helmick said.

Helmick feels the move will strengthen the team defensively. Although Conner is an expert with the glove Helmick has plenty of outfielders, who can flag down a long line drive.

Fisher, who spends his high school season's at second base for the Blue Lions and switches to the outfield for Helmick, has one of the three spots in the grass tied down.

The other two spots will probably go to Jeff Estep and Neil Spears, or Jeff Elliott when he is not on the mound. Estep and Spears started for Washington C.H. and Miami Trace respectively this past season. Bob Wilson, from Washington Senior is also tabbed for outfield duties.

Joining Conner in the infield will be Tim Cleavor of Clinton Massie, Rex Coe of Miami Trace and Scott Johnson of Washington C.H. Coe is tabbed for second base, but can also play shortstop when Cleaver is pitching. Johnson should get the starting call at first. He is one of three all-league players on the Post 25 roster.

Helmick has two experienced players to put behind the plate this season. One, Jeff DeWeese started for Post 25 last season and is coming off an excellent season with the Blue Lions. The second, John Bakenhester started for Miami Trace this past season. Helmick plans to platoon the two catchers. Post 25 plays a rugged schedule with as many as five games in a three day period and he won't be afraid to rest one in favor of the other during the many slated doubleheaders.

Helmick has plenty of pitching depth this season with Cleaver and Elliott heading the list. Cleaver was 6-4 for Clinton Massie and he tossed a no-hitter this season. Elliott posted a one-hitter and was named to the all-SCOL squad.

Two Miami Trace hurlers, Jack James and Stu Foster, are expected to see plenty of action this season. Both were honorable mention all-league choices.

Rounding out the pitching corps will be John Ackley, Zack Adams, and David Van Dyke. Ackley and Adams are returning from last season.

Besides Dawson, Helmick will be aided in the coaching duties by David Grim and John Sanderson, his top assistants last season.

Tug loses duel with Garrett

By The Associated Press

Wayne Garrett vs. Tug McGraw.

"I'm saying to myself, 'don't try and pull him. Just try to go the other way,'" said Met pinch-hitter Garrett.

Two outs and the bases loaded. Ninth inning. Phils ahead 2-1.

"I remember playing with him and he's a good hitter," said ex-Met McGraw, working in relief.

The count is 2-2.

"With the bases loaded and two out, I don't look for the fastball," said Garrett.

"I tried to keep the ball away from him," said McGraw.

"There is no earthly way he'll give me a fastball," said Garrett.

"I tried to sneak the fastball by," admitted McGraw.

In comes the fastball. CRUNCH. Out goes the fastball. Three runs score and Garrett winds up on third with a triple. Mets win 5-2.

"My eyes really lit up when I saw that fastball," said Garrett.

"Sometimes they pop 'em up, sometimes they hit a line drive, sometimes they miss it," said McGraw. "It's a round ball and a round bat ... and anything can happen."

There were only two other games played Thursday in the National League. Chicago beat St. Louis 2-1 and San Diego topped San Francisco 3-1.

The Phils built their 2-1 lead against Jerry Koosman on the strength of Bob Boone's RBI single in the fourth and Ollie Brown's homer in the sixth. Dave Kingman's 17th home run of the season, tops in the majors, accounted for the New York offense until the ninth.

A pinch-hit single by John Milner and an error by Phils starter Jim Kaat started the Mets' rally, and a force play and a brilliant throw by centerfielder Garry Maddox to cut down Bud Harrelson at home on Ed Kranepool's single almost ended it.

Reliever Gene Garber walked Kingman intentionally to load the bases before McGraw came on to face Garrett and the lefthanded batter drilled his threebagger. Roy Staiger got Garrett home with a double for the final run.

In the American League games, the Oakland A's beat the Minnesota Twins 5-3; the Cleveland Indians stopped the New York Yankees 5-3; the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Detroit Tigers 4-3; the California Angels trimmed the Chicago White Sox 3-1 and the Texas Rangers beat the Kansas City Royals twice, winning the completion of a suspended game 5-4 in 10 innings before taking the regularly scheduled contest, 6-4.

Celtics rip Suns, 105-90

BOSTON (AP) — Boston's pro basketball fans are used to watching the Celtics destroy opposing teams with one explosive period. But rarely have they witnessed anything like what they saw in the second game of the 1976 National Basketball Association championship series.

With a capacity crowd of 15,320 screaming loudly Thursday night, the Celtics combined near-perfect offense and defense for the first five minutes of the third period, outscoring the jittery Phoenix Suns 20-2. After that, the Celtics had to put down only one belated Phoenix rally before registering a 105-90 victory and assuming a 2-0 lead in the nationally televised best-of-seven series.

"The crowd really got psyched," Phoenix' rookie center Alvan Adams said afterwards.

What really set the crowd afire was a deliberate foul called against former Celtics' backcourt man Paul Westphal with Boston leading 51-41 early in the third quarter.

Westphal was called for the rare infraction when he grabbed Boston's Jo Jo White from behind as the Celtics' guard headed for what appeared to be an easy layup

Dodgers-Reds tilts draw crowds

CINCINNATI (AP) — It's still only May, but the Reds-Dodgers four game weekend series opening tonight is filling Cincinnati with electricity and a multitude of fans.

"It's the best rivalry in baseball," said Reds third baseman Pete Rose.

Area hotels and motels are booked solid for the weekend. However, there is a large Knights of Columbus convention helping to swell the hostelries.

Sunday's double header has been sold out for months and the Reds report only a few tickets available for tonight's game and the game Saturday afternoon.

The world champion Reds will be looking to unseat the Western Division leading Dodgers who are on top by two games.

Rookie Pat Zachry, 3-0, pits his unblemished record against Don Sutton, 4-4, in the opener.

Zachry outdueled Sutton last week in Los Angeles as the Reds and Dodgers split a two game series.

Cincinnati will have second baseman Joe Morgan back in the lineup for the series. Morgan, National League's Most Valuable Player last season, has been out of the lineup for five days with a sore back.

Both Rose and Morgan commented about the similarity of the two clubs who, in recent years, are perennial contenders for the division title.

Both rely on speed, base stealing and the long ball. Both teams lean to their bullpens, although the Reds more so.

The Reds scheduled Jack Billingham to face Rick Rhoden Saturday, Rhoden shut the Reds out in Los Angeles.

Sunday's doubleheader will see Gary Nolan and Santo Alcala pitching for the Reds against Dodgers Tommy John and Burt Hooton.

Junior softball

Mac Tool defeated Warners Sport, 16-6, Thursday in Junior Girls Softball League action at Eyman Park.

S. Lloyd and P. Milstead homered for the winners.

Since corn silage is normally deficient in both protein and minerals, this can limit your gains and feeding efficiency. However, only 25 lbs. of LANDMARK Silage Plus per ton can increase crude protein content of most silages from the usual 8% to about 12% on a dry basis. Silage Plus is formulated to bring silage protein and mineral levels to those suggested by the O.A.R.D.C. at Wooster, as the result of their research. It's formulated to increase levels of protein 50%, Calcium 100% and Phosphorus 75% approximately.

SILAGE PLUS S-B is for the beef or sheep man who wants the equivalent of 15 lbs. urea, with calcium, phosphorus, sulfur and magnesium, in one package—plus added trace minerals. To be added to silage at rate of 25 lbs. per ton.

Wood bleaching came into its own some years ago when so-called blond finishes became the rage in modern furniture. Actually, bleaching is a very old process that may have been in use thousands of years ago when man discovered that he could change the color of wood with various natural agents.

Today, bleaching is still used as a preliminary to the application of blond finishing materials. It has several other uses, chief among them being to change the wood into a uniform light color from which to begin the entire finishing process, even when the ultimate aim is to apply a stain to make the surface darker again. The idea is that if you begin with a light, even tone, the new stain will take without the danger of a multicolored effect.

Another use for bleach is to remove the coloring from wood that sometimes remains after the old finish has been taken off. If this is done, it is essential that the bleach be applied to the entire surface and not merely to the areas where color remains. This insures the same degree of whiteness over the full surface.

While there are some products on the market to make wood lighter without bleaching, the true bleaches should not be applied to anything but new wood or wood from which the old finish has been removed.

Commercial wood bleaches usually come in different bottles and must be applied separately according to the directions on the containers. It is always important to follow the instructions of the manufacturers of finishing materials, but especially so in the case of bleaches, since they are chemicals and must be handled carefully and in a specific manner. You will need rubber gloves and old clothes that cover as much of your arms and body as possible. Never pour the bleach into anything made of metal. While there are some specially treated metal cans on the market that will withstand the chemicals, the metal containers you have around the house will not do. If any pouring must be done, use glass or earthenware.

For many years, bleaching was done with home-made solutions. One of these called for 3 ounces of oxalic acid crystals in one quart of water, 3 ounces of sodium hyposulphate in one quart of water and one ounce of borax in one quart of water. The oxalic acid solution was applied first with a stiff brush. The hypo solution was applied when the first mixture was partly dry. And the borax solution was put on when the bleach was thoroughly dry, its purpose being to destroy any traces of acid still in the wood. This process worked fairly well, and still does, but the commercial bleaches are scientifically prepared and work better.

Since a bleach of any kind often raises the grain of the wood, sanding is necessary before proceeding with the finishing material. If stain is applied over the bleach, wait a day and then put on a coat of diluted shellac or some other sealer. But again — the key to getting a good result with bleach is to follow the manufacturer's instructions to the letter.

(The techniques of using varnish, shellac, lacquer, stain, bleach and other finishing materials are outlined in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 30 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N. Y. 11743.)

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — The brick stairway at the rear of our house needs some repairs. About a dozen bricks will have to be replaced. The stairway is very old and these particular bricks are split and otherwise damaged. I know pretty much how to remove the old bricks and put in the new ones, since I did the same thing a couple of years ago with three bricks in the same stairway. However, when I did that job, the new mortar between the bricks was very much lighter than the old and the repairs stood out very much. It took about a year before the mortar weathered enough so you couldn't see where the patchwork had been done. How can this be avoided.

A. — Not very easily. While you can buy a coloring additive to put in the mortar mixture, it is black (that was the only kind I could get a couple of years ago) and requires a lot of experimenting to match the old mortar. Too little and there is no result. Too much and the mortar gets too dark. What I finally did was to use the ready-mix mortar as it comes from the bag, adding only water, and then a week later rubbing dirt all over the repaired joints. This made the new mortar less noticeable. One of the most important processes in this type of job is to "cure" the patches by wetting them down every day for several days after the original application of the mixture. This prevents the mortar from drying out too quickly. It is assumed you know that soaking the new bricks for a few hours before setting them in place is also a good idea and for the same reason.

Q. — We are considering having sliding doors put into a large closet of an extra room. The only reason we are hesitating is because of the disadvantage that the doors have to be manipulated to get into one side or the other of the closet, as is the case in a closet we now have in a bedroom. Is there any way we can install sliding doors so that the contents of the entire closet are accessible at the same time?

A. — In some original installations, this disadvantage is eliminated by a construction procedure which permits the doors to open into the walls on either side of the closet. You don't say whether this closet is going into a room already built or whether the room and closet are to be built together. If the latter, the carpenter should have no trouble. If the former, then he will have to judge whether this kind of installation is possible.

Two Armco employes promoted

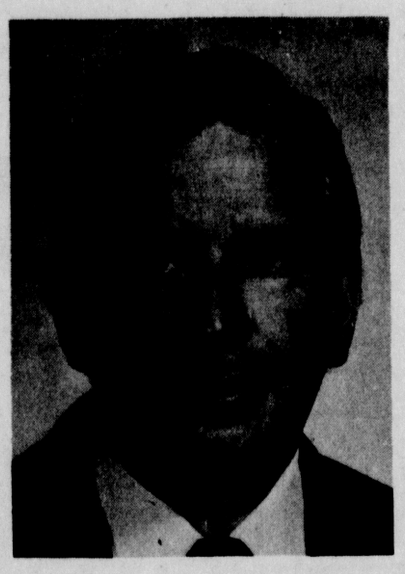
Two employes of the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Products Division plant in Washington C.H. have been promoted.

Edward C. Vollette, plant manager, said Wiley V. Witherspoon, 606 Charlotte Court, has been promoted to the position of superintendent in the connector and roll forming division of the plant, and William C. Autrey Jr., 2654 Old Springfield Road, has been promoted the position of personnel supervisor.

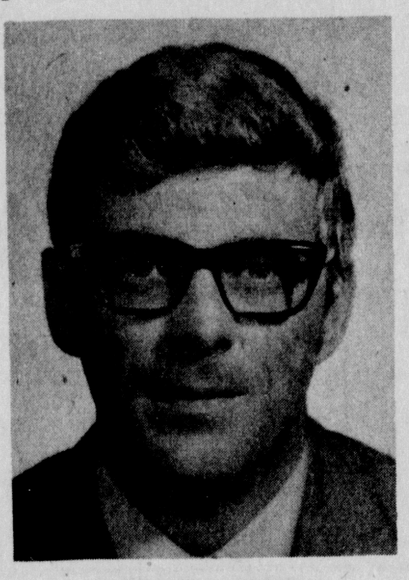
A 24-year veteran employe of the Armco Steel Corp., Witherspoon replaces Wendell Barr, 302 Clearview Road, in the position of connector and roll forming division superintendent. Barr is taking an early retirement this year.

Witherspoon started his career with the Armco Steel Corp. in 1952 as a laborer in the Middletown East Works plant. In 1956 he transferred to the steel buildings plant in Middletown as a scheduler. Five years later he transferred to the Washington C.H. plant as a quality controller and in 1965 was promoted to foreman. He became acting superintendent earlier this year.

A 10-year employe with the Armco Steel Corp., Autrey replaces Leo B. Edwards, 902 Lincoln Drive, in the position of personnel supervisior. Edwards has assumed the position of assistant to the manager and is on special assignment.



WILEY WITHERSPOON



WILLIAM AUTREY

Autrey started his Armco Steel Corp. career as a payroll clerk in 1966 in Middletown. He worked in various capacities with the company until 1969 when he transferred to the metal products division as a personnel correspondent. In 1970 he became benefits advisor and in 1974 he transferred to the Washington C.H. plant as personnel assistant.

Find JFK group studied Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shortly before the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, U.S. officials secretly studied the possibility that Fidel Castro might retaliate against American leaders for their attacks on Cuba, according to informed sources.

Existence of the study was kept secret from the Warren Commission, which investigated the possibility of a Cuban connection in the Kennedy slaying, and, until recently, from the Senate intelligence committee.

Committee investigators came across documents relating to the study in the course of their probe into the performance of the CIA and the FBI before and after the Kennedy assassination, the sources said Thursday.

The panel's findings are expected to be made public within two weeks.

In an article to be published today, the New Republic says the team which performed the study was created by then-Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. But the two sources told The Associated Press that although the attorney general was in over-all command of U.S. operations in Cuba, there is no evidence that he played a role in the workings of the group known as the "Cuban Coordinating Committee."

One source identified a member of the group as Desmond Fitzgerald, a CIA officer involved in a plot to kill Castro that was in progress on the same day President Kennedy was killed.

A second source said other members of the "Cuban Coordinating Committee" included John H. Crimmins, then a State Department Caribbean specialist who now is the U.S. ambassador to Brazil, and representatives of the FBI and Defense Department.

All members of the group were aware of the U.S.-supported commando raids against Cuba, but apparently only Fitzgerald knew about the assassination plot against Castro, sources said.

Existence of the group was first revealed last November in the intelligence committee's report on U.S. attempts to assassinate Castro.

The report described the group as an inter-agency panel established after the 1962 Cuban missile crisis "with responsibility for developing covert action proposals." The report didn't say anything about the group studying the possibility that Castro would strike back.

Two sources said it was not clear what had triggered the study of possible Cuban retaliation, but one source said the timing was consistent with the appearance in September 1963 of an AP dispatch which quoted Castro as saying, "U.S. leaders should think that if they are aiding terrorist plans to eliminate Cuban leaders, they themselves will not be safe."

The AP article has been prominently mentioned in speculation surrounding Lee Harvey Oswald's motive in killing Kennedy. The article appeared in the New Orleans Times-Picayune at a time when Oswald, known to be an avid newspaper reader, was living there.

The Warren Commission concluded that there was no evidence that Oswald was part of a foreign conspiracy.

Hays back home to prepare defense

BELMONT, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Wayne L. Hays, back home in the settling quietness of his Ohio farm, has been consulting attorneys to prepare a defense against Justice Department and House Ethics Committee investigations of allegations that he put bosomy Elizabeth Ray on the congressional payroll as his mistress.

The 65-year-old Democratic chairman of the House Administration Committee said he stands by a statement issued earlier by his press secretary, Carol Clawson, that he has no intention of resigning and "will stand and face the facts that will vindicate him."

Hays and his bride of six weeks, Pat, arrived in these picturesque eastern Ohio farmlands late Thursday after a sixhour drive from Washington.

He declined to talk to waiting newsmen and went immediately inside the big red brick home.

His 21-year-old daughter, Geeta, and her husband Paul Steiner, were awaiting him.

Hays scheduled a campaign appearance today near Steubenville, the largest city in his eight-county congressional district, and the home town of two of his election opponents.

As Hays was preparing to leave Washington Thursday, Rep. Romano L. Mazzoli, D-Ky., told the House that Hays should resign to help restore its prestige.

Hays was not in the chamber at the time.

Mrs. Clawson said Hays "has been meeting attorneys, putting together all relevant information concerning allegations in the Washington Post. The information will be presented to the proper forum at the proper time."

Mrs. Clawson did not elaborate but Justice Department sources in Washington say a federal grand jury has begun hearing testimony about the 33-year-old Miss Ray's position with the Hays' committee.

Sources said the grand jury was asked to consider whether Hays' relationship with Miss Ray might have involved violations of federal laws covering conspiracies to defraud the government or to convert tax funds to personal use.

It was also learned that the House Ethics Committee will meet next week to schedule hearings into the allegations.

Mrs. Clawson said Hays declined to talk to newsmen at his farm home on advice of his legal counsel. She said "he has never been one to shirk talking to the press."

Mrs. Clawson accompanied Hays here.

"Mr. Hays is in good spirits," she said. "His family is standing by him. Based on my knowledge, it's my opinion he has no intention to resign."

Attack housing inspection plan

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — A Purdue University housing specialist says a proposed annual inspection for apartment houses would be a deterrent to more housing.

City officials contend about 10 per cent of West Lafayette's 3,400 housing units are substandard. The regular inspections are expected to ensure that Purdue students can find adequate places to live.

The specialist, Tom Hawkins, said, "I think some landlords are taking advantage of the housing situation, but the majority are doing a good job of supplying safe and sanitary housing."

Property owners would pay $10 annually for inspection and $5 annually for each rental unit.

The American wedding day

Bicentennial love story...

Every year is a special one for brides, but this year has a significance all its own — it's America's Bicentennial. A look back into our history to see what brides and weddings were like in Revolutionary times provides some fascinating information.

The American colonists brought most of their social customs with them fron England, of course, and generally what was fashionable in England was here too.

The Puritan tradition (beginning with Cromwell in the mid-1600's) had frowned on big wedding celebrations, and on merriment of any kind — as a result, a small, quiet marriage at home was the rule.

In fact, in America, home weddings remained the fashion until 1850 or so. However, they were not necessarily small and quiet. In any but the strictest homes there was dancing after a wedding, sometimes far into the night, just as there is today. In rural areas, a wedding was an occasion for several days' worth of partying.

The typical wedding ceremony was fairly simple, in the Protestant tradition (most Americans being Protestant) — there were prayers, a short sermon, the marriage vows, and some hymns. The guests would then drink the "posset", a kind of hot punch — as a signal that the wedding was over and the party could begin.

In early New England the couple's attendants would scramble not for the bride's bouquet, but for her garter — the winner, like the modern bridesmaid who catches the bouquet, was supposed to be the next to marry.

Sometimes the wedding guests would put the bride and groom to bed on their wedding night, drinking toasts and offering prayers in the bridal chamber. Then the new couple would be left alone — if they were lucky!

City brides and grooms kept open house the day after the wedding, receiving visits from friends. Rural couples made visits to neighboring towns or plantations. But the honeymoon as we know it didn't develop until well into the 19th century.

A particularly colorful custom in Revolutionary times was known as "Coming Out Bride" — when bride, groom, and guests would put on all their bridal finery and parade into church on the Sunday, or sometimes for four Sundays, after the wedding.

Early churches were segregated, with men seated on one side and women on the other — but wedding groups would all sit together, "like a pride of peacocks," as one historian put it. At a certain point in the services the newlyweds would rise and turn slowly around, displaying their fine clothes!

And of course, men's fashions in the 1700's were as splendid as women's— men, too, wore silks, satins, damasks and velvets.

Wedding veils were unheard of in the 1700's. Instead, hats, trimmings or flowers were used. It's said that Maria Monroe (the daughter of President James Monroe) along with her sister and mother wore ostrich plumes in their hair! Of course, stylish women in those days wore wigs or very elaborate hair-dos which would make a veil inconvenient at best.

Though times have changed since America was born, the wedding day remains the same in spirit — a very special celebration, shared in by bride and groom and those who love them. So whether your wedding will be old-fashioned or newfangled, you're part of a long and wonderful tradition.

Few changes in bridal gowns over years

Styles in women's fashion have changed drastically over the years, often reflecting the social and economic atmosphere of the times.

Bridal gowns, however, have changed less in their fundamentals than any other type of costuming. The satin, the lace veil, the bridal bouquet, the prayer book, rosary, fan or muff have been constant features.

APPROPRIATE ATTIRE — Cathy admires a wedding gown worn by Mrs. Tim Walters. The gown is a full length quiana knit dress with long chapel train and is trimmed with luxurious venetian lace. The veil is also trimmed with Venetian lace with a pearl trim crown. The dress is from the Martha Washington Shop.

Through the eighteenth century the wedding ceremony was held in the bride's home, but by the end of the Civil War the church had become the approved setting for the fashionable wedding.

In the 1770s panniers (frameworks used to puff out a skirt at the hips) were becoming more exagerated and had become the court dress in France and England — a custom which lasted in England for 75 years.

During the 1770s the pannier was so large the sacque (over dress) closed only at the waist. Consequently, the petticoat became a functional part of the dress. Hair was powdered and decorated with flowers.

During the next 80 years fashion became influenced by a Greek revival, then to a new version of the hoop. Skirts began to swell and at first were held out by numerous petticoats.

Because of the weight of wearing many petticoats, these were soon replaced by a series of whalebone hoops attached by straps over which a petticoat and then a dress were worn.

It was only in the nineteenth century that white bridal gowns became a tradition which continues up to today.

In the next 16 years the hoop diminished with the fullness moving to the back. When the hoop was finally ousted it was not by a rational silhouette but by the irrational bustle — one of the strangest shapes ever adopted.

1876 was also the year America was celebrating its centennial. Many fashions were designed in honor of the anniversary. The military influence was very strong and the dress had a definite tailored look.

It was traditional at this time for the bride to wear her gown to the first dinner party after the wedding. The train of the skirt was laid in large organpipe pleats which gave the necessary fullness for the bustle.

By 1905 brides in general were imposing with their high pompadours, hourglass figures and forward-slanted posture of the Grecian bend. During this period, there was great emphasis on elegant undergarments.

Twenty years later the history of fashion took a revolutionary turn. For the first time in the history of fashion, the dress reached the knees.

WEDDING BANDS—David Roe of David R. Roe Jewelers shows the soon-to-be-wed couple an assortment of wedding bands and rings.

Baubles, bangles wedding bands

Before you and your fiancee set out to buy your wedding rings there are some timely tips that will save you lots of leg work, and help you to make a wise choice.

It is important to go to a jeweler you can trust, who will show you a selection of name brand wedding rings in white and yellow gold.

Fine quality and expert craftsmanship will last a lifetime, the precious gleam mellowing with time and loving wear. There is no significant difference in your choice of color of gold. . .it is a matter of tast. Both offer strength, hardness and resistance to wear, both are equally precious.

Wedding rings should be ordered four to six weeks before the happy event, insuring plenty of time for accurate sizing.

A narrow band will be about half a size smaller than a wide one, since it will slip over the knuckle with more ease.

The design should appear in a continuous flow, showing no break; finishes must be clean and smooth to your touch.

Liberated nuptial legends

The "old country" boasted many surprisingly liberated customs related to courtship, weddings and honeymoons.

Years ago in old Germany, when the hands of the bride and groom were solemnly joined by the priest, a struggle traditionally ensued for who "would have the uppper hand!" The hand that ended up on top would rule the roost.

In the 1800's a similar wedding ceremony tradition was the custom in France. As the groom attempted to put the ring on her finger, the bride struggled to keep the ring from going past her knuckle. If she succeeded, it meant that she would be boss.

From the north of France came the custom involving a 30 foot leap by the bride, from a cliff, into the arms of her waiting groom! Should the bride suffer the least injury on landing, the honeymoon was over.

These are traditions that were the roots of our emancipated brides of today . . . customs Grandma forgot to confide in us.

Elegant wedding gifts they'll really treasure

Don't just wish your favorite bride and groom "live happily ever after." Help them along with a wedding gift that brings beauty, elegance and graciousness to their first home, the Jewelry Industry Council suggests.

A gift of silver, china or crystal for the table is sure to be treasured by the latest generation of wedding marchers with their well-developed tastes for fine things of quality. And you'll be treasured for helping them get started on the kind of lifestyle they want to share in the years ahead.

Today's bride really values silver and the "something special" glow it brings to her table. A piece of flatware that helps complete a place setting makes an important silver gift. Serving pieces and extras, especially teaspoons, are always appreciated by a new bride.

Consider a gift of multi-purpose silver holloware that lets the new bride give her table, or her first home, an imaginative touch. Because today's bride won't reserve her silver just for guests. She'll put its beauty and practical usefulness to work every day.

There are luxury and elegance apparent in the richly decorated china and crystal finding favor with today's bride and groom. But young married demand practicality and modern convenience in china as well. This means oven, freezer and dishwasher properties, serving accessories with unlimited possibilities, even patterns with mix or match potential. All are helpful guidelines to remember when selecting a wedding gift of china for your favorite bride and groom.

A smart crystal gift the entertaining newlyweds will appreciate is special purpose stemware. . .liqueurs, brandy snifters, fluted champagnes.

Decorative china or crystal items to start the bride collecting for her first home should have color and practical uses to make the successful wedding gift list.

And don't forget to consult the Bridal Registry of the bride's jeweler, the Council further advises. It's a gold mine of gift ideas with its up-to-date record of the bride's pattern choices in silver, china and crystal, the bride's preferences, and the items she has already received.

You can't go wrong with a gift the bride herself has chosen!

COORDINATING PATTERNS—Connie Seymour helps the couple select their china, crystal and silver patterns at C. A. Gossard Co.

Sterling qualities of silver valued by today's bride

The 1976 bride isn't so different, it seems, from her predecessors — the ones who married before women's lib swept the country.

According to a recent survey, more than 60 per cent of today's brides-to-be register their tableware choices at the bridal gift registry — and still want the beautiful things that brides have always cherished.

However changed the concept of women's place in the home may be, the love of fine tableware seems as steadfast as ever. And one of the highlights of the pre-wedding period for any engaged girl is opening the lovely china, crystal and silver gifts which she receives.

There's a particularly happy reception awaiting any gift of sterling. For solid silver's not only a lovely possession to be enjoyed for its rich, lustrous gleam and fine craftsmanship, but a treasure to be valued.

Marriage-saving money tips

Marriage can be mighty expensive, especially in the beginning when you're trying to stretch a budget to cover both everyday living expenses and new home furnishings.

Don't let tight money mar the foundations of your new lifetime partnership. Instead, work out a reasonable budget, figure out mutual priorities where money should be spent, and take advantage of money-saving tips whenever possible.

Here are some ways you may be able to economize without feeling the "pinch":

— Whenever possible, cook from scratch. Convenience foods generally cost more than the basic ingredients needed to cook the same meal. And your personal culinary efforts are sure to produce a better tasting meal, as well.

— If you have a choice between washing or dry cleaning a garment, do wash it — it costs less. (Check the clothing manufacturer's sewn-in permanent care label to be sure.)

Dry cleaning bills can eat away at your budget, so skimp on this "luxury" whenever possible. You can easily do this on dry cleanable items too, if they are only spotted or slightly soiled. Apply K2r Spotlifter to the dirty spots; when the spot-lifter dries, just brush the remaining white powder and the spot away.

— Plan ahead when buying furniture. Unless your first apartment or house is the one you intend to live in for several years, it may be more practical not to purchase expensive furnishings right away. Keep future plans in mind, and try to choose furniture you know you'll be able to use later on.

Transform hair into halo with natural-looking color

Particularly when you want to look your best, disaster strikes — or so it always seems. Out of the clear blue, the blemish you never had suddenly appears on your chin; your scalp becomes dry and flaky; your hair loses its sparkle. Your wedding day is fast approaching and you're falling apart!

Now is not the time to despair. As quickly as a case of jitters can cause blemishes, dry scalp and lackluster hair, they can subside — provided you know the cure.

Take the time out to relax. In between the hub-bub of wedding plans, some pampering time is in order.

If you've been neglecting your favorite form of excercise, get back to it. The exercises will relax tense muscles and free your mind of the worries of wedding preparations for a few minutes each day. Try following up your exercise sessions with a warm bubble bath or a quick snooze — heaven for a furrowed brow!

And what time better than the present to indulge in those little luxuries you don't do often enough — like a really good facial, a manicure, an expert haircut.

When you know you're looking good, you've got that heady edge of self-confidence that comes in handy — especially when all eyes are upon you as you walk down the aisle.

Next to the bridal dress, the biggest concern a bride has, appearance-wise, is her hair. A simple, yet attractive, style that will look well under a veil and after you remove it is a must.

Now is not the time to try an avant garde cut — you do want the groom to recognize you. However, a headful of shining hair gleaming with rich, high lighted color would work wonders.

And there's simply no better way to achieve it than with Clairol Balsam Color. Choose a shade slightly lighter than your natural haircolor and just shampoo it in.

The effect you want is subtle — perhaps a bit lighter and brighter than what you have now. The special packette of conditioners that you add to the color guarantees a headful of hair that's been conditioned, colored and given body in one fell swoop.

What's in your head can affect your appearance as much as what's on it. So go ahead, add gleaming color, a romantic bridal veil and relax — of all the times in life, this is one to savor.

Orange blossom

The orange blossom has been a bridal flower since ancient times. The goddess Juno gave Jupiter a "golden apple" on their wedding day — some say the golden apple was an orange; thus its blossom became associated with happiness in marriage.

See professional photographer early

Some are grand and extraordinarily expensive. Others are simple and modestly priced.

Whatever type of wedding you are planning, it deserves to be preserved in professional photographs. A bride must decide to economize on some things, but not on photographic coverage of this all-important occasion. For it is the photographs that will keep the day's events alive in years to come.

Kodak experts advise prospective brides to book a professional photographer as soon as the date is set, especially if she is getting married on a weekend during one of the more popular bridal months — June, August, or December.

Several weeks before the occasion the bride and groom-to-be should sit down with the photographer and plan the type of photos they'll want. Most ask for a formal bridal couple portrait, one of the bride alone, one of the bridal party and immediate families, and several informal photographs of the wedding ceremony and reception.

Look at your photographer's portfolio of other wedding photos he's made and consider different styles you'd like. Wedding portraits can be formal, dramatic and romantic with special photographic effects and props; or they can be informal, casual, even candid, if you prefer.

If you are planning a budget wedding, check the photographer's package prices. It is always best to have him photograph from start to finish for you'll never be able to recreate the event at a later date.

For a more complete set of wedding photographs, perhaps your relatives may wish to give you additional prints as wedding gifts. Your photographer has gift certificates for this purpose. And, you might wish to order additional prints later for your six-month's anniversary.

Wedding photographs make ideal gifts from the newlywed couple to their close friends and relatives. You may wish to have the photographer frame large color prints of the bridal party for holiday gifting. And consider the photographer's collection of Kodak Special Moments cards — a portrait and card all in one for you to express thanks for the wedding gifts you received.

Economical or extravagant, your wedding should be recorded in professional photographs.

GIFT CERTIFICATE—Everett Lovhaug gives Garry and Cathy a $25 gift certificate to Hidy's Food in front of the store's pastry counter which makes one think of cake as in wedding.

Anyway you slice it

"The bride cuts the cake. . .the bride cuts the cake. . ." As the merry guests sing this happy refrain, the bride, her hand steadied by her new husband, cuts the first slice of the tiered white wedding cake.

Did you know this time honored tradition is meant to insure their happiness?

For almost as long as there have been weddings, there have been wedding cakes surrounded by all sorts of romantic traditions. In the time of the ancient Romans, the wedding cake was broken over the head of the bride, its crumbs collected by guests as tokens of good luck.

In merry medieval England, the bride and groom tried to kiss over a pile of tiny wedding cakes brought to the ceremony by their guests, and heaped together in the middle of the table. They were supposed to kiss without disturbing the pile of goodies!

In an attempt to make this tradition less of an obstacle, an itinerant French baker put all the cakes together and iced them as one, thereby giving birth to the much admired tiered wedding cake.

Bridal showers forecast

Looking for an unusual theme for a bridal shower? Think about a garden shower, whether or not the future bride will really have a garden out of doors. Clusters of potted plants in an apartment need lots of TLC and will bring many hours of delight.

Guests can bring seeds, flowering bulbs, unusual plants, handsome pots, plant stands, planting tools, books on growing greens and flower arranging.

Another unusual idea would be a wine shower with an assortment of wines, wine glasses, graceful carafes, pitchers and even cheese boards.

Formal dress relaxed, today's groom comes into his own

Gary prepares for a trim from George Geesling at the Fayette Street Barber & Style Shop

The bride has always been the fashion standout and the focal point of attention on her wedding day . . . and rightly so. The groom and his men traditionally dressed alike. But this spring the groom at last comes into his own.

After Six, Inc., a major influence in formal wear fashions for the man, reports a new fashion development as a direct response to brides who've been seeking to give their mates equal prominence and fashion awareness on their "together-at-last" day.

The formal wear company is introducing for the spring-summer season a distinctive new outfit for the groom, the Charleston. It's a dashing new fashion inspired by the courtly antebellum era.

The Charleston is inspired by the traditional tailcoat with squared-off tails and coat front trimmed in contrasting velvet. It's available in soft shades of candlelight, mist grey, cloud blue, and sparkling white. The company has striven for a total look of elegance and coordination with deeply ruffled shirts and a special groom's sash and butterfly tie to match the jacket trim. Trousers, of course, are perfectly matched.

The groom's men wear the same color, but the formal styling is different. The Newport II jacket features traditional one-button model styling enhanced by a deep U-shaped vest, trimmed with velvet braid. Their shirts and ties match the groom's exactly.

Robert C. Rudofker, President of After Six Formals, reports an overwhelming acceptance for this new look created by his company and available at formal wear rental specialists all over the country.

"Today's young couples," he stated, "want all the glamour and beauty they can pack into the most momentous day of their life. There is no longer any reason for underplaying the fashion role of the men in the wedding party."

This year, for sure, wedding bells will be striking new notes of fashion excitement and elegance.

Reflect your personality in choosing your music

You may not want 76 trombones played at your wedding and 110 cornets may overfill your hall. But why not consider three trombones and perhaps one cornet?

If you like the sound of brass, go ahead and include it in your wedding plans. Young couples today have a much greater latitude in planning not only where they'll have the wedding but all the elements which help make it "the perfect day."

And, if you have friends who play musical instruments, include them.

The American Music Conference says that many about-to-be-marrieds are making their weddings much more reflective of their own personalities than was true even five years ago.

While you'll still find Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" among the ceremonial selections, a great many brides and grooms are more likely to say their vows to the theme from "Elvira Madigan" or even a jazz version of "Yellow Submarine."

Tempting tables for gatherings

A super-looking table setting can camouflage even the simplest food or enhance a gourmet dinner. This is the advice given to brides-to-be by Charles Solt, design director of Lenox China and Crystal, whose patterns are selected by more brides across the country than any other.

Good taste in the basics — fine china, handblown crystal and sterling flatware — pays off in the kind of good looking tables that will carry you through years of successful entertaining, he said.

"Add to these great beginnings, zesty menus planned around a theme, and the unexpected in table decorations and you're almost guaranteed a super gathering, be it a casual dinner for two, a buffet for a dozen close friends, or a Saturday evening dinner party," Mr. Solt added.

Key a menu and table around German, Mexican or French fare, or try an Italian dinner with clusters of red and green peppers and bunches of pasta tied with ribbon as a centerpiece, he suggests. Use available fresh fruits and vegetables according to the season or cluster your favorite bric-a-brac at the table's center.

Great looking tables are easy to create with the variety of beautiful fine china and lead crystal patterns available to today's bride, Mr. Solt said. Lenox Designs dinnerware with traditional florals or geometrics, all rimmed in 24-karat gold or gleaming platinum, and their hand blown crystal stemware comes in shapes and colors to please everyone, ranging from the classically simple with delicately-etched patterns to heavy cut designs.

To ensure beautiful tables for all your entertaining needs, the designer offers the following suggestions when selecting fine china and lead crystal:

Seek the advice of a Wedding Gift Registry Consultant at your favorite store, and register all your tableware needs. Consultants can give you top-notch advice on coordinating china, crystal and flatware and tips on trends and color schemes. She'll make a list of your choices, show them to friends and relatives, and check off their purchases to avoid duplicates.

Select open stock fine china and lead crystal. This means you will be able to add or replace pieces as needed.

Who pays what, where and when

So many details go into your wedding — and each one is important. Deciding who pays for each of them can be confusing. The following list of expenses should help. In general; unless the groom's family offers to help with the reception costs, the whole wedding ceremony is the responsibility of the bride's family.

Optional expenses include:

Rehearsal dinner — either the groom's family or the bride's family and friends give it.

Attendants' dresses — usually bought by the attendants themselves, but the bride may buy them.

Bride's bouquet — usually a gift from the groom, but the bride's family may buy it.

Corsages for mothers and grandmothers — usually provided by the groom, but the bride may want to buy them herself.

Using hand-me-down decorating to create

Chances are newlyweds will not be purchasing all of their furniture before they settle in their first apartment. In fact, they'll probably be filling in with pieces borrowed from parents and relatives. If this situation applies to you, here are some handy do-it-yourself decorating hints.

With time and imagination, decorating with such "conversation pieces" can be fun and rewarding.

To begin, use common sense and tips from experts and be sure to take advantage of the excellent products currently on the market to help save time and work.

Large bureaus or dressers can take on new life by simply refinishing or repainting them. First, sand down and clean the surface. Then apply paint, antiquing base or stain, followed by appropriate sealer. Using a kit makes the job a cinch, and the results will amaze you.

Often, decorators will blend such a piece with the walls so it seems to disappear. This can be accomplished by painting walls with geometric lines or patterns, extending this pattern onto the dresser. Or paper the dresser with the same wallpaper you are using on the walls, then cover with varnish or a plastic sealer.

That rug you borrowed for your livingroom can be easily spruced up by using a convenient rug-cleaning product like Spray 'n Vac that lets you shampoo your carpet while you vacuum. Just spray the foam on the rug, wait until it dries and then vacuum away the dried foam and dirt.

Slipcovering can be accomplished by the home sewer without much difficulty. There are a number of excellent publications on the market that give step-by-step instructions. However, if you are not that handy, colorful pillows strewn on old furniture can do wonders.

Borrowed mirrors can be modernized by refinishing or by covering borders with fabric glued over a bit of padding and stretched over to the back.

And dinette sets can either be repainted or, if you prefer, covered by a pretty linen cloth that reaches the floor. (Then cover your chair cushions to match!)

Decorating with hand-me-downs is a challenge and really a convenience, too. It gives you time to determine your long-range wants and needs, and allows you to budget for those items you'll want to keep for years to come.

Dates for dates

If your rehearsal dinner is to be a big splashy cocktail and dinner affair, it is perfectly proper for your attendants to bring their dates. In that case make sure that invitations are sent out to all your guests, including their dates.

Packing tips on honeymoon trip

After the excitement of your wedding day, you'll be off for your honeymoon. Whether it's a big trip or a small one, you'll save a lot of bother if you plan your packing carefully. Here are some hints:

Pack shoes, hair dryers, clocks, and other heavy things at the hinge side of your suitcase — they'll be on the bottom when you carry it, so they won't crush your clothes.

Pack firmly. Loosely-packed clothes will shift around in transit and wrinkle more easily.

Pack in sections and not in layers - sportswear together, evening wear together, lingerie together. It's easier to get at things that way, and easier to re-pack firmly.

Distribute weight evenly on both sides of your suitcase (pack one heavy article at either end of the hinge), and it will be easier to carry.

Fasten all buttons and zippers, then fold everything in thirds lengthwise — a lengthwise fold will come out naturally as you wear the garment.

Pack all liquids (shampoo, cosmetics) and aerosols in a separate carry-on case.

Take clothes that don't wrinkle easily.

Because you'll be trying to save as much space as possible, take clothes and accessories that you can mix and match.

Initial romance

Inscribing your name or initials, and your wedding date on the inside of each band is traditional and romantic.

To ensure their lasting 'til your golden anniversary, plan to spend about one week's salary for each band. Since price varies with the style and amount of work involved, there is no practical buying guide to use, but the salary guide just mentioned can be a starting point.

Mideast custom

Why do we throw shoes after the bride? Probably it dates from the ancient Middle East, where men would exchange their sandals to symbolize the exchange of property. So shoes signify transfer of authority from the bride's father to her husband.

Survey shows preference for plastic containers

Plastic kitchen accessories offer the best dollar value to consumers when compared with similar items made of other materials, according to 53.8 per cent of the home economists responding to a recent survey. Just over 37 per cent thought metal accessories offered the best value, while glass and ceramic items trailed far behind.

Conducted anonymously by Borden's Lustro-Ware plastic housewares division, the survey also indicated that the majority of homemakers preferred to buy kitchen accessories (canisters, bread boxes, recipe card boxes and the like) in complete matched sets instead of individually.

Seventy per cent of the responding home economists preferred covered plastic storage containers to glass for refrigerator storage of prepared foods, with square and rectangular shapes preferred for easy stacking and space saving.

The multiple choice survey showed the most popular kitchen waste container design to be one with a bag-holding fitted rim and lift-up lid.

Plastic kitchen waste containers were preferred to metal ones by an overwhelming 86.8 per cent to 13.2 per cent. Rust resistance, ease of cleaning and light weight were prime reasons given for the preference, characteristics which also figured prominently in the best dollar value choice.

APPLIANCE HUNTING—Judy Sever shows Cathy and Garry French Hardware's line of small appliances for the household.

Family meeting initiated by groom's family

The first contact between the bride's and groom's families should be initiated by the groom's parents. This can be done by a simple telephone call or letter extending an invitation to dinner at home or in a restaurant.

The bride and groom may wish to attend, if only to perform the necessary introductions.

Should the groom's family not make the initial overture, it is perfectly proper for the bride's parents to do so.

In those cases where the parents live at too great a distance from each other for a convenient get-together, a congenial letter from the mother of the groom is acceptable.

OUT SHOPPING—Garry awaits to approve Cathy's selections at the cosmetic counter at Risch's Pharmacy. The selections can help keep a bridelooking her finest.

INSURANCE NEEDS—Dick Willis discusses the insurance needs of Cathy and Garry. A necessity that few newlyweds can do without.

St. Lucia honeymoon offers fun in Carib sun

If you and your spouse are in search of a honeymoon in paradise, then St. Lucia, a small island in the Caribbean will not disappoint either of you!

With the weather, scenery, accommodations, cuisine, sports and entertainment facilities, shopping and the hospitality of the natives just what it should be, the most discriminating visitors are assured of an out-of-this-world honeymoon.

Harmonizing with nature's breath-taking hills and beaches is the luxurious resort complex, La Toc, situated on a large, unspoiled white beach about two miles from Castries, capital of St. Lucia.

Considered t to be one of the finest facilities in the Caribbean, the Hotel La Toc and La Toc Village of 60 private cottages is as continental in taste as it is British in hospitality and Caribbean in ambience.

Each of the hotel's 150 air-conditioned bedrooms has a balcony with a tropical view and the ground floor rooms each have private patios for easy access to the beach.

Dining in any of the resort's restaurants is a gourmet's delight. The accent in the formal dining room is elegantly French and many French specialties fill the menu.

An alternative is the informal grill room and bar, a favorite night spot, where entertaining and dancing continue until the wee hours of the morning. The other restaurant, in the village, is an ideal place to cap the night.

To work off the calories, one will have to choose between the nine hole par 32 golf course, the championship Har-Tru surface tennis courts complete with floodlights or the sailing, swimming and fishing for which the Caribbean is noted.

La Toc Village is adjacent to the hotel but different in concept. Designed to provide accommodations for those who want the most informal living without sacrificing comfort, the seaside cottages, ready for instant occupancy, come in one and two bedroom styles and depending on size, with a built-in pool.

And when the two of you think you've had enough of paradise, you might want to take a side trip to Barbados, 40 minutes away . . . or head back home — although we guarantee it will be reluctantly!

Let them eat cake

Whether a wedding be large or small, traditional or in a country garden, the wedding cake adds beauty and excitement to the day.

An added modern day custom is to put the top layer of the cherished cake in the freezer, to be savoured on their first anniversary.

BEHIND THE WHEEL—Cathy tries out the drivers seat while Garry gives the car a good going over at John Duff's Chevrolet. A car is a necessity for most married couples. It also helps them get to their honeymoon destination.
